Fine Girls Many. Only 575% Profit. Drunk, in the Air. A Genuine Octopus.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

TWENTY AMERICAN girls went to play golf in England. Eleven have already won British golf matches. Not a bad average. All parts of the United States produce girls with extraordinary mental and physical powers. California, where you grow in sunshine summer and winter, produces the unequaled Helen Wills.

THIS COUNTRY has no monopoly on fine, adventurous young women. Amy Johnson, golden-haired 22-year-old British girl, flying from England to Australia alone, landed yesterday in India, two days ahead of all masculine records. Miss Johnson, now safely past the dangerous Indian desert, is beating all world records, in a tiny Moth plane, smaller than Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis. Her trip covers 11,000 miles, and she expects to fly back in the same plane.

To save weight, the young lady, every time she lands and takes a bath, borrows a change of underclothing. That is racing.

THE GREAT gambling house at Monte Carlo is sad. Last year's profits amounted to only 575 per cent, lowest in years.

That compares well with the interest rate on a government bond, or dividends on legitimate industrial stocks. But it isn't much for the gambling house.

That 575 per cent interests those that are foolish enough to gamble, on horse racing, in gambling houses, or otherwise. So called "honest games" are arranged to yield "the house" a certain profit of about 40 per cent on every dollar bet. You can imagine what dishonest games make.

Elbert Anding, operating a plane for profit, took two women, three men, up 1,400 feet. One man, drunk, tried to take the controls from Pilot Anding. Everybody in the plane was in deadly danger, when Anding struck the drunkard on the jaw, knocking him senseless between the passenger seats. The drunken passenger, after Anding landed the plane, stumbled out and began throwing stones at the cockpit.

Bootleg whisky is of poor quality.

IN THE Daily Mail of Brisbane, Australia, an advertisement shows Uncle Sam as an octopus, with top hat, stars and stripes, big cigar and chin beard, seizing upon the oil wealth of Queensland.

Large type says:

"Australian wealth primarily for Australians."

The Brisbane Daily Mail says Americans are not wanted there, seizing oil wealth within the British empire.

THE BRISBANE Daily Mail editor ought to come here and see what the Shell Oil Company, managed by Sir Henri Deterding, running the gigantic British-Dutch oil concern, is doing.

Deterding, with his Shell Oil Company exploiting oil deposits all over the United States, is the most effective octopus on record. What he does to our native-born oil octopuses makes them shed salty tears.

DETERDING even wins in America a competition for supplying the Japanese navy with oil, selling to Japan oil cheaper than it ever was before, getting it from American oil fields, and taking the profit abroad. That you might call a FIRST CLASS octopus.

Great Britain has nothing to learn from us in the octopus line.

MANY REMEMBER when the Panama Canal was suggested, how the gigantic sum staggered imagination.

We lent forty times that sum to Europe to help the processes of killing, and staggered nobody but little people that sold Liberty Bonds far below par.

NOW THE War Department studies the plans for a bridge over the Hudson River at Fifty-seventh street in New York.

It would cost $180,000,000, but that agitates no one.

We have passed into the billion-dollar era. Mere millions attract little attention.

COPPER, VERY feeble recently, rose to 13 cents a pound, some comfort for producers.

That metal should be selling over 20 cents a pound, and never under. It would do that if the people generally knew the importance and value of copper in construction.

The people would know that if copper men knew how to advertise.

WEST POINT DISMISSAL AWAITED

Two-Year Marriage Revealed After Army Balks Quitting For 'Major General's Pay'

NEW ORLEANS, May 13.—(AP.)—Records in the court at Gretna, Jefferson Parish, La., today revealed that Christian Keener Cagle, the "redhead" Army football star, and Miss Marion Munford Haile, a pretty auburn-haired girl of New Roads, La., were married on August 25, 1928.

The marriage was performed by George J. Trauth, justice of the peace of Gretna, who went back through his records and located the certificate.

The age of both Cagle and his bride was given as 23 years. Cagle gave his address as 543 South Ann street, New Orleans, and his bride's address as Baton Rouge.

WIFE GOES NORTH

The marriage certificate shows that the bride's father is deceased. Her mother is Mrs. Valentine Herbert Naile.

Mrs. Cagle left yesterday on a visit to New York.

The announcement of the marriage, kept secret for two years, surprised relatives of Cagle as it did his wide circle of followers on the gridiron, with the exception of a few close friends.

Cagle met Miss Haile four years ago while she was a student at Southwestern University at Lafayette and it was there the romance had its start.

WED ON FURLOUGH

After Cagle went to West Point his fiancee attended Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge and Newcomb College at New Orleans.

In August, 1928, while Cagle was on furlough in New Orleans the youthful couple decided to wed.

A justice of the peace was just leaving his office when the couple, accompanied by a few friends, including Dan Whitney, artist, of New Orleans and New York, ar-

ANTI-BLUE LAW VOTE SWELLS

Registered voters from South Side and North Side wards are strongly opposed to the Blue Laws of Pennsylvania.

The first returns in volume from these populous areas of the city received in the Blue Law poll of Pittsburgh, conducted by the Sun-Telegraph, register an overwhelming sentiment for repeal of the Act of 1794.

The latest returns do not affect the ratio of eight-to-one in favor of repeal and against continuance of the existing Blue Laws but increase substantially the numerical lead for repeal, with 5,929 ballots now tabulated.

REPEAL VOTE HEAVY

These are divided as follows:

For the Blue Laws	616
For modification	353
For repeal	4,960

Eighty-four per cent of the voters heard from favor repeal.

FIGHT STEEL FREIGHT RAISE

Increase Set for May 20 Would Cost Industry Here Millions, Says Complaint

Charging that Pittsburgh's industrial development will receive the most telling blow in its history if proposed increases in short haul freight rates on steel are allowed to stand, leading trade interests have joined with the Chamber of Commerce in a fight against the railroads of this district.

Complaints against the new rates, which are scheduled to go into effect on May 20, have been filed by the Chamber of Commerce, the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation and the subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation.

COST SEVERAL MILLION

The total cost to the steel industry of Pittsburgh from the increased rate is expected to reach several million dollars annually. The Jones & Laughlin Company in its brief estimated the direct increase in the cost of its own shipments at $250,000 annually.

The increased rates announced by the railroads cover shipments of products for short distances in the vicinity of Pittsburgh. The new rates range from 106 to 230 per cent over the old rates.

The briefs charge that no such increases have taken place in other important industrial districts and that the business of Pittsburgh will be severely handicapped.

PLANTS JEOPARDIZED

Pittsburgh growth has been largely due to the advantage of locating manufacturing plants close to their sources of steel supply. The complaints state that this advantage will be lost to Pittsburgh if the proposed heavy penalties are placed on the cost of getting their materials.

Other districts, which have not been penalized by excessive short haul freight rates, will be able to take business from Pittsburgh.

In many cases production costs will be enormously increased by higher rates of interplant shipments. The rate from Jones & Laughlin's Pittsburgh plant to Aliquippa will be increased from 3.5 cents per 100 pounds to 8 cents. From Blawnox to Pittsburgh the rate will be jumped from 3.5 cents to 7 cents. From Homestead to Pittsburgh the rate will increase from 2.9 cents to 6.5 cents.

Local traffic managers assert they intend to fight the new rates with every means at their disposal in order to ward off the damage to the growth of the Pittsburgh district.

Jess Petty to Face Phillies Here Today

Although both of the Waner boys and Pie Traynor are on the hospital list, the Pirates today were more hopeful than they were yesterday morning. They were able to break their losing streak yesterday by trimming the Robins in the final game of the series. The score was 6 to 2.

Burt Shotton led his Phillies into the city this morning. They are scheduled to meet the Oaklanders in four battles. Jess Petty will pitch for the Pirates. Manager Shotton is expected to call upon Ray Benge or Harry Smythe.

City policemen on the daylight shift guarding the home and study of Dr. Day, Christ Methodist Episcopal Church pastor, who is counting the strikers' ballots on the proposal to return. The Rev. Dr. Day and his secretary handling some of the ballots, coming in daily from the striking drivers. Dr. Day borrowed two locked ballot boxes from the county.

POLICE FEAR OUTBREAK ON STRIKE BALLOTS

Six Officers at Residence And Study of Minister In Charge of Peace Count

Six policemen were assigned today to guard the residence and the study of Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, in charge of the counting of ballots on the proposal to end the taxicab strike.

The police were assigned to work in three shifts for fear that violence might break out in connection with the count of the strikers' vote.

GUARD REQUEST DENIED

Dr. Day said today that he had not requested the police guard. He declared, however, that he had been pestered with phone calls at all hours of the night and day and had to have his home telephone disconnected.

Dr. Day announced that this morning he had already received 400 ballots out of a total of 1,410 to be cast by the striking drivers. The count will be completed by noon Thursday and police guard will be maintained until that hour.

Dr. Day said that 250 ballots, which had been mailed, were returned to him, because the strikers had moved or from some other cause. He asked that the strikers eligible to vote, who have not received a ballot, appear at his office between 1 and 9 p. m. tomorrow to vote.

The ballots will be counted in the study of the church at Aiken avenue and Baum boulevard. Two official ballot boxes were requisitioned from the county for the task.

'REBEL' COUNT VARIES

Reports of attendance at the meeting of the faction fighting the taxi settlement varied today from 200 to 400. Alec T. Ilford, chairman of the strikers' executive committee, said today that by actual count there were 110 men at the meeting in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church hall yesterday. He said:

"By actual count, there were 110 men at the meeting, which was called by the radicals. Of these, 87 were drivers. The attempt made to discredit Father Cox was unfair and does not represent the feelings of the majority of the drivers. He has been our champion in the strike and it was his efforts that brought us to settlement. The vote on the proposal, which is sponsored by him and should be called 'the Father Cox Agreement' will go over by a big majority."

J. E. Tait, striking cab driver, today denied that he was a member of the Communist party and that he had been connected with the Trade Union Unity League, alleged Communist organization.

Walter S. Laird, vice president of the Parmelee Transportation Company and president of the Yellow Cab Company, today was elected president of the Green Cab Company, succeeding Paul B. Houston.

FRENCH LOWER SEA HOP TIME

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, May 13.—(AP.)—With a trans-Atlantic seaplane flight record of 20 hours and 12 minutes, Jean Mermoz, French aviator, will make a triumphal entry into this city tonight.

The history-making achievement of the flier established a new record for transportation of mail across the South Atlantic and reduced to three days letter postage from Europe and to four days the transportation of mail to Buenos Aires.

His hop of 3,400 kilometers (2,125 miles) from St. Louis, Senegal, to Natal, was made under a variety of weather conditions, the latter hours spent in extreme peril and discomfort.

Laranetta, in his suit, charged his wife with cruelty.

Brazil Celebrates Freeing of Slaves

RIO JANEIRO, May 13.—(AP.)—Brazil today celebrated one of the most important of its holidays, the forty-second anniversary of emancipation of the slaves.

It was in 1888 that Princess Isabel, acting as regent in the absence of Don Pedro II, emperor, in Europe, issued a proclamation freeing all the slaves.

Snell Ready to Quit Commerce Chamber

The resignation of A. V. Snell, general manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, was predicted late today as the directors met to elect officers.

A report on the status of the position of general manager was scheduled to be presented to the board 30 minutes before convening for the regular session to hear the report of the nominating committee and elect officers.

Snell, it was stated, had considered the question of resigning for some time and was prepared to make his announcement immediately on the opening of the board's session.

Snell came here in 1925 from Jacksonville, Fla., recommended by officers of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

He effected practically a reorganization of the chamber, introducing divisions of the work, each headed by a high salaried secretary.

Snell today would say only that there had been "some talk" of his impending resignation.

Nansen, Arctic Hero, Dies Planning New Flight

OSLO, Norway, May 13.—(AP.)—Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, famous Norwegian Arctic explorer, humanitarian and author, died with dramatic suddenness today at the age of 68 while in the midst of plans for a Zeppelin flight over the North Pole next year.

His death was so sudden and unexpected that he was alone when he died, neither his relatives nor a doctor being present.

For some time he had been confined to his bed by an attack of phlebitis, or inflammation of the veins, in one of his legs. During the last few weeks, however, he felt better and was able to get up again.

Shortly after noon today he was suddenly attacked by paralysis of the heart and died in comparatively few minutes.

The famous explorer, who made several trips to the Arctic, the most noted being the "Fram" expedition in 1893, also gave much of his life to relief work after the World War, being particularly interested in efforts to establish an Armenian national homeland.

He was widely known in the United States, where he frequently lectured, his last visit being in 1929, when he outlined his plans for the North Pole flight which was being sponsored by the Aero Arctic Society.

Non-Kicking Policeman Dropped

Policeman Herbert Aiken, of the North Side district, was suspended today by Inspector Charles Faulkner for refusal to "kick in" a door in an effort to capture a man sought in a stabbing affray.

Policeman Aiken had gone to the home of Robert Swain, 1309 Juniata street, sought in connection with the stabbing of Tony Harding, occupant of a houseboat at the foot of Pennsylvania avenue.

Aiken called back to the police station and said he could not get in Swain's home. He was told to kick in the door and when he refused, Inspector Faulkner went and broke down the door himself. Swain was not found.

Following the suspension, Aiken resigned from the police force.

LONDON PACT GIVES BRITISH VAST NAVAL ADVANTAGE

PARITY GIVEN U. S. PROVES MYTHICAL

Inferiority in Bases and Smaller Merchant Marine Of America Overlooked

By CAPT. N. H. GOSS, United States Navy.

United States Naval Academy, 1905; commanded destroyers and convoy escorts in European war zone during World War; graduate Naval War College; now commanding the United States ship Sirius. Capt. Goss is a gratical sea-going officer who has devoted much study to the subject of sea power and is a well-known writer on naval subjects.

The London Treaty proposes the following cruiser limits:

8-INCH CRUISERS

America, 18 of 180,000 tons; Great Britain, 15 of 146,800 tons; Japan, 12 of 108,400 tons.

6-INCH CRUISERS

America, 143,500 tons; Great Britain, 192,200 tons; Japan, 100,450 tons.

TOTAL CRUISER TONNAGE

America, 323,500 tons; Great Britain, 339,000 tons; Japan, 208,850 tons.

Bases Ignored

It authorizes a larger tonnage of cruisers for Great Britain than for us but makes no allowance to us for either the superior British merchant marine or for their superiority in bases.

It accords Japan an increased ratio of cruiser tonnage but does not take into consideration our small merchant marine or our weakness in bases.

It requires us to cancel at least five of our 8-inch cruisers already authorized.

This is in line with the previous British demands that cruisers be divided into two classes and that the number of 8-inch cruisers be limited but directly opposed to the position we took at the Geneva conference.

It agrees to Japan's demand for a cruiser allowance above the 5-5-3 ration.

Parity Mythical

This is called cruiser parity.

The reason for our previous position regarding the cruiser type starts from our naval base limitations but has also another and particularly important reason. This is because merchant ships are all potential auxiliary cruisers. Were all regular men-of-war abolished, there still would be naval power. All that would be necessary would be to arm existing merchant vessels, and the country with the largest merchant marine, provided it had ports at necessary and convenient points at which to shelter and supply them, would dominate the sea.

This is something to always bear in mind for it is not only an underlying basis of naval strength but a reason why particular classes of various types of men-of-war are valuable to different countries.

Great Britain has by far the largest merchant marine in the world with ports conveniently disposed on which to base them. Japan has a comparatively large marine with many suitable harbors besides close and interior lines of communication with her sources of raw materials and markets.

Distances Great

We on the other hand have a small merchant marine with long lines of communication and few bases.

The natural characteristics of merchant vessels preclude them from readily mounting the larger and more powerful guns. The foundations to support them would use up too much useful space in peace time and the stowage and supply of heavy ammunition is impracticable.

Most any merchant vessel, however, may easily carry guns, many up to 6 inches in size, and the larger and faster ships so equipped make useful and valuable auxiliary cruisers.

Real Crux of Issue

Cruisers are already limited in size to 10,000 tons. This is about the minimum on which to obtain high speed in rough weather at sea or the long cruising radius essential for our ships on account of our scarcity of naval bases.

Such a vessel can, however, carry a reasonable number of 8-inch guns and this is very important because there is a great difference between the value of a 6-inch gun and an 8-inch gun.

Accordingly a cruiser carrying 8-inch guns is far superior to any merchant ship armed with 6-inch guns. It is faster and since its 8-inch guns greatly outrange 6-inch guns it can overwhelm any merchant vessel with comparative impunity to itself.

This is the real crux of the cruiser question and this is why responsible experienced technical opinion in the Navy, realizing our limitations as to bases and the relatively small size of our merchant marine, has consistently favored only the large cruisers mounting 8-inch guns.

Both the British and the Japanese with their secure position, supported by their bases, and the potential support of their relatively large merchant marines each were able to build a considerable number of the smaller cruisers that are more handy and in some cases more advantageous for fleet work. As these fleet cruisers are largely used for screening, communication duties and breaking up destroyer attacks, the 6-inch gun is ample as their weapon.

Seize Advantage

Despite this, however, both the British and Japanese promptly proceeded with substantial programs of the large cruisers mounting 8-inch guns before we authorized any.

The Japanese, clever at sensing their own advantage and realizing the great value of their naval bases to them, proceeded to mount 8-inch guns on cruisers smaller than 10,000 tons so that before the beginning of the London conference they had already laid down and largely completed 12 cruisers mounting 8-inch guns.

This, with their well sustained perseverance, gave them a strong trading point at London where they sought and obtained not only a materially increased ratio in cruisers but under this treaty they would have 12 to our 15 8-inch cruisers at the end of 1936.

Would Lack Power

We are also assigned a considerable tonnage of low-power cruisers, about 75,000 tons in addition to our present 10 omahas, and 45,000 tons more if we can be persuaded to scrap three additional 8-inch cruisers.

But since these would have to be also large vessels in order to have sufficient radius to cover our long lines of communication or accompany our fleet at sea to our vital areas, they would lack the high maneuvering qualities desirable for fleet work and would entirely lack the preponderant power over armed merchantmen which the 8-inch cruisers have and so would relatively weaken our strength in cruisers.

The London treaty is so drawn as to also enable the British to replace their older cruisers, still less than 20 years old, with 90,000 tons of new ones.

When we consider that we could have a margin of only three 8-inch cruisers over the British; that the British are allowed a substantially greater total cruiser tonnage than we; that until 1937 we could have a margin of only three 8-inch cruisers over the Japanese, possibly never any more, to offset all their superiority in merchant marine and bases, we realize that this London treaty not only reduces our relative strength in cruisers but makes it impossible for us ever to overcome the handicap of their merchant ship and base strength.

Round World Flier Gets Lost in Storm Here

Two German fliers, one who flew around the world, today were planning to bring their plane to a local airport after having had to set it down late yesterday at a Sarver, Pa., farm due to storm conditions here.

The fliers, Miss Antonie Strassman and Baron Koenig von Warthausen, here under the auspices of Gimbel Brothers, flew over the district an hour in seeking Bettis and Rodgers Fields.

The fliers' visit is in connection with Gimbel's exhibit of German airplane models. Miss Strassman and Baron von Warthausen were to be guests at a tea in their honor this afternoon. Throughout the week, Miss Strassman will appear daily at 2:30 p. m. and speak on flying.

Other planes exhibited include Miss Strassman's new Junker, a model of the Dornier 150-passenger DOX and smaller DQJ and DO8.

PINCHOT FIRES AT ATTERBURY

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who has aligned himself with the Davis-Brown ticket, Earlier in the campaign, Gen. Atterbury was denounced by Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

Former Gov. Pinchot, campaigning for Republican nomination for Governor, sent Atterbury a telegram in which he charged the railroad executive with issuing orders to company employes directing them to vote for Francis Shunk Brown. This action, Pinchot declared, violates "The rules of decency in politics," and he called upon Atterbury—as president of the railroad, as well as Republican National Committeeman from Pennsylvania—to revoke the order.

BACK TAXES CITED

The telegram then went on:

"In both capacities your action is without excuse but, if it is impossible to excuse, it is easy to understand it.

"At the beginning of this month the State of Pennsylvania claimed from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company more than $6,700,000 in back taxes, not including the years 1928 and 1929. Some of these overdue taxes date as far back as 1921.

"A state administration friendly to the railroad company would save it many hundreds of thousands if not millions of dollars by the simple expedient of allowing a reassessment and thus wiping out years of interest on millions of dollars.

"As Republican state committeeman you have not only violated the rules of decncy in politics by taking sides within the Republican party, but you have permitted or more probably directed Bernard J. Myers, one of your legal counsel of the Pennsylvania Railroad and its representative at Lancaster, to take the chairman ship of the Brown state committee.

"I call on you to do two things and do them at once:

"First—Revoke the orders issued to the Pennsylvania Railroad employes and cease interfering with their right as free American citizens to vote as they believe right.

"Second—Publicly withdraw yourself as a member of the war board managing the Brown campaign in obedience to the principle that it is utterly wrong for any official of the Republican party to take sides in a primary campaign. Roosevelt and every President since has stood squarely on this principle. The Philadelphia organization disregards it and so does the Pittsburgh organization, but people with even the smallest sense of political decency do not."

It was genuine near-beer—nothing else—so the agents went on their way.

Tony said he guessed he must have put too much air pressure in the barrel.

SENATORS QUIZ STIMSON ON NAVY PACT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—A veritable barrage of questions bearing on naval parity between the United States and Great Britain was directed at Secretary of State Stimson today when he again appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for questioning concerning the new London naval treaty.

Stimson staunchly defended the pact of London, declaring:

"The treaty takes the United States out of a condition of inferiority and places it in a condition of superiority."

Senators on the committee exhibited a lively curiosity as to how this figured out, and Stimson was plied with questions.

DISCUSS COMBAT POWER

Senator Swanson (Dem.), Virginia, asked whether in considering comparative fleet strength of Great Britain and America the American delegation considered only battle fleet strength. Stimson replied the major consideration was the "combat power" of the two navies but that the commerce power also was thoroughly discussed.

Senator Robinson (Rep., of Indiana, demanded:

"Now in order to have a Navy commensurate with that of Great Britain, shouldn't we have a larger number of 8-inch guns to meet the potential power of converted British merchant ships?"

"To give a bird's eye view," replied Stimson, "I would say that this treaty takes the United States out of a condition of inferiority and places it in a condition of superiority."

NAMES ADVISORS

Swanson asked the secretary if any American naval expert at London believed the treaty did not give parity with Great Britain in battle fleet strength.

Stimson replied there was not.

Stimson inserted the names of all the American naval advisors to the United States treaty delegation, on request of Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California.

"It's a fact that the three ships the United States will scrap under the treaty are armed with 12-inch guns, while the five that Great Britain will scrap are armed with 13½-inch guns, isn't it?" asked Senator David Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania.

"Yes."

"Then there was very grave disparity before the treaty," interrupted Robinson.

"There was a discrepancy, which would have continued from four to six years longer than it will under this treaty. In four of the five ship categories," said Stimson, "we have absolute mathematical equality."

Swanson asked if under the treaty the United States destroyer allowance satisfied the American naval advisors. Stimson said all were satisfied.

PROGRAMS ALIKE, CLAIMS

The American-British cruiser program, said Stimson, would be "practically the same" under the treaty.

DISMISSAL IS AWAITED

rived and he performed the ceremony, not realizing he was doing it for a celebrity.

The whirlwind culmination of the college romance made Cagle late in reporting back to West Point, but Cagle and witnesses succeeded in keeping the wedding a secret until today when the records were found.

TO LEAVE ARMY

Cagle recently announced that he would resign his commission immediately upon graduation to take a job with a bond house in New Orleans with time out in the fall for coaching football at a small Southern college.

This brought a statement from F. Trubee Davison, acting secretary of war, indicating that Cagle would not be permitted to resign, but would have to serve four years in the Army, as each cadet promises to do when he enters West Point.

Now, however, Cagle faces immediate expulsion from the academy, in which event he will be free to go ahead with his business activities through which, according to his statement, he expects to make immediately a salary "larger than that of a major general in the Army."

DISMISSAL PREDICTED

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 13.—(AP.)—Immediate dismissal of Christian Keener Cagle from the Military Academy was forecast today by Army officials following news dispatches confirming reports of the Army football captain's marriage nearly two years ago, in direct violation of West Point regulations.

Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, commandant, was not prepared immediately to take official action or make any statement, but the indications were that Cagle would be called summarily to account.

World War Veteran Held as Slayer

WOODSFIELD, O., May 13.—Roscoe Suter, 42, World War veteran, of Hannibal, shot and killed Ray Tisher, 24, outside the latter's home, early today. Monroe County authorities charged the shooting was the outcome of a quarrel.

Suter was later found asleep in an outbuilding near his bachelor quarters. According to the prosecuting attorney, he declared he was drunk. Frank Boegtley was held as a material witness.

ANTI-BLUE LAW VOTE SWELLS

10 per cent advocate the Blue Laws as they are and 6 per cent want modification.

The tabulation for the day included 931 ballots, with 85 favoring continuance of the Blue Laws, 45 for modification and 801 for repeal.

DIVISION OF VOTE

The total vote to date is divided between men and women as follows: For the Blue Laws, 367 men and 249 women; for modification, 205 men and 148 women; for repeal, 3,547 men and 1,413 women.

The total vote in each ward is assuming substantial proportions and tabulation by wards will begin in a day or two, to be followed by daily ward tables.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Philadelphians who favor the repeal of the Sunday Blue Laws of 1794 led by nearly four to one last night at the end of the second week of the Philadelphia Record's city-wide poll to obtain the sentiment of 600,000 registered voters.

More than 135,000 persons had replied to the questionnaire. The vote:

For the Blue Laws	26,224
For modification	7,763
For repeal	102,944

regular mail plane from Natal in which they will arrive here tonight.

Landing was made at 6:12 a. m., (5:12 a. m. Pittsburgh time), at the flier's exact destination, Natal, near the northeastern tip of the continent.

GETS MAIL FROM PARIS

The plane, a postal hydroplane, left Perpignan, France, for Saint Louis on May 2. It picked up mail yesterday which had been brought Saturday night by plane from Paris.

In flying over the Atlantic it spanned a route previously always made by fast destroyers. The plane was sighted over Fernando do Noronha, the Brazilian penal colony, at 5:45 a. m. (1:45 a. m., Pittsburgh time).

Receptions for the fliers were being arranged today here and in several other cities.

NINTH SUCCESSFUL TRY

This flight was the ninth made successfully across the South Atlantic. The pioneers over the route were Capt. Sacadura and Capt. Coutinho, Portuguese, who flew from Lisbon to Rio Janeiro by way of the Canary Islands in 1922.

The eighth trip was made last year by Maj. Tadeo Larre-Borges, Uruguayan, and Lieut. Leon Chalie, French, who flew from Seville, Spain, to San Antonio, Northeastern Brazil.

CHILDREN HERE TO GET LION

Pittsburgh children will be presented a lion cub, two male monkeys and possibly a duiker, all from South Africa, as gifts from Mrs. Edmond Englert, of 1520 Beechwood boulevard.

The animal visitors, except the duiker, are romping about the Englert home today, sort of souvenirs brought back by Mrs. Englert from a 47-day tour of South Africa. The duiker is being detained in New York City awaiting results of tests to determine if it can enter the country. It is an animal resembling a young deer of the antelope family and was obtained at Johannesburg.

The lion cub, about three months old and named Gen. Jan Smuts, doesn't miss the zoo surroundings of Pretoria, according to Mrs. Englert. The monkeys, Umtata, nine months old, and Trinidad, 1½ years old, are inseparable, with the youngest one ever guarding its companion.

EXPLAINS AID TO IRENE

SMITHMILL, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ella J. Mountz, wealthy Smithmill resident, today said, in commenting on her interest in the case of Mrs. Irene Schroeder, convicted of slaying a highway patrolman near New Castle, Pa., that her interest in such cases was "general," where persons are too poor to defend themselves.

Mrs. Mountz said she had not yet taken active steps to assist Mrs. Schroeder in carrying an appeal to higher courts, to the Governor or the Pardon Board.

Mrs. Mountz said she had not intended that a letter she sent to the Rev. H. O. Teagarden, Piedmont, O., pastor, should have been given to the public.

CELL BLOCKS IN NEW JAIL OPPOSED

Penologists Make Last-Minute Appeal Against Proposed County Cages

With the Board of Prison Inspectors apparently committed to the inside cage cell block system for the new Parkview Jail, penologists and others opposed to the plan are preparing a last-minute appeal.

A $200,000 fund for the jail is included in the $9,050,000 bond issue sold by the county to a group of banks today to raise money for county improvements.

It is the contention of the Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs, which recently made an exhaustive study of the Allegheny county jail, that while regulation cells should be provided at Parkview for hardened offenders, there should be special cells and dormitory buildings for convicts and misdemeanants who are trainable, and cheap buildings for vagrants. The committee advocates units not too large to permit good supervision and individualized treatment.

ASK OUTSIDE CELLS

Kenneth D. Magruder, secretary of the Western Branch of the committee, said:

"Prisoners in the county jail with few exceptions are not of the hardened type. So far as as we know they are trainable, so might be housed in special cells or rooms rather than in the expensive cage cells that are intended only for the most desperate offenders.

"Our committee believe cells should be outside where sunlight and air can do their work in building up the men."

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern is opposed to the cell block plan. Asked for his views on the subject, he handed the inquirer a copy of a letter sent by him to R. L. Scott, of Philadelphia, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Prison Society. In the letter McGovern said:

"The subject of the Allegheny County jail and relief for its overcrowded condition continues a subject for serious discussion with members of the Prison Board, and since it has become evident that there is no alternative except to provide a jail annex, the two majority county commissioners have concluded to take a hand in the matter.

McCOVERN HITS PLAN

"The latest new scheme conceived by them is to build a cell block prison adjoining the workhouse. Their real purpose, of course, is not to contribute to the relief of summary prisoners now overcrowding the jail, but to erect a jail of medieval architecture, so that the present county jail may be eventually moved to a new site and thereby gratify some private interests who have formed themselves into an association for the present jail removal.

"I am opposed to the architectural scheme. I believe a jail annex should be in the form of a psychopathic arrangement where rehabilitation could be used for derelicts, and in no sense a barred penal institution.

"I am merely advising you of their intentions and my personal opinion, so that if your society takes a hand in the matter they will have an idea of the different views.

"I am not for the abolishing of the old jail for detention purposes only."

Woman Asks Police To Locate Husband

Visits to Another's Wife Upheld by Court

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—(AP.)—The social calls of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin were cited by Judge Edwin O. Lewis to show that there is "no harm" in a married man visiting a married woman when the woman's husband happens to be out.

The judge made only one stipulation—that there be no love-making. He made the statements in dismissing the $25,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Raymond Miller against James Walker, principal of Longstreth public school.

Washington and Franklin, Judge Lewis declared, often visited the wives of other men.

Women neighbors had testified they had seen Walker call on Mrs. Miller as often as three times a week for more than a year and that the visits had lasted several hours.

Judge Lewis said:

"What's wrong with that? Like the classical poets, the principal, being an intelligent man, might very well have been reading poetry to Mrs. Miller. There is no evidence that there was anything wrong going on.

"Why, if such a thing were proof of alienation of affections, think of all the 5 o'clock tea hostesses who would be guilty of stealing the love of married men. Then consider the plight of matinee idols, some of whom are enshrined in the heart of every married woman."

Then, turning to the plaintiff's counsel, Judge Lewis asked a question which went unanswered:

"Do you think that even a married woman likes only one member of the opposite sex?"

STORMS LASH SOUTHWEST

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 13.—(AP.)—Hail storms and torrential rains, doing great damage to crops, have accompanied devastating winds into parts of the Southwest.

Eight counties of Northwestern Oklahoma were swept by hail storms last night. Leaves were stripped from trees, livestock was injured and homes were damaged.

Reports from Woods, Alfalfa, Woodward, Grant, Roger Mills, Dewey, Major and Custer counties told of ruined crops. Rain varied from one to three inches.

From Aledo, Tex., came word of probable damage of more than $50,000 by wind of cyclonic velocity.

Near Fort Worth, Tex., Junior McDurmett, 7, was drowned when swept from his mother's arms as she carried him away from the swollens waters of Sycamore creek.

Weather Conditions.

The low pressure area remained nearly stationary over Minnesota, while the eastern high, diminished considerably in pressure, and developed into the Southeast. Another high appears over Alberta, and extends southward over the Rocky Mountain states. It caused a change to colder weather throughout its area, and, as a result, frosts and freezing temperatures occurred again over the Rocky Mountain states and in the Canadian Northwest. The low pressure area is responsible for cloudy and showery weather over most of the interior of the country. The rains were light, generally, but moderately heavy to excessive in Southern Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Northwestern Louisiana.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 1.6 feet; Lock No. 7, 11.7; Pittsburgh, 10.5; Dam No. 4, 8.7; Dam No. 6, 7.5; Dam No. 9, 8.2, and Dam No. 12, 5.0. The dams are up.

WARN NEGROES TO QUIT TOWN

SHERMAN, Tex., May 13.—(AP.)—Typewritten warnings advising Negroes that unless they left Sherman within 24 hours their homes would be destroyed were found by National Guardsmen tacked on several homes in an outlying Negro section today.

A military court today continued investigation of riots Friday, which resulted in the death of a Negro who pleaded guilty to assaulting a white woman, and the burning of the Grayson County courthouse.

Twenty-eight of 29 persons arrested in connection with the disturbance by Texas Rangers still are in custody. Thirty witnesses were called to appear before the military court of Col. L. S. Davidson today.

Jobless Women Riot In Warsaw City Hall

WARSAW, May 13.—(INS.)—Several hundred unemployed women staged a four-hour demonstration at Lodz today, in the course of which they took the City Hall by storm and demolished the interior furnishings.

Lodz police, acting upon orders to avoid violence of any sort in dealing with the women, finally evacuated the demonstrators from the City Hall by carrying the women out individually, many of them kicking and screaming their protests.

Three Postoffices Get Higher Rating

Three fourth class postoffices in Allegheny County were raised to the presidential grade today, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington. They are Perrysville, North Bessemer and Luperex, as the postoffice at Heidelberg is known. The salary of Postmaster Charles J. Hilber of the Perrysville office is raised to $1,400 a year and the others to $1,100.

Veteran Showman, Widely Known, Dies

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 13.—(AP.)—Erroll A. (Baldy) Potter, 50, known throughout the United States as a manager of carnivals and tent shows, is dead here. He was general superintendent of the Rubin-Cherry shows.

29 CHINESE DIE IN FOOD RIOT

SHANGHAI, May 13.—(AP.)—Chinese soldiers killed 29 persons and wounded scores of others in breaking up a riot today caused when a hungry mob attempted to loot food shops at Huchow, Chekiang Province.

Grain prices in most parts of China recently reached new high levels as the result of the depreciated value of silver, banditry which has raged in many of the provinces for months and the disorganized political condition. Many persons have been unable to purchase supplies.

THIRD JOB BILL UP TO HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP.)—The Senate today transmitted to the House the third of the series of Wagner bills designed to alleviate unemployment and prevent its recurrence.

This measure would extend the activities of the Labor Department, create a national system of employment offices and assist the states in establishing similar agencies.

It would authorize an appropriation of $4,000,000 for the next four years, with 75 per cent of this amount going to the states and the balance for administrative expenses. Sums would be contributed to the states in amounts equal to the money which they themselves would appropriate for the purpose. It would also authorize establishment of a Federal Advisory Council, composed of an equal number of employers and employes, "to form policies and discuss problems relating to unemployment, and insure freedom from political influence in solution of such problems."

Three-Month Day Dawns in Alaska

POINT BARROW, Alaska, May 13.—(AP.)—Point Barrow's three-month-long day has begun. The sun did not set last night. At midnight its red rim was hugging the horizon.

Native children played all night, taking naps during the day. Songbirds are arriving fast, and flocks of eider ducks were flying out over the Arctic Ocean.

MELLON PUSHES POSTOFFICE

Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, at a conference in Washington next Monday will be called upon to solve the traffic problem that holds up the plans for Pittsburgh's Federal building and postoffice.

Upon Secretary Mellon and the Postmaster General devolves the question of approving suggestions offered by Pittsburgh engineers and business men as to the best means of meeting the traffic situation.

Blueprints embodying suggestions of the Pittsburgh Better Traffic Committee, drawn under the direction of Norman F. Brown, director of the Allegheny County Department of Public Works, have been prepared for presentation to a meeting today at the Chamber of Commerce.

REVISE HISTORY BY COOLIDGE

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Gutzon Borglum, sculptor of the granite monument on Mount Rushmore in South Dakota, has disclosed that he made revisions in the first installment of the 500-word history of the United States written by former President Calvin Coolidge to be inscribed on the monument.

In one place, the original Coolidge text read:

"The Declaration of Independence—the eternal right to seek happiness through self-government and the divine duty to defend that right at any sacrifice."

This was changed to read:

"In the year of our Lord 1776, the people declared the eternal right to seek happiness—self-government — and the divine duty to defend that right at any sacrifice."

Borglum explained that he made the revision in order to identify the historical era in which the event took place and to differentiate the specific chronology among the several now in use throughout the world.

Daugherty Bank Forced to Close

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., May 13.—(INS.)—State bank examiners today labored over the books of the Ohio State Bank here, which was closed yesterday following a heavy run on its funds.

Headed by M. S. Daugherty, brother of former attorney general of the United States, Harry M. Daugherty, the bank was capitalized at $200,000, and March 27 had reported its resources as $2,626,890.

Charge of Cruelty Wins Reno Divorce

RENO, Nev., May 13.—(INS.)—Alleging extreme cruelty, Joseph Wilber Kidder today had won a divorce from Julia Redington Kidder, to whom he was married in 1927 at Bridgeport, Conn.

By agreement Mrs. Kidder will receive for life the income from a $26,500 trust fund established for her by Kidder.

HOSTS HONOR WINTERS

Through streets crowded with watchers, the body of City Controller Daniel Winters was borne yesterday from the South Side Presbyterian Church to the South Side Cemetery.

There, in a casket covered with the flags of the United States and the City of Pittsburgh, he was interred in the presence of several thousands of men, women and children.

Hundreds crowded the church while the Rev. Dr. Robert L. Hutchinson, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Dr. C. W. Petty, a personal friend, spoke. At least 2,000 others crowded the vicinity of Twentieth street, unable to get into the auditorium.

Those present made up a cosmopolitan gathering. There was former State Chairman W. L. Mellon, and beside him, were workers who had washed off the grime of the mills to come to pay a tribute to their friend.

OFFICIALS PRESENT

Mayor Charles H. Kline was there, Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, and practically every city and county official. Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and Senator David A. Reed would have been there, it was reported, if the weather had permitted airplane service from Washington.

The active pallbearers were the members of Council and James F. Malone, Dr. J. P. Kerr and P. J. McArdle, former members. Winters had succeeded Dr. Kerr as a member, and in turn had been succeeded by George J. Kambach, one of the pallbearers. Honorary pallbearers were city and county officials, judges and close personal friends.

CHILDREN LOOK ON

During the services scores of children filled the windows of the old Humboldt school, across the street, where Winters had voted for many years.

Pittsburgh Commandery No. 1, Knights Templar, conducted a ritual service before the casket was sealed.

The body lay in state from 11 o'clock yesterday until 2, when the services began. School children, neighbors, political friends, police and firemen filed past in a steady stream.

During the services Charles Rowley, 71, a cousin of Winters' father, collapsed. He was given first aid by public health nurses after being carried into an anteroom, and Dr. Kerr was called. For 15 minutes Mr. Rowley was unconscious, but finally was able to be taken to his home.

The will of Julius Bonnetti, of Baldwin street, Hays, leaves a $12,000 estate to his four children. Mrs. Jennie B. Balderserii, of Curry, Pa., is left $7,500, and another daughter, Laura Bonnetti, and two sons, John and Julie, the remainder. He named Laura Bonnetti as executrix, but owing to the fact that she was not of age, the court appointed the Potter Title and Trust Company to assume the duties.

Mother With Baby Jailed For Brew, Quickly Freed

MONTESANA, Wash., May 13.—(Universal.)—His crib is empty no longer. Little Richard Butorac was at home this morning a few hours after the people of Grays Harbor County learned, through the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, that they, through their officials, had imprisoned a mother and her nursing child.

Before Justice of the Peace Arthur M. Furnia arrived at his office yesterday former Superior Judge George D. Abel had been there and left an app al bond for $500, subscribed by friends of the woman.

Mrs. Joe Butorac had been convicted before Furnia Friday for the possession of home brew and fined $250 and costs. She was sent to jail with her 9-months-old boy and four small children at home were left in the care of a 15-year-old daughter. The woman was smuggled out a back door of the jail yesterday by Sheriff W. A. Hamm, who threatened waiting photographers with arrest if they remained in the vicinity.

Pictures of the mother and the child behind the bars were taken with a telescopic lens from the rear windows of the premises of Albert Schafer, prominent Washington lumber dealer who lives across from the court house.

Voyage Ended, Mrs. Hearst To Aid Poor Children

NEW YORK, May 13.—(Universal)—Mrs. William Randolph Hearst returned this afternoon on the North German Lloyd liner Europa after a four months' sight-seeing tour of Europe and Egypt.

Mrs. Hearst was particularly interested in her two meetings with Premier Mussolini, once in his administrative chambers and again on an automobile excursion with him outside Rome.

On this trip, Mrs. Hearst said, Mussolini pointed with pride to his housing facilities for the poor and the archaelogical work which is going on in Ostia, the ancient city by the sea which is fast becoming a large suburb of Rome.

Mrs. Hearst spoke enthusiastically of the progress which Mussolini is making in Italy. Everyone pays homage to him, she said.

On her visit to Egypt, Mrs. Hearst visited the tombs of the Pharaohs and ascended the Nile River as far as the second cataract.

She expressed eagerness on her arrival to return to her direction of the milk fund, by which thousands of New York children are provided with nourishment every summer.

OPPOSITION TO VOTES ON LAW VOICED

Lobby Witness Says League Is Against Referenda as Unauthorized and Futile

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP.)—Antagonism of the Anti-Saloon League toward prohibition referenda and endeavors by it to influence federal appointments of Volstead law enforcement officers were recorded today by the Senate Lobby Committee.

The medium was continuation of testimony by F. Scott McBride, who said at one point that the day law was "not 100 per cent perfect yet."

The league superintendent praised a recent House speech by Representative Fort (Rep.), of New Jersey, who said beer and light wine could be made in the home legally. Questioned on that phase, McBride said this might be done "under certain conditions."

VOTES HELD FUTILE

The witness, examined for the third day, presented a resolution expressing his organization's opposition to referenda. This contended such means of ascertaining public sentiment are unauthorized by the Constitution, legally futile and unbinding.

The most persistent questioner, Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, read numerous excerpts from the league's files. He is a wet.

One of the documents was a report by McBride, which said in part that the majority of duties of the Washington office of the league "have to do with securing the right kind of appointees."

DATA SENT TO OFFICIALS

McBride testified information on prospective appointees as enforcement officers had been transmitted to the responsible federal officials.

McBride said in some states the national headquarters paid the salaries of the league's state superintendents.

He named these "mission states" as New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

DENIES FEES TO CANNON

The witness denied Bishop James Cannon, Jr., had been paid by the Anti-Saloon League.

He added Cannon was a member of the league's executive committee.

McBride said he would not feel badly if "you make me out to have done lobbying."

He said a number of churches contributed to the league, including the Northern and Southern Methodist Churches, Northern and Southern Baptist, Presbyterian, United Presbyterian, Evangelical and many of the Lutheran churches. The money, he said, is sent either to state or national headquarters.

International News Service.

"DIVINE" CLAIM ASSAILED

McBride's claim that the league "was born of God" and that "God leads it" was assailed earlier in the examination by Blaine, who asked the dry leader:

"Do you still believe in the divine right of kings?"

"I don't care to answer that."

"Don't you know that every cruel and wicked tyrant of the past has always claimed to be the instrument of God?"

"I don't know that."

Blaine said it was history, and continued:

"Do you know a man named Kresge who supports your league?"

"I know two Kresges."

"One is Sebastian S. Kresge."

"Is that the Kresge of many matrimonial difficulties?"

"I don't know. They are father and son, the son's name is Stanley."

Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, asked what matrimonial difficulties had to do with lobbying.

WANTS KRESGE SUMMONED

Dealing with the league correspondence, Blaine read a letter attributed to Kresge, five-and-ten-cent store magnate, which asked for money for the dry league.

The Wisconsin Republican suggested the summoning of Kresge before the committee.

Attempt to Have Name Taken From Registration List As 'Outsider' Defeated

James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, and not James J. Davis, of Illinois.

As far as the Registration Commission of Allegheny County is concerned, Secretary Davis is a resident here. The commission so decided last night when its four members voted to dismiss a petition that his name be erased from the voting list.

RESIDENCES NAMED

Fred Jones, who testified at the Davis hearing that he was the labor secretary's private secretary for 18 years, said that the most recent of a series of voting residences Davis used was Jones house, 159 Hortaday street, Nineteenth Ward.

David J. Davis, a brother of Bellaire street, Brookline, also testified, in answer to questioning by O. Hicks Friedman, attorney for the petitioner, John J. O'Brien, of 2709 Murray avenue.

Friedman had said that as far as he could find out, Davis' father never had been naturalized. When a copy of the naturalization paper was submitted as a duplicate of the one in the Mercer County prothonotary's office, Friedman questioned the Davis signature.

Alike as a twin to his brother, David Davis remarked to the attorney:

"I'm sorry you questioned that signature, son. I've been voting on it since I was 21."

Friedman answered that it was merely procedure.

RECORDS SHOWN

The petitioning attorney had based his request that Davis' name be stricken from the lists on the fact that President Harding was quoted in the Congressional Record as saying that Davis was from Illinois. Friedman claimed that Davis had lived at Mooseheart, Ill., at various times, and that there was doubt that his father had become a citizen, since there are 30 "David Davises" in Sharon, Pa.

M. B. Lesher, attorney for Davis, produced tax receipts and records, including the official presidential commission, which tended to prove that Davis had voted from this city since 1912, and that he had lived from 1881 when he came from Wales, to 1893, in Sharon, Pa.

The hearing presented, in reality, a biography of Secretary Davis. It brought out that he was married Thanksgiving, 1915, from the Bellefield Apartments, Center avenue, and held his apartment here until 1921; that he and his brother, David J., married sisters, both daughters of Mrs. Mary Rodenbaugh, of Loretta street, and that their father, David J. Davis, is still living, and a well-known citizen of Sharon, Pa.

WOMAN LEADER BACKS PINCHOT

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—(AP.)—The latest series of statements and attacks marking the final week of the campaign locally was featured by Mrs. Dobson Eastman, chairman of the Republican women of Philadelphia, indorsing Gifford Pinchot for the governorship. Mrs. Eastman, who is for Senator Grundy to succeed himself, originally favored Samuel S. Lewis for governor.

In a statement today, Former Judge Arthur C. Dale, chairman of the Pinchot-For-Governor State Committee, said those engaged in urging a referendum on the question of repealing the state prohibition enforcement law, have overlooked an important thing, the cost.

Dale said that he had been advised that the cost of a referendum would be fully $1,000,000, which would have to be paid by the counties and not by the state government.

Zep Starts Flight Over Switzerland

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, May 13.—(INS.)—The Graf Zeppelin left here today at 7.55 a. m. on a flight over Switzerland.

The dirigible is scheduled to leave here Sunday on her trans-Atlantic flight to South America and the United States. The airship carried 44 passengers, including Minister of Transportation Vonguerard and his wife and Minister of Finance Moldenhauer.

Straying Terrapin Back Home After 36 Years

TULSA, Okla., May 13.—(AP.)—A terrapin believed released here 36 years ago by Walter Mineheart, now dead, after he had carved his name, address and the date upon its back, was returned here by a motorist who said he found it near Memphis, Tenn., nearly 400 miles away.

Mrs. Charles Lowrie, the former Mrs. Mineheart, to whom the terrapin was returned, said today she was with Mineheart when he made the inscription.

RUM BIG ISSUE SAYS PHILLIPS

Thomas W. Phillips, candidate for governor on the anti-dry ticket, broadcast last night over KDKA a speech urging support for himself and his running mates, Francis H. Bohlen, for United States senator, and Charles Dorrance, for lieutenant governor. He declared:

"Make no mistake, prohibition is a national issue and will be until the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed. Prohibition is a state issue and will be until the Snyder-Armstrong law is repealed. Prohibition is a personal issue and will be as long as it is used to deprive individuals of their personal, inalienable rights."

Phillips took exception to the stand on prohibition taken by these candidates on opposition slates, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, for United States senator, and former Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Francis Shunk Brown, for governor. He said:

"We find Pinchot pussyfooting on the merits of prohibition, his former hobby; Brown straddling the real issue, but going into a veritable stampede at the sight of Pinchot or the mention of his name; Davis going hotfoot after the non-Nordic vote in South Philadelphia, commonly known as 'Vareville.'

"To cap the climax, the gullible public, lacking all sense of humor, listens attentively and respectfully while one candidate after another tells them in all seriousness that the tariff, about which there is no dispute, is the real issue in the Pennsylvania Republican primary campaign."

GRUNDY SCORES TARIFF TINKERS

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—Senator Joseph R. Grundy swung through the coal regions of Luzerne County yesterday warning those who gathered to hear his campaign message that "tariff tinkers" have brought enormous financial loss to industrial Pennsylvania. He said:

"Tariff tinkering by economic theorists on the sea of politics is responsible for unemployment, discontent and unhappiness among the wage earners of the anthracite fields. Anyone can see what has been happening to the Wyoming Valley as a result."

Grundy, seeking election to the United States Senate, spent a full day in the field, speaking in a half dozen towns.

An old-fashioned political parade with brass bands, torches, red fire and banners preceded a big mass meeting here last night. Before the meeting Senator Grundy held a reception in the Sterling Hotel and conferred with county leaders. In all his talks Grundy urged the economic necessity of a high protective tariff if Pennsylvanians hope to maintain present living conditions.

Piazza Rites Draw Throng to Church

JEANNETTE, Pa., May 13.—A throng attended the funeral services today in the Church of the Ascension for Luigi Piazza, reputed racketeer, who was riddled with buckshot at a filling station near here early Saturday.

His $1,100 casket was banked with floral tributes. State police blame his murder on a rival gang. The slayers have not been arrested.

Police Lieutenant Out of Hospital

Police Lieut. Walter Burns, 50, of 1030 Flemington avenue, shot, police said, by Patrolman Owen Waters, 56, of 83 Fountain street, North Side, in Highland Park April 29, has been released from the Pittsburgh Hospital. The shooting was said to have followed a reprimand of the patrolman, who was arrested and released on bail.

MARTIN GROUP FORMED, AIDS PINCHOT

Malone and Backers of Late Judge in Mayoralty Drive Join in Independent Fight

Former President of Council James F. Malone was elected first honorary member of the "Richard W. Martin Association" at an organization meeting last night in the William Penn Hotel, and the first official business was to indorse former Gov. Gifford Pinchot for another term.

The meeting was attended by practically every ward leader of the late Judge Martin's mayoralty campaign. A standing silent tribute in memory of Judge Martin was called for by Attorney John R. Frankel, temporary president. P. J. Corr acted as temporary secretary.

Malone and Judge Martin, running independently for mayor, polled about 100,000 votes, compared to about 70,000 polled by Mayor Kline.

Malone declared some time ago for Pinchot, whereas Mayor Kline is supporting the Davis-Brown ticket.

PLEDGE SENT PINCHOT

The new association sent the following telegram to Pinchot at Williamsport, Pa.:

"We have the honor and pleasure of informing you of the organization of the Richard W. Martin Republican Association of Pittsburgh. This organization was formed to perpetuate the ideals for which the late Judge Richard W. Martin laid down his life. Its first act was to unanimously indorse you as its candidate for governor and in so doing it was the sense of this organization that it was simply carrying out what Judge Richard W. Martin would have done had he been alive."

The association is to meet at stated intervals in the William Penn Hotel. Homer N. Young, Warren H. Van Kirk and Ralfe O. P. Silverman were named a committee to draw up a constitution and by-laws.

Following his election as honorary member, Malone said:

"It is quite an honor for me to be permitted to come here, let alone to be elected an honorary member of this association. I am very grateful to you men for it.

"No man in Pittsburgh knows more than I do what you men can do. In that last mayoralty campaign both your leader, Judge Martin, and myself were trying to reach the same goal.

"That goal was not prompted by selfishness on the part of either of the two candidates. You and I have both protested in a minority way against conditions existing here."

LEADERS LISTED

Other speakers were Frank I. Gollmar, county chairman of the Pinchot campaign, and Joseph H. Reich.

Former Martin leaders who joined the organization are: John R. Frankel, Fourth Ward; F. P. Lancaster and C. W. Brown, Seventh Ward; C. M. McInerney, Eighth Ward; J. H. Mahoney, Tenth Ward; J. F. Norris, Twelfth Ward; Silverman, Thirteenth Ward; P. A. Petronne, Joseph H. Reich and Louis Wechsler, Fourteenth Ward; Herbert Jacobson, Fifteenth Ward; J. C. Mahan, Sixteenth Ward; S. M. Carrington and B. C. Shipley, Eighteenth Ward; W. J. Carrington, Nineteenth Ward; Adolph Mayer, Jr., Twenty-fourth Ward; C. M. Gerwig, W. H. Van Kirk, S. B. Whitesell and T. H. Doehla, Twenty-sixth Ward; H. N. Young and P. J. Corr, Twenty-seventh Ward; D. H. McClelland and Harry Bastow, Twenty-eighth Ward; K. J. Lesher, Twenty-ninth Ward; H. B. McNutt, Thirtieth Ward and W. C. Bellemann, Thirty-first Ward.

James C. Murray, past president of the Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania, and W. S. Diggs, of Hoover and Diggs, today declared in favor of Pinchot's candidacy. Murray said there is a strong state-wide Pinchot sentiment among insurance men.

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, Malone, Attorney Ralph H. Smith and Mrs. Henry Chalfant Miller are scheduled to address a Pinchot meeting tonight in Monessen High School.

RADIO TALK TONIGHT

Attorney Ellsworth C. Trott is to speak tonight for Pinchot at 7:15 p. m. over KQV. Miss Ella Graubert will address a women's meeting in behalf of Pinchot's candidacy in the municipal building of Forest Hills, Ardmore boulevard.

A. D. Brandon, former Morals Court magistrate, and C. C. Campbell will speak at the opening tonight of Pinchot headquarters at 425 St. Clair street, McKeesport.

Attorney Kivie Wolfe is due to preside at a noon meeting in Pinchot headquarters, Magee building, 336 Fourth avenue. Speakers will include Attorneys W. P. Breedon, C. L. McCobb and John H. Lauer.

Boy Tar Chewers Ruin Streets, Guard Set

VENTURA, Cal., May 13.—(AP.)—Childhood's joyful tar chewing has caused considerable damage to Ventura city streets, the city dads have issued an edict against it, and the motorcycle police have been called out to enforce it.

The trouble began when a small boy picked up a piece of tar from the street. He chewed it, and decided it strengthened and cleaned his teeth, thus eliminating the toil and trouble attendant upon daily brushing.

DAVIS, BROWN FORCES BUSY

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, manager of the late Judge Richard Martin's mayoralty campaign, will broadcast at 6:30 p. m. today, over KDKA, a speech in support of the Davis-Brown ticket, under auspices of the Regular Republican organization.

A Davis-Brown mass meeting will be held tonight in the Thirty-second Ward, formerly Overbrook Borough, in the Overbrook Central School, Library road. Richard Owen will be chairman and P. C. Mayfield, secretary.

Speakers will include Thomas G. Robertson, acting president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor; M. A. Musmanno and Dr. J. G. Steedle, candidates for reelection as members of the Assembly.

W. H. Hargest, secretary of District No. 5, United Mines Workers of America, will be the principal speaker at a Davis-Brown rally tonight in the Eagles Hall, Sturgeon, and another meeting in the Bridgeville Owls' Club will be addressed by P. F. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America; L. J. Ritter and Herman Carletti.

LEADERS SPEAK

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Mayor Kline and State Senator Frank J. Harris spoke last night in Davis-Brown headquarters in the Hotel Henry to city and county committeemen and women of the Fifteenth Ward. Leo J. Kirch, ward chairman, presided.

Referring to Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for senator, Harris declared:

"He is a man who knows the problem of the workingman, and because of his experience with big affairs, he knows the problems of the business man.

"He knows the problems of the great European countries, because of his experience in Washington, and I know the people of Pennsylvania will be justly proud if they send him—I may say when they send him—to the Senate next year."

Other speakers were Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, Assistant City Solicitor Benjamin Steinberg, Congressman P. J. Sullivan, the Rev. Dr. Cassidy, of Washington, D. C., and Armin Friedman, of the speakers and meetings committee.

DAVIS, BROWN INDORSED

Candidates on the Davis-Brown ticket were indorsed last night at a meeting of the Ninth Ward Republican organization in Foresters' Hall, Butler street. Frank Halloran presided.

Mayor Kline referred to a fight for chairman of the ward, and declared he would remain neutral, but expected his friends to support the Davis-Brown ticket.

Attorney Suzanne Beatty, assistant city solicitor, broadcast a Davis-Brown speech last night over Station WJAS. She referred to Thomas W. Phillips and Francis H. Bohlen, candidates respectively for governor and United States Senator on an anti-dry ticket, with a warning that prohibition did not enter into this election.

BOHLEN RAKES DRY LEAGUE

READING, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—Francis H. Bohlen, candidate on the anti-dry ticket for United States senator, and Frank Schretter, professor of fine arts at the University of Pennsylvania, spoke last night from the court house steps to a crowd of several hundred and jointly denounced the Eighteenth Amendment, the Volstead act, the Snyder state enforcement code, Billy Sunday and F. Scott McBride. Bohlen said:

"I stand as the only candidate committed to opposition of the Anti-Saloon League. This is a proud epitaph. Both Mr. Grundy and Mr. Davis say they will wait for the Wickersham Commission and vote for the measure which it recommends. These measures, let me tell you, will be no improvement, for we will still have that cancerous growth, the Eighteenth Amendment."

He said prohibition was a "miasma," a "stench" and a "crime" and criticized the Rev. Billy Sunday for saying that the "rivers of the United States will run red with blood before America gives up prohibition."

Canada to Guard British Dirigible

OTTAWA, Ont., May 13.—(AP.)—Steps to protect the British dirigible R-100, when it reaches Canada on its maiden flight across the Atlantic, have been ordered by the Department of National Defence. Heavier than air craft are forbidden to fly within two miles of the dirigible while it is under way or within three miles while moored.

$50,000 to Be Pay World Bank Head

BASEL, Switzerland, May 13.—(AP.)—The Bank for International Settlements today fixed the salaries of its heads. Gates McGarrah, president, will receive $50,000 a year; Leon Fraser, deputy chairman, $40,000, and Pierre Quesnay, general manager, $30,000 a year.

Tries for Hike Record, Loses Weight, Shoes

Joe Miller, 22, of Boston, was still ambling at the old Exposition Park today, in an effort to break the long-distance walking record, but was showing the effects of the grind. He has lost 14 pounds and worn out five pairs of shoes since he began his hike last Friday morning. He rests 15 minutes each hour.

He says an uncle has promised him $1,000 if he breaks all existing records. Police chased him from East Park because crowds following him broke down shrubbery.

Calles Daughter Mourns Death of Flier Fiance

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 13.—(AP.)—Shocked by the news of the death of her fiance, Col. Pablo Sidar, Mexican aviator, Artemisa Calles, daughter of the former President of Mexico, was in seclusion here today at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ferriera.

Senorita Calles, who is 16, is attending a private school here. That she had been engaged to marry the flier was not generally known until news of his death was received Sunday. His plane crashed during a flight from Mexico to Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Senorita Calles and Col. Sidar first met in Mexico City two years ago. They were to have been married this summer, though no definite date had been set.

MEXICO CITY, May 13.—(AP.)—The body of Col. Pablo Sidar, Mexican airman killed Sunday while on a non-stop flight from Mexico to Buenos Aires, will be brought home from Costa Rica by air.

An amphibian "air hearse" took off today from Valbuena Flying Field for the Central American republic. The body of Capt. Carlo Rovirosa, Sidar's companion on their ill-fated trip, also will be brought back in the plane.

TENER TO TALK FOR GRUNDY

Former Gov. John K. Tener will broadcast over WJAS at 8:30 p. m. today, a speech in support of Senator Joseph R. Grundy, according to Ralph C. Davis, chairman of the Grundy speakers and meeting committee.

Attorney John F. Tim urged support for Senator Grundy in a speech last night over WCAE.

S. C. Jamison, western manager for Grundy, stated last night:

"The effrontery of those who would deprive Senator Grundy of the credit due him is to be accounted for only by the desperation of his opponents.

"At the opening of the last week of the campaign they find their structure of false pretense crumbling. The voters readily distinguish between truth and falsehood and they are flocking to Grundy who has stuck steadily to facts. Former Gov. Tener bears him out in all particulars on the workmen's compensation bills."

In his radio address, Attorney Tim said:

"One of the newspapers of a large eastern city, I think it was the Baltimore Sun, a Democratic paper, said recently in an editorial that the replacement of Senator Grundy would can the elimination of a strong man and at a moment when strong men in the Senate are conspicuous by their absence."

PINCHOT TELLS OF BIG CROWDS

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—Gifford Pinchot in a statement last night gave out what he said was a comparison of the attendance at his meetings and those of Francis Shunk Brown, his opponent for the Republican nomination for governor. The former governor is taking a brief rest here before resuming his campaign tour.

The former governor then cited attendance figures which he said had been given him by men who were present at both the Pinchot and Brown meetings. The statement said:

"At Greensburg the Brown meeting numbered 383. On the same evening in the same town, the Pinchot meeting filled an auditorium said to seat 1,692.

"At Greenville the Brown meeting numbered 18 people; the Pinchot meeting 387.

"At Ridgway the Brown meeting numbered 19 people; the Pinchot meeting 350.

"At Dubois the Brown meeting numbered about 500 people, many of whom were Pinchot supporters. The Pinchot meeting had so many people that I was obliged to speak through amplifiers. It numbered a good 3,000.

"At Tyrone, according to a man who was present, Brown held a mass meeting of 50 people and declined to get out of his car. At least 1,000 people waited one hour and three-quarters for the Pinchot party to arrive."

Sultan Pretender Claims U. S. Birth

NEWARK, May 13.—(AP.)—Mohammed Pasha, pretender to the throne of Turkey, was granted a stay of six weeks in Federal Court to gather proof he was born in Detroit in 1895 in order to refute a charge of entering the United States illegally.

After the death in 1922 of his father, a son of the Turkish Sultan, Pasha went to Turkey and claimed the throne, but was deported because he had been born in the United States, he said.

Death Car Driver Paroled Two Years

Eugene Sutton, 19, of Paulson avenue, today pleaded guilty in Criminal Court to a charge of involuntary manslaughter and was paroled for two years by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen. Sutton was on trial in the death of Joseph R. Dodson, Jr., 20, of 3467 Clairfield street, killed January 12. Dodson was riding in an automobile driven by Sutton when it collided with another machine at Frankstown and Crab Hollow roads.

Woman Says 'Moon' Abounds in West End

Mrs. Anna Lucot, 70, of 126 Wabash avenue, testified in Morals Court today there were 100 places in the West End where her husband, Peter, 72, could buy moonshine. She had him arrested yesterday, after he left home to collect his wages and, instead of returning, purchased liquor and went to a lumber yard, where he was sunning himself when police took him in custody. He promised to quit drinking and was discharged by Magistrate T. D. Jones.

Woman Slayer on Road to Recovery

BALTIMORE, May 13.—(INS.)—Mrs. Marie Pfeiffer, 35, who shot and killed her two small children Sunday night, police charged, and then slightly wounded her husband before she fired a bullet into her breast, will recover, physicians said today.

Investigators learned the couple had quarreled prior to the shooting and that Pfeiffer had threatened to leave home and take the children, Eugene, Jr., 5, and June, 1, with him.

Release Suspect In Slaying of Girl

SUTTON, W. Va., May 13.—(AP.)—Seibert Howell, 18, of Holly, who was arrested May 3 in connection with the fatal shooting of Fonda Wilmoth, 24, of Holly, was free today. Howell demanded a hearing, but officers said their evidence was insufficient.

Howell claimed Miss Wilmoth was shot accidentally in a friendly scuffle for possession of a shotgun.

Sport Goods Plant Damaged by Fire

CHICOPEE, Mass., May 13.—(AP.)—The refinery building of the A. G. Spalding & Bros. sporting goods manufacturing plant was destroyed by fire today. Highly explosive material used in the manufacture of golfballs caused the flames to spread rapidly and at one time the entire plant was threatened.

Unofficial estimates of damage ranged from $150,000 to $200,000.

DAVIS ASSAILS MONEY IN RACE

HARRISBURG, May 13.—(AP.)—In a dynamic speech, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Republican candidate for senator, last night directed by inference, a verbal volley at his chief opponent, Senator Joseph R. Grundy, incumbent.

Davis, who came here from Washington, spoke before a crowd estimated at 2,000, the largest to attend a mass meeting of the Davis-Brown ticket since the campaign began.

"The Republican party in Pennsylvania now is going to pick their candidates for the November election," Davis said. "If money is going to buy the election in the form of advertising or bill-posting I am not in the race, but if one has sympathy with the masses I am sure I will be elected to the United States Senate from Pennsylvania.

It is a good thing to have these campaign fights in the Republican Party so some of those who have opposed social legislation have to come out and apologize for it.

"Thank God Pennsylvania no longer will be the Siberia of the 47 other states if Francis Shunk Brown becomes governor."

Edward C. Shannon, candidate for lieutenant governor, assailed Gifford Pinchot, Independent candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

"Gifford Pinchot who was characterized by the late Senator Boise Penrose as a 'squatter in Pennsylvania' is still a squatter," Shannon charged. "Pinchot seldom comes into Pennsylvania except when he is running for office.

More Men at Work At Glass Factory

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 13.—Six more shops of the McKee Glass Company works in Jeannette have been opened. Employment has been given 25 men.

CIVIL LIBERTIES QUIZ SENT OUT

The Pennsylvania Civil Liberties Committee has sent a questionnaire to gubernatorial, congressional and legislative candidates, asking them if they favor the repeal of the state sedition law the abolition of the coal and iron police, a ban on the use of the state police for strike duty, a ban on the private employment of deputy sheriffs in strikes, limitation of the power of judges to issue injunctions in strikes, and repeal of the law permitting sheriffs to issue proclamations.

Many have answered the questionnaires, it was announced today. Among those, it was said, whose replies are considered favorable, are John Murphy, of Pittsburgh, and Guy E. Shoemaker, of Baden, Beaver County, candidates for Congress; Paul R. Wagner, of Edgewood, and Gustave O. Hammer, of the North Side, candidates for the Senate.

UNSANITARY EATING PLACES
An article elsewhere in these col umns calls attention to the fact tha the Health Department is trouble with cases of "Vincent's infection" better known as "trench mouth", which is breaking out sporadically in the un dergraduate body. Dr. Phillips of the Health Department believes that the contagion is spread through un sanitary drinking glasses used at some of the local restaurants and soda-foun tains. He has repeatedly urged the shops in question to supply paper drinking cups in place of glasses, but they have so far refused to cooperate.
In view of the fact that students are thus exposed to infection, and that every year a number of cases do occur, it is time something be done.
The shops will not use paper cups because they say it would be an in creased expense. All in all the situation is a difficult one. But from an impartial point of view, the maintenance of good health should be the deciding factor.
Whatever practice endangers the health of the college community is wrong, no matter what financial inter ests are concerned. Moreover, even if the restaurants and soda-fountains are not compelled to sterilize their drinking glasses, and even if paper cups do cost them more, in the long run they would find that a guarantee of cleanliness and sanitation is to their advantage. At present two courses of action are open. Either the city should require the shops to sterilize their glasses, or the shops should of their own initiative bring paper cups into vogue. If neither of these things is done, the identity of the unsanitary places should be made public. It is practically certain that a boycott would result.

SAFEGUARDING the PUBLIC HEALTH an Established Policy at May's & Liggett's in the Interest of Public Service . . . . . .

Nearly two years ago May's & Liggett's recognized the menace of the public drinking glass, and at an expense of $275,000 annually May's & Liggett's discarded glasses for paper cups. Glasses cost only $25,000 annually. Paper cups now cost May's & Liggett's $300,000 annually. The installation of Dixie Paper Cup Service at all May's & Liggett's Fountains incurred an additional annual dispensing cost to May's & Liggett's of $275,000 over the cost of a glass service. Dr. Phillips states that operators of soda fountains have refused to use paper cups because of the added expense. Cost is always a secondary consideration at May's & Liggett's when the Betterment of Public Service and Health is concerned.

NAVY ACE RISKS LIFE IN RARE MANEUVER

'Inverted Falling Leaf' Lone Remaining Feat for Fliers, Says Williams

WASHINGTON, May 13 — (AP.) — Lieut. Alford J. Williams, noted naval aviator, has said his farewell to the service with a new maneuver—the lone remaining feat, he says, not previously accomplished by aviation. It is called an "inverted falling leaf."

Two days before his resignation from the Navy goes into effect spectators were privileged today to reveal a flight they witnessed Saturday in which the maneuver was demonstrated.

Performing high in the air Williams fluttered toward the earth the landing gear of the plane on top and himself hanging downward with only his safety belt holding him to the craft.

ZIGZAGS DOWN

He tipped the plane from side to side, checking it just short of the point at which it would fall in a deadly spin, and zigzagged downward like a playing card dropped from a skyscraper.

The maneuver, he explained, has no military use but is of value to aviators in inverted flight to teach them when and how to avoid spinning if their craft begins tipping from side to side.

Williams worked out the method at home with small models studying the characteristics of the miniature planes in the novel maneuver and calculating how he could manipulate the controls.

In the actual flying demonstration he used a Curtiss Hawk, a single seat biplane with special equipment in the gasoline and oil tanks to permit inverted flight. The greater part of the 45 minutes he was in the air, he flew upside down. At one time he twice encircled the naval air station, Anacostia, and adjacent Bolling Field in the inverted position.

The maneuver brought to conclusion a series of inverted flight tests in which the aviator determined for the Navy the proper handling of controls to avoid spins and stem a mounting loss of life. Newer performances of aircraft, he said, can only follow when airplanes have more power.

FINDS LOAD FACTORS

By aid of recording instruments in a standard fighting plane, he obtained for the aeronautical world the first definite load factors for all forms of inverted flights, including the outside loop, inverted loop, inverted tail spin, vertical figure "S" and their application to single seat combat tactics.

His services were volunteered for the hazardous tests and in recognition of his feats he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

His resignation will become effective Thursday, when he leaves the Navy after 13 years of service "to sponsor a speed program that will bring back to the United States the world's airplane speed record."

CAMELS BRING DESERT HOTEL

TIMIMOUN, Southern Algeria, May 13.—(AP.)—A hotel, loaded on camels, has been brought across the sands 500 miles from the nearest railroad, to this oasis in the Sahara Desert.

It is the southernmost of a string of 43 hotels built in Northern Africa by the French Line, with the co-operation of the French government, and is part of France's plan to develop Tunis, Algeria and Morocco into a new France only a couple of hours distant by airplane from the homeland.

The hotel came in sections, in packages of 200 pounds each, by camel. Caravan after caravan, traveling 45 days over the sands, brought here the tons and tons of hardware, windows, doors, glass, linen and silver, electrical installation and hundreds of other things the Arabs in their tents never saw.

Neither architects nor workmen would come here to work in the Sahara. Hence the hotel was built by French Line engineers, who traced on the sand the outline of the building because the natives wouldn't have anything to do with blue-prints. Bricks made here by the natives formed the walls and date-palm trunks furnished girders, but nearly everything else came on a camel's back.

TOWANDA, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. P. J. McGee went no farther than her own kitchen to get what her friends said was one of the best fish stories of the season.

Some fishermen who chanced by the house sold Mrs. McGee four fish for 50 cents. Inside the largest fish she found a dollar bill rolled into a tight ball. Mrs. McGee dried the bill on the kitchen stove and found it as good as new.

JUNE 1 START MEARS' AIM

NEW YORK, May 13.—(Universal.)—John Henry Mears began preparations to circle the earth in shorter time than the Graf Zeppelin made its historic flight. For many years Mears held the record for girdling the globe.

He said, as he stepped from his plane yesterday at the end of a transcontinental flight, he was confident of reclaiming the round-the-world record next month.

Accompanied by his daughter, Pilot Charles La Jotte, and Tailwind II., a Sealyham mascot, he had made a leisurely trip from Los Angeles in 20 hours of flying time.

MUST CUT 2 DAYS

Mears must cut a little more than two days from his former time around the world with the late Capt. Collyer as pilot. The Graf Zeppelin's time was 21 days and 7 hours. Mears said upon his arrival:

"I shall hop off as near to June 1 as possible. The flight here from Los Angeles indicated that, with good luck, it is possible to circle the earth in less than three weeks."

MELCHOIR PILOT

Mears announced that his pilot on the round-the-world flight will be Fred Melchoir, famous Swedish flier and aeronautical engineer, who has been in this country for five years. He was first in at the rescue of the German plane, Bremen, and has had other notable experiences.

The plane is a Lockheed Vega equipped with Pratt-Whitney Wasp motor. It has a capacity of 450 gallons of gasoline with a cruising radius of 2,700 miles, or 18 hours in the air. It will carry two-way radio equipment and the code "KHIMN" has been designated as its call.

The radio operates on a frequency of 8,650 kilocycles.

Tailwind II, the mascot, will accompany Mears and Melchoir around the world. The terrier was christened by Mary Pickford and appeared, upon arrival here, to be somewhat dazed by the speed with which it had been traveling.

SILESIAN DIET VOTE PEACEFUL

WARSAW, Poland, May 13.—(AP.)—Elections for the Silesian Diet yesterday passed off tranquilly and resulted in very little change from the former Diet. None of the rival parties succeeded in gaining control.

The German bloc, voting solidly for its candidates, secured 15 seats, a gain of one. One German Socialist also was elected.

Polish voters in the district, which was awarded to Poland at the end of the war, were divided into several groups.

The largest was the Nationalist group of 13, led by Korfanty. The pro-government group numbers 10 as before, and three other Polish groups total nine.

Man Slain on Ranch Washington Native

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 13.—Funeral services were held in Pittsburgh yesterday for J. Mason Kerr, a former resident of Washington, who was killed on his ranch in Idaho, a former employe being held as the slayer.

Kerr was found unconscious on his sheep ranch with a bullet hole in his head.

Julian Street Wed To Spokane Girl

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Miss Marguerite Skibeness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knute B. Skibeness, of Spokane, Wash., was married here to Julian Street, author, of Princeton, N. J., and New York. The ceremony was performed at All Angels' Episcopal Church by the Rev. Dr. S. DeLancey Townsend.

For the Great Season of Sports

"Sunshine Corner" Frocks

Six lovely short-sleeve and sleeveless types for women who appreciate beauty, fineness and harmony in even a simple washable silk frock.

Short-sleeve models of plain silk crepe, with contrasting Shiffley embroidery . . . Sleeveless frocks of self-striped silk; and of mello-glow, a new fabric with the weight of shantung but with a smooth surface. Some trimmed with matching glass buttons.

In white and the smart pastel colorings. Sizes 34 to 44.

...Horne's, Second Floor...

"The Casual"—

A New Sports Suit

$35

What a suit for steamer travel! . . . A swagger, unlined model of lacy, spongy French tweeds or basket weaves, with not a wrinkle in a million miles.

What a suit for golf! . . . Its soft colors competing favorably with the country club scenery. And its sleeveless waistcoat-blouse of fine white pique, designed like a man's shirt so it will not "ride" up when one takes a long shot.

Specially featured in The Sportswear Shop this week. For women and misses.

...Horne's, Second Floor...

Printed or Plain Yo-San

A Feature Event for Sports Week

$1.95 Yard

Here's a sports silk you can make into any type of sports dress . . . whether it be a sleeveless, full skirted tennis dress, or a washable ensemble for street wear. Plain pastel colors and colorful printed designs may be used in combination or separately. The silk is similar to shantung, and being of spun silk, it is naturally color-fast and washable.

Tweed Shantung

One of the newest silks and so original that most women are planning to make several frocks from it. The rough thread that characterizes shantung, in this silk, is colored; and the effect of two or three tones on pastel shantung is irresistible. $1.95 yard.

Silk Pique

This light weight silk with narrow pique weave is widely chosen for blouses to wear with sports ensembles and for dresses that will be expected to look smart after several launderings. White and pastel colors. $2.50 yard.

Self-Striped Silks

Silk shirtings that have a lustrous self stripe to distinguish them. Smart for sports dresses. $2.95 yard.

Printed Sports Silks

Prints have their fashionableness established in the sports field. Shantung and similar rough silks have all sorts of small and wide patterns on white and pastel grounds. $1.95 and $2.95 yard.

Honan

This is one of the heavier types of sports silk which we recommend for sports jackets, active sports dresses and for children's out-of-door togs. There's a wonderful selection of colors—pastels and deep shades—at this low price, 95c yard.

Living Models Will Wear Dresses Made of Sports Silks — Daily from 11 A. M to 1 P. M. and from 2:30 P. M. Until 4:30 P. M.

...Horne's, Main Floor...

Baroda Crepes

Stripes are smart this season whether they run up and down, or around. And with so many smart stripes available in Baroda crepes, there's no excuse for being out of the fashion picture. Baroda crepes are printed with clusters of narrow and varicolored stripes. $2.50 yard.

Trushan

This is the sports silk companion to the well-known Truhu silks. Trushan is a rough weave silk, in plain colors, that will not fade no matter how often you wash it. $1.95 yard.

Tub Silk Shirtings

Soft, smooth silks, with every kind of stripe you can think of. Wide single color stripes, candy stripes, and narrow multicolored bands. $1.95 and $2.95 yard.

Rayon Singlettes

The Singlette is a typical sports undergarment. It combines chemise and bandeau in one garment . . . and best of all, it fits exceptionally well.

The rayon singlettes—in flesh or white—may be selected with bloomer, cuff or pantie knee. The waist section of the Singlette is cut to fit snugly and without bulkiness. $1.95.

Solid Colors

In Chiffon Frocks

$39.50

Women who are seeking a change from printed chiffons, will welcome these new afternoon and dinner frocks in hyacinth blue, amythyst, Lelong blue, imperial blue, nymph green and rose-beige.

They are perfectly suited to summer wear at the country club when afternoon functions call for the "soft" type of frock.

With long sleeves, elbow sleeves, and sleeveless models with deep capelets to veil the top of the arm. Some of them have touches of lace, but in most cases they form their own trimmings.

Shown in the Women's Finer Dress Section . . . in sizes 34 to 44.

...Horne's, Second Floor...

Shoes

To Complete the Sports Ensemble

White-and-brown is the leading combination in footwear destined to be worn with summer sports clothes. With white or any of the pastel colors, the touch of brown is doubly smart.

The oxford is white buck with narrow bands of brown kid and is priced $15.00. The pump, of white kid with toe, heel and the under section of the bow of brown kid, is priced $18.50.

...Horne's, Fourth Floor...

White— Pastels—

In Women's and Misses' Coats

$16.50

They are of a rather fine-mesh basket weave, in a weight sufficiently heavy to tailor well and to require no lining. A fabric which doesn't "catch everything" even in white, and which takes the pastel colorings beautifully.

The coats are fashioned like the smart, darker colored coats of spring, with jabot fronts and scarf-finished collars.

They may be had in white, maize, linen blue, dusty pink and young green. . . . If you are extremely "ensemble conscious," you will want a white coat for your white costumes, and several in colors, one for each of your pastel-tinted sports frocks.

THE BEST PLACE TO SHOP, AFTER ALL

STOCK CLEARING HOUSE TO EXPAND

Successful in First Month, To Handle Transfers of Securities Listed Here

Pittsburgh's recently organized clearing house for stock market securities has proven so successful that, beginning Thursday, it will conduct complete clearing operations for all securities listed on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

The organization, which has been named the Pittsburgh Stock Clearing Corporation, made a profit of 35 per cent during its first month of operation, Arthur Middleton, secretary, said.

If broker A sells 1,000 shares of United States Steel to broker B and broker B sells 900 shares of United States Steel to broker A it is obvious that, so far as delivery of securities is concerned, the two transactions can be consummated by A's turning over 100 shares to B. Or if A sells 1,000 shares to B, and B sells 1,000 to C the whole matter can be simplified by having A deliver 1,000 shares to C.

AID TO BROKERS

That is the principle on which the Pittsburgh Stock Clearing Corporation works. But in practice, the business is very much more complicated. Twenty brokers may buy and sell stocks to one another, and at varying prices for the same securities. Under the stock clearing arrangement, each broker may settle for the day's transactions not by issuing to or receiving checks from all the other brokers with whom he did business but by giving one check to or receiving one from the stock clearing corporation. He is relieved also of the necessity of delivering or receiving numerous stock certificates if buying and selling transactions balance and cancel one another.

FEES BUILD PROFITS

When the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange established the clearing corporation, it expected to have to support it with subsidies for a year or two. But the operations of the first month have shown that it will be more than self-supporting. Members are charged a fee for each unit of stocks cleared through the corporation.

Up until now, the clearing corporation has contented itself with balancing the cash differences between brokers. Commencing Thursday, it will also attend to the delivery of stock certificates.

The clearing offices are in the Investment Building, near the stock exchange.

LEAGUE OFFICER TO RESIGN

LONDON, May 13.—(INS.)—The Daily Mail's Geneva correspondent said today he understood that Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League of Nations, shortly will resign.

It was understood Sir Eric's resignation is planned because of private reasons which have not been disclosed.

A civil servant who is well known in League circles will be nominated as his successor, the Daily Mail correspondent said. His name was withheld, but it generally was believed his nomination will meet with universal approval.

Modern Bandits Show Liking For Jazz

CHICAGO.—(INS.)—Modern bandits apparently prefer modern music.

Two holdup men who robbed Morris Stein, member of a jazz orchestra here, took a clarinet and saxaphone, but cast aside a 200-year-old violin of considerable more value.

Stein's automobile was taken by the bandits, and, when it was found abandoned later, the violin was still in the car. The more up-to-date instruments were missing.

According to Stein, the violin was made by Guarnerius in 1710. It was taken to London in 1850 and later came into the possession of Stein's mother.

MAN OPERATES ON SELF, DIES

NEW YORK, May 13.—Evidence indicating that Louis Capetta, 42-year-old baker, performed an unsuccessful operation on himself for appendicitis was revealed today, followed the man's death last night. Physicians said Capetta, rushed to a hospital when his condition became known, told them he had made an incision with a safety razor blade, cut off part of his appendix and then sewed up the wound with ordinary thread. He traced the location of the appendix by study of a medical book. Peritonitis developed and caused his death.

SEEK FUGITIVE IN FATAL CLASH

DUNCAN, Okla., May 13.—(AP.)—Police today sought Jeff Cunningham, as the aftermath of a gun battle near here last night in which one of Cunningham's brothers was killed, and two other brothers and two officers wounded.

A group of officers, seeking two men who earlier had committed a robbery, halted an automobile they said was occupied by the brothers at Marlow Junction, near Duncan.

Occupants of the automobile fired at their approach. Wall Williams, Stephens County sheriff, and R. B. Gossett, chief of police of Duncan, were wounded.

Rescue by Mother Fails, Boy Drowns

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 13.—(AP.)—Junior McDurmett, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. McDurmett, drowned last night when he was swept from the arms of his mother as she was trying to carry him to safety after the family had abandoned their home, near Sycamore Creek, which was swollen by heavy rain. The body was not recovered.

BUSINESS TIDE RISING OVER WORLD

Customs Collections Show Gain; More Work Abroad; Automobile Trade Brisker

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—From widely scattered parts of the world come reports to the Commerce Department of a turn in the tide of international business stagnation.

Low money rates, price improvements, increasing optimism of business leaders and the prospect that commerce and industry of the United States are showing real signs of recovery, as reflected by heavier retail sales, have encouraged officials to believe normal conditions may be anticipated.

SHOULD AID EXPORTS

The changing economic picture throughout the world should prove favorable to American foreign trade, which slumped seriously the first four months of the year. Rising prices, particularly of raw materials, would increase buying power abroad and would help the trade of this country.

For the first time in many months there has been a gain in customs collections during the first 10 days of May. Where there were substantial losses in preceding months, as compared with last year, receipts on imports gained $2,000,000 so far in May. For the fiscal year to date customs receipts were $478,769,000, a loss of $37,000,000 from the same period last year.

OVER THE WORLD

Extracts from reports of the government's commercial representatives abroad of encouraging character included:

Canda—Trade, collections and industrial activity improving.

Newfoundland—Successful seal catch and opening of navigation have brightened commercial outlook.

Australia—Prices at Melbourne and Sydney and wool prices ranged from 7½ to 10 per cent higher, with strong general competition and good clearances.

New Zealand—Dairy produce prices advance; trading outlook better.

Argentina—Situation eased by reports of government loan.

Brazil—Definite improvement.

Philippine Islands — Business community more optimistic.

DECLINES ARRESTED

Great Britain—Improved outlook for automotive trade and apparent arrest, for the time being, of commodity price declines, except in the metals section. Cheaper money expected to facilitate industrial reorganizations.

Italy—Unemployment decreased—consumption of electrical energy greater.

Czechoslovakia — Slow upward trend.

Jeritza, Rethberg Confronted by Operatic Duel

BUDAPEST. — (INS.) — Mme. Jeritza seems to be intent upon fighting an operatic duel with her rival Mme. Elizabeth Rethberg. At least she ordered to set ahead her booking for the Budapest Concert Hall for the very evening Mme Rethberg is appearing at the Royal Opera House.

Music critics look forward to this rare test case between the two world famous stars of the New York Metropolitan Opera House with expectant speculation. Their pleasure is certainly far exceeding that of the manager of the two stars, who fear that the two theaters have a greater seating capacity than the estimated total of concert enthusiasts in the Hungarian capital.

Cabbage, onions, and cheap tobaccos are fine for all who like them. Tough throats and unsophisticated tastes enjoy crude flavors.

Better cigarettes cost more. Good tobacco is worth more. Why take chances with cheap cigarettes?

The "Bridal Wreath" Dining Room Group

There is such added joy in serving guests if your dining room is furnished with the "Bridal Wreath." A most stately grouping, which is true in every detail, to the Hahn standards of cabinet making. The style is a modern one, modified from an English idea. Developed in genuine Walnuts with contrasting and harmonizing woods. Group includes China, Buffet, Table and set of 6 Chairs.

BUILDING TIE-UP PACT REACHED

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Employers' representatives and union officials who have been negotiating settlement of the structural steel open shop dispute which for some time tied up several construction jobs in this city, New Orlans, Newark and Cincinnati, announced that a partial agreement had been reached and 700 workers ordered to return to their jobs today.

The announcement, which followed a conference, said that such phases as remain in contention will be submitted for final decision to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. The terms of the partial settlement were not announced.

The dispute, intermittently for 25 years, tied up building work in this and other cities. The most recent strike caused a tie-up of work on the Metropolitan Life Insurance Building and the new Empire State Building here, among others. Sympathetic strikes were called in other cities. The strikes occured on jobs of Starrett Brothers and Eken, Inc.

QUIZ ON RIOTS IRKS ARABS

LONDON, May 13.—(AP.)—The Arab delegation that came from Palestine to represent their countrymen in the British government's inquiry into the Arab-Jewish disorders of last August announced they were leaving for home dissatisfied.

A statement said they were returning "with the impression that the Arab case in Palestine will not be justly solved by the British government, with whom the Zionists have such great influence as to hinder it from doing justice or from removing injustice in our case."

The delegation declared their just demands had been rejected. They believe that the Arabs in Palestine will fight British policy "with all the non-violent means in their power."

Not a Crowd In a Storeful!

On the second Saturday before Easter Kaufmann's recorded the largest similar day's business in the history of this establishment. Yet our First Floor, where a great deal of the shopping was concentrated, presented only the normal, everyday hum of business—no evidence whatever that a new selling record was being made. That's the wonder of the new First Floor arrangement—thousands of shoppers can be served daily without crowding or elbowing, without hurry or haste; more comfortably, more conveniently and yet far more quickly than ever before.

That's the wonder of our new escalator system: traffic is so efficiently directed throughout our twelve shopping floors that crowding or elbowing is next to impossible!

That's the wonder of the eight large street-floor entrances—about twice as many as you find ordinarily—in and out in exactly half the time formerly. Here you'll find crowds—but no crowding.

"I DO," Says the Bride, "Want Kaufmann Furniture"

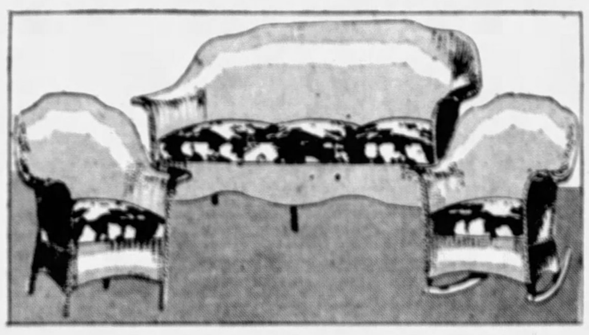
And if any wedding guest wishes a standing invitation to bridge or dinner at HER home, they'd better SEND Kaufmann Furniture. Good taste . . . grade A construction . . . year-'round low prices. Note these:

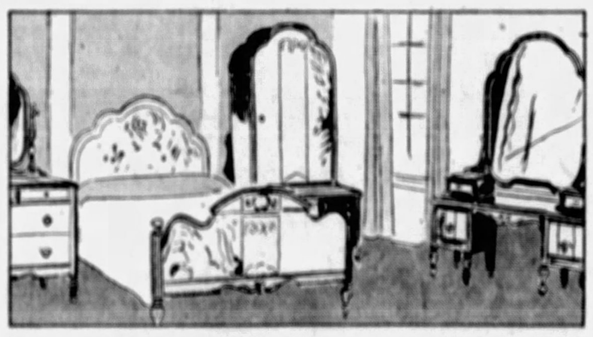


For Her Summer Porch

One of the handsomest ombre-shaded fibre suites in our stock—and one of the most popular. Very comfortable, with removable spring cushions and coil spring seats. Sunny cretonne covers. Each piece sold individually, or sofa and two chairs. $66

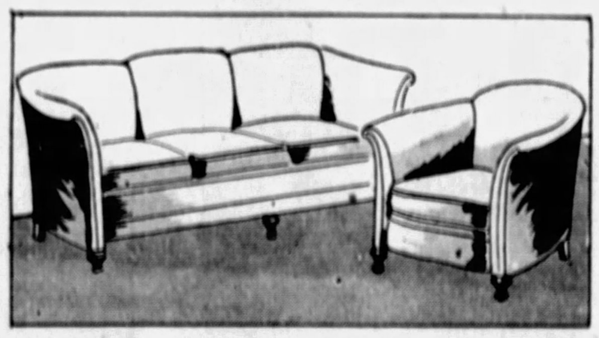
For Her Dining Room

A splendid copy of a much higher priced suite. Much walnut veneering and carving and moulding bring richness and distinction to its table, buffet, server and china. The chairs are tapestry covered. $198



For Her Sleeping Room

A suite of especial popularity with the "young marrieds," is this one in Elizabethan tempo. There are a Hollywood Vanity and a Hollywood wardrobe; bed and dresser. In walnut veneers, with ash and maple. $198



For Her Living Room

Chevron mohair is a plain colored, very durable type of mohair, and justly popular. We have chosen it to cover this finely proportioned "semi-kidney" suite. You may choose yours in the five best-selling colors. $159

Convenient Payments Arranged

Ensemble the Lamps For Summer Charm

Ensemble your lamps this summer. Then your living room will present an entirely different picture. Take the lamps illustrated here. Junior (or Bridge) and Table lamps all have bases of cast metal, antiqued to give them the patina of time. The shades are all of embossed "parchment," done in classic Italian designs and mellowed colorings; and you may have them hexagonal or oblong.

Bridge or Junior . . 8.95 Complete
Table Size ..... 7.89 Complete

KAUFMANN'S . . . FIFTH FLOOR

Name the Room: We Have the Rug, 37.50

Large, small, middling . . . whatever the shape or size, we've the rug in this special group at 37.50—11.3x12, 9x15 and 9x12 Axminster weaves, and 11.3x12 Velvet rugs, and 8.3x10.6 High Pile rugs, 6x9 Royal Wiltons. Many odd size plain velvet rugs. Outstanding values . . . $45 to $60 grades.

KAUFMANN'S . . . NINTH FLOOR

Black—a Fashionable Bridal Gift Note

This year's bride, having seen mother and her friends "go ebony" at the bridge luncheon, will be avid for her share of black glass, too. She'll like:

The Hostess Set which has four square black glass salad plates, four iced tea glasses, four sherbets with crystal bowl and black foot . . . and is 4.95.

Crystal Stemware which has black feet, includes Iced Teas, Waters, Lemonades, at 29c each.

Ebony Flower Vases, in modern shapes, 95c.

KAUFMANN'S . . . SEVENTH FLOOR

Paint for Beauty and Profit

Aside from increasing the beauty of your dwelling, a new coat of paint definitely saves the walls and woodwork.

For the Interiors

Glidden's Flat Wall Paint is recommended by Kaufmann's.

REBELS IN INDIA SEIZE CITY

tary commands already on the scene.

The civil disobedience leaders had seized control of the city in the face of determined efforts by the troops and police to subdue their activities.

MACHINE GUNS MOUNTED

Troops active under orders to exert drastic measures filed through the city and took charge of all important sections. They posted machine guns and established pickets at strategic points, erecting barricades in the streets and holding up traffic.

Natives vanished by thousands into their homes. The city took on a deserted appearance. All shops were closed. Sholapur's many cotton mills had been shut down.

As a result, lawlessness which had been showing its hand for several days almost completely disappeared today. Several "congress policemen" caused the only incident of insurrection this forenoon. Carrying out yesterday's decision of their leaders to seize control of the city government, they appeared today at a picket post commanded by a lieutenant of the Royal Ulster Rifles and started directing traffic. They were promptly arrested.

Various Hindu leaders had conferred upon themselves the dignity of petty magistrates in order to deal with matters of routine administration of the city's affairs.

TYABJI SENTENCED

BOMBAY, May 13.—(AP.)—Abbas Tyabji, who succeeded Mahatma Gandhi as leader of the civil disobedience campaign after Gandhi's arrest, was sentenced today to six months' simple imprisonment on a conviction growing out of his activities against the government.

Jugatram Dave, another of the leaders of Tyabji's projected raid on Dharsaana, was sentenced to six months rigorous imprisonment. Four boys were released and all others of the 30 arrested were sentenced to three months rigorous imprisonment.

GANDHI MAN GETS TERM

AMRITSAR, India, May 13.—(AP.)—Dr. Kitchlew, follower of Mahatma Gandhi, was sentenced to three years' rigorous imprisonment today on a conviction growing out of his participation in the civil disobedience campaign.

ROBBER HAUNTS MURDER HOUSE

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—(INS.)—The mystery surrounding the house in the 1500 block on Waverley street here, where Frank R. Whiteside, noted landscape painter, was murdered, deepened today when police learned a prowler had attempted to gain entrance five times within recent months. Each time he had been frightened away.

A thorough search of the dwelling will be made to determine what the prowler is seeking.

One evening last September the gray-haired artist, alone at home, was shot down in the doorway when he answered a ring of the bell. The murderer escaped. No motive for the crime has been established.

The dwelling is occupied now by Dr. and Mrs. V. W. Murray Wright. Last night Mrs. Wright heard someone prowling in the rear yard. The prowler answered her command to leave with two pistol shots, but fled when she returned the fire.

CANNON FACES ACCUSERS

DALLAS, Tex., May 13.—(INS.)—Bishops James Cannon, Jr., of Virginia, and Horace M. Du Bose, of Nashville, Tenn., today were expecetd to appear before the Committee of Episcopacy of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, following exoneration of two other members of the College of Bishops on charges of unwarranted political activities in the 1928 presidential election.

Bishops W. A. Chandler, Collins Denny, Edwin Mouzon and John M. Moore, charged with misconduct in connection with political activities, were given a unanimous vote of confidence late yesterday.

Bishop Moore answered an additional charge of stock market speculation, which was not pressed before the committee by the layman who made it.

Monoca Baby Killed Near Home by Auto

MONACA, Pa., May 13.—Hazel Wonert, 2, was killed near her home on the Broadhead road, when she got in the path of an automobile driven by Earl C. Rambo, Monaca, who was released on his own recognizance by highway patrolmen, pending investigation.

Pittsburgh Rector Assumes Pastorate

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 13.—The Rev. A. W. Cheatham, succeeding the Rev. A. L. Gaylord, has assumed his duties as rector of the St. Paul Episcopal Church, of Monongahela. He was formerly assistant pastor of the Calvary Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh.

Century-old Brandy On Menu of Peer

LONDON, May 13. — (AP.) — Plovers' eggs and brandy 100 years old from the cellars of the last of the czars are to be served at a dinner given by Lord Decies.

Promoted

NATALIE KNEELAND

Miss Kneeland, instructor who has been appointed executive secretary of the Research Bureau for Retail Training at University of Pittsburgh.

DR. COX, RADIO TALKER, HELD

Dr. Charles Russell Cox, who conducts the American Health Foundation in the Clark Building and has been broadcasting health lectures over radio station KQV, is charged with practicing medicien without a license in an information made before Alderman Thomas D. Jones by W. J. Hawes, an agent for the State Board of Medical Education and Licensure.

Cox, arrested, waived preliminary hearing and posted $1,000 bond for his appearance in court.

He said today he had been selling health foods. He said he had a right to his title of "doctor," but declined to say if he was a doctor of medicine.

GETS BEATING FOR SAFE PLAY

CHICAGO, May 13.—(AP.)—It is not healthful to get tough with a gangster, and Jack Burke, in particular, knows it.

Joe Montana, generally reputed to be somebody of the gang coterie, yesterday was in a film exchange where Burke clerks. He lighted a cigaret. Burke told him to put it out, as the room was filled with the highly inflammable film.

Montana curled up his nose and continued puffing. Burke snatched the cigaret from him.

Montana went away, but returned in an hour with six hoodlums, who gave Burke a severe trimming. Burke had Montana arrested.

Children to Get Mrs. Straus' Estate

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.) Urging them to be "good Jews" and not to marry outside the faith, Mrs. Lina Guthers Straus, wife of Nathan Straus, philanthropist, left her children the bulk of her estate, her will disclosed. Mrs. Straus died May 4.

Two sons and a daughter, of New York, receive a third each of the residuary estate valued at the conventional "more than $10,000."

WAR MOTHERS SAIL TONIGHT

NEW YORK, May 13.—(INS.) Mothers whose sons never came back from the World War will sail tonight on the United States liner Republic for France to view the wartime cemeteries. They will make up the second contingent of Gold Star Mothers.

Most of the women are from New York, with a small group from California, Nebraska, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Two bands will play when the mothers' ship glides to sea and they will be given Godspeed by acting Mayor McKee.

Rewed Wife Finds Merchant Slain

RICHMOND, Va., May 13.—(AP.)—Harry Rohm, 45, leather merchant, was found shot to death in his home here shortly before last midnight. Police said it was a case of murder.

Discovery of the body with bullets through both head and heart, in a hallway of the Rohm home, was made by the man's wife, to whom he recently had been remarried, and his daughter, Anne.

Missing Carrick Boy Assured Welcome

The parents of Martin G. Pfusch, Jr., 17, Carrick High School student, who disappeared from his home, 107 Rustic avenue, two weeks ago, through the Missing Persons Bureau today declared a hearty welcome home awaits their missing son.

Martin was behind in his studies at school, but his mother does not believe he disappeared for that reason.

Cardinal Thanks Rabbis for Help

TUNIS, Tunisia, May 13.—(AP.)—Cardinal Lepicier, the Vatican's official delegate to the International Eucharistic Congress, said farewell to Tunis today. With his retinue, he departed for Italy on the steamship Citta di Tunisia.

The cardinal had a cordial interview with three Jewish rabbis, whom he thanked for their cooperation in the success of the congress.

Cancer in Rats Cured by Low Pressure

BERKELEY, Cal., May 13.—(AP.)—Although he said the effect of the treatment on humans could not be prophesied, Dr. E. S. Sundstrgem, of the University of California Medical School, today announced he had cured cancer in rats by low pressure treatment.

Using low pressure tanks, in which atmospheric conditions of from 20,000 to 25,000 feet were simulated, Dr. Sunderstrgem declared he had effected a fair percentage of healings.

From 24 to 83 per cent of the animals were definitely freed of their ailment, he reported.

Three hundred rats were used in the experiment.

SCHOOL PLANS APPROVED

Approval of preliminary plans for an addition to the Knoxville Junior High School, and the Arsenal Junior High and Elementary School was given at a meeting of the Board of Education yesterday. Approval of the program for building the Prospect Elementary and Junior High School, Mt. Washington, was deferred pending negotiations for the purchase of additional property to the present building.

Marcus Aaron, president of the board, appointed a committee to draw up a resolution of regret at the death of City Controller Daniel Winters.

REDS' PASSPORT PLOT BARED

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(INS.)—A flourishing international business of forging American passports and visas has been uncovered by government agents, Representative Albert Johnson (Rep.), of Washington, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, declared, as Congress moved steadily toward a sweeping investigation and controversy over Communist propaganda.

Johnson's statement followed the speech of Representative La Guardia (Rep.), of New York, questioning the authenticity of documents published by Police Commissioner Grover Whalen, of New York, purporting to show that the Communist International is directing a campaign in this country from Moscow.

The passport era of forging, it is declared, grows out of the restrictive immigration law and the activities of Labor Department agents in deporting undesirable aliens.

Grave Diggers Held As Cemetery Ghouls

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—(INS.)—Two disgruntled grave diggers, formerly employed at the Holy Cross Cemetery, Yeadon, were accused today of being the vandals who toppled over many expensive memorials and shattered others with sledge hammers Saturday night, causing damage of $15,000.

The suspects, John Leonard and David Maloney, were held in $5,000 bail each on charges of malicious mischief.

TAXI DRIVER AIDS CUPID

Although a policeman prevented their marriage just as the minister was about to tie the knot, a taxicab driver came to their aid and half an hour later Virginia Harvey, 18, of Glenshaw, a student in Schenley High School, and John Trix, 19, of Sharpsburg, a violin teacher, were married in Wellsburg, W. Va.

The Rev. Burt D. Evans, enlisted to perform the marriage, declined to proceed when a policeman called at his residence with information that the girl's mother, Mrs. Daniel Harvey, had wired him to apprehend her daughter. Then the sympathetic taxi driver whispered a few words to the couple, they jumped into the cab and were whisked away. A minister in another section of the town was appealed to, and tied the knot.

Gets Fine or Jail On Girl's Charges

Charged with molesting four high school girls in Armstrong Tunnel, Andrew Mundoni, 40, of Keystone Hotel, was fined $25 or 30 days to the workhouse in Morals Court today. The girls charged Mundoni pushed them against the wall of the tube yesterday as they were walking home.

Man, Wife Arrested in Theft of Jewels

CLEVELAND, May 13.—(INS.)—A man and a woman giving their names as David Kinane, 23, and his wife, Sadie, 20, of Lynn, Mass., were held by police today in connection with the theft of $8,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Irene Peasley, of Cadillac, Mich.

The valuables were stolen, police said, from the Peasley automobile in front of the Federal Reserve Bank here last May 2. The Kinanes were arrested as they attempted to pawn a pearl necklace.

PULITZER PRIZE FOR CONNELLY

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Winners of the 1930 Pulitzer awards in journalism and letters were announced yesterday.

The award for the novel went to Oliver La Farge for "Laughing Boy," a story of the Indians of the Southwest and La Farge's first novel.

The drama award was bestowed on Marc Connelly for his play, "The Green Pastures," a drama of the Old Testament as pictured by Negroes of the deep South. It is being played in New York by an all-Negro cast.

The novel and drama awards each amount to $1,000.

Other awards included:

The best book of the year on the history of the United States, $2,000—The War of Independence, by the late Claude H. Van Tyne, professor of history at the University of Michigan.

The best American biography, $1,000—The Raven, a biography of Sam Houston, by Marquis James, former New York newspaper man.

The best volume of verse by an American author, $1,000—Collected Poems of Conrad Aiken, Cambridge, Mass.

The awards in journalism were:

Reporting, $1,000—Russell D. Owen, of the New York Times, for his articles on the Byrd expedition.

A special award of $500 also was made to W. O. Dapping, managing editor of the Auburn, N. Y., Citizen for his report, for the Associated Press, of the December riot at Auburn prison.

Cartoon, $500—C. R. Macauley, of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, for his cartoon "Paying for a Dead Horse," printed in the Eagle February 23.

Correspondence, $500 — Leland Stowe, Paris correspondent of the New York Herald-Tribune, for his series of articles on the reparations conference and formation of the International Bank.

INDICT TWO IN BANK FAILURE

ALLIANCE, O., May 13.—Nine indictments, five against A. D. Thompson, vice president, charging forgeries amounting to more than $16,000; one charging forgery in the amount of $2,765 against W. A. Thompson, cashier; two joint indictments against the Thompsons for embezzling $93,500 and one indictment against W. A. Thompson for making an alleged false statement to the State Department of Banking, were returned against the former officials of the Peoples Bank Company of Alliance by the Stark County grand jury late yesterday. Both are at liberty under $15,000 bond each.

Bishop's Son Faces Court Over Killing

NEW YORK, May 13.—(INS.)—James M. Maxon, Jr., son of the bishop coadjutor of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Tennessee, was to be arraigned in General Sessions today to plead to an indictment charging second degree murder. Young Maxon is accused of causing the death of David Paynter, 78, by hitting him with a chair in a rooming house brawl.

Massillon Pastor Head of Classics

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., May 13.—The Rev. E. Earl Engle pastor of the First Reformed Church, of Massillon, was elected president of the East Ohio Classis of the Reformed Church, embracing 30 pastorates.

STOP CONSTIPATION AT THE START

You May Pay If You Don't

When you realize that about 90% of all sickness begins with constipation, you won't want to take chances. If you have the symptoms — bad breath, coated tongue, always tired—put a stop to them now!

But do it the natural way. Not with pills and drugs, which give but temporary relief and must be taken in increasing doses. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—an appetizing deliciously flavored cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps the system clean of wastes and impurities. Its action is natural; the roughage carries with it the poisons which clog your system.

In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research shows that nearly all this iron goes into the blood, making it give the rich glow of healthy color.

You'll like ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Physicians recommend it. And we guarantee it to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. Two tablespoonfuls daily — with every meal, in recurring cases.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers in the red-and-green package. Served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Gain in Weight and Health in 21 Days, or Nothing to Pay, Say Druggists.

If you are anxious to increase your weight and at the same time transform yourself into a sturdy, forceful, virile young man, this advice will help you.

Pharmacists everywhere will tell you that you can never gain in weight unless your body is plentifully supplied with Nature's own Vitamins, and the sure and speedy way to get these Vitamins is the modern way—in tablet form.

You might get enough Vitamins by drinking a gallon of milk and eating a pound of butter every day besides what food you regularly eat—but what's the use.

You can go to your druggists this very day and get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets, which contain no drugs—but are chock-full of health and weight building Vitamins.

Take two of these tablets after each meal and two at bedtime for 21 days, then if you aren't satisfied with the increase in weight—if you don't feel stronger, more energetic and vigorous, get your money back—60 tablets, 60 cents—take them winter and summer and get your Vitamins all the year round. Just ask for McCoy's at any drug store.

WALTON LINKED IN OIL FRAUD

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 13.—(AP.)—Federal investigation into the activities of the Universal Oil and Gas Company here brought in the name of J. C. Walton, former governor of Oklahoma, who was impeached and removed in 1923. Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney, said Walton would be called upon by the government to explain what part, if any, he played in the organization of the oil company, whose eight officials were named last week in a warrant charging them with use of the mail to defraud.

At the time of the warrant issuance, which also called for the arrest of S. E. J. Cox, paroled several years ago after serving part of a term in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., upon conviction on similar charges involving the manipulations of a Texas oil company, there were intimations that Walton had been connected with the Universal company in some way.

The district attorney also announced that he would inquire into what interest Richard Enright, former police commissioner of New York City had in the company. Enright recently said he invested in the company after inspecting its properties in Oklahoma.

SEER CLAIMING FILM AID HELD

LOS ANGELES, May 13—(AP.)—Swami Bantapha Raw, Hindu seer, was ordered held for Superior Court trial on five counts of grand theft and two counts charging statutory offenses at the conclusion of a Municipal Court preliminary hearing here. Three motion picture stars, Charles Chaplin, Gloria Swanson and Mary Pickford, testified during the hearing.

Raw was charged with obtaining $4,600 from Mrs. Adele Allerhand, of Ocean Park, Cal., after he allegedly had told the woman his clients included such film personages as Chaplin, Miss Swanson, Miss Pickford and George Arliss and others. All have denied they knew Raw.

The statutory charges against Raw resulted from statements by Mrs. Allerhand that the seer had attacked her when she went to his office for a reading. Policewoman Mary Ross testified Raw had attempted to attack her when she went to his office to investigate Mrs. Allerhand's charges.

Welsh to Meet At Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 13.—Ministers and laymen from Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania convene here this week for the fifty-ninth annual meeting of the Association of Welsh Congregations. Choirs from New Castle, Sharon, Farrell, Warren, Niles and Akron will participate in an eisteddfod. John Hughes Jones, of Youngstown, and D. T. Davies, of Cleveland, will direct the music.

The Rev. Enoch Hughes, of Edwardsville, Pa., is on the program for an address.

Man Brought Back To Face Old Charge

MERCER, Pa., May 13.—Wanted by the Mercer County police since last August, Jerome Johnson, 30, was brought from Brockway charged with an attack on Constable James Cullinan, of Hempfield Township. He is alleged to have beat up Cullinan when that officer attempted to serve a warrant on him.

Bride Badly Cut In Overturn Of Auto

FRANKLIN, Pa., May 13.—Mrs. John Haaf, of Copley, O., bride of a few hours, suffered cuts and bruises when the car driven by her husband collided with another, and overturned twice on the Oil City-Franklin road. Other persons in the crash escaped injury.

The Haafs were on their way to a wedding supper here.

AIR EDUCATION PLAN OUTLINED

CHICAGO, May 13.—(AP.)—The program of a newly-launched project for promoting the advancement of learning through radio was outlined here before the American Association for Adult Education by Morse A. Cartwright, of New York City.

Cartwright is a director of the National Council on Radio Education, sponsored by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. It has a $50,000 budget for its first year.

"Naturally," Cartwright said, "the field of education in radio is too vast for this project to move rapidly. Neither can the council be expected to sponsor programs. What we are to do is work with agencies already presenting or preparing to present educational programs."

Cartwright announced that Levering Tyson, new head of the home study department of Columbia University, New York, had been named executive head of the council.

Veteran Drum Major Falls Dead at 64

PATRONS BEAT FOUR BANDITS

ROCKVILLE, Md., May 13—(AP.)—Four young men who were beaten by patrons when they allegedly tried to hold up a roadhouse near here without pistols were being held in jail.

The patrons, police were told, were employes of the Congressional Country Club nearby, who had adjourned to the Roma Gardens resort after the club had closed. They were seated at tables when four youths entered with the command "hands up," lined the patrons against a wall, and proceeded to search them.

One of the intruders held a hand in a bulging coat pocket apparently containing a pistol. An accident revealed that the supposed pistol was a stick, whereupon a patron who had lost $30 shouted news of his discovery and proceeded to attack the nearest bandit. Officers arrived during the melee.

The four gave their names as James Callan, New York, and Michael Parella, Francis Harding and Harry Atcheson, all of Washington.

P. R. R. Given Time Extension on Span

HARRISBURG, May 13—(AP.)—The Public Service Commission modified its order of April 23, 1929, to extend the time limit for completion of the construction of the end piers and abutments to the overhead bridge in Johnstown which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is required by that order to build, from July 1, 1930, to August 1, 1930, and to extend the time for completion of the entire construction to next December 31.

Convicts, Guards Fight Forest Blaze

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 13—Several hundred inmates at Rockview Penitentiary worked beside a cordon of guards in extinguishing a forest fire which burned over more than 200 acres of penitentiary land on Nittany Mountain. The fire started near the institution's new reservoir in McBride's Gap. The fire started about 2 o'clock in the afternoon and it was after 10 o'clock at night when it was under control.

ARREST 3 BOYS IN HOLDUP

ST. LOUIS, May 13—(AP.)—Three youths were arrested here late yesterday in connection with the $22,000 holdup of a Watertown, Conn., bank on March 28. According to police one of the trio admitted participating and said the loot was divided with the others.

John Lingus, 21, of Detroit, was the one who confessed, police said, naming Peter Madison, 21, a printer, of Waterbury, Conn., and Albert Kurtinitis, 20, a roofer, of Detroit.

Police said the trio was believed implicated in a Detroit bank holdup about three weeks ago.

Rainey Mine Fire Now Under Control

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 13.—A fire which broke out late Sunday in the Clyde No. 2 mine of the Rainey Coal and Coke Company at Clarksville, was believed under control today.

WOOL ADVANCE CASH OFFERED

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 13—(AP.)—V. G. Rowbottom, representative of Draper & Co., Boston, selling agency for the National Wool Growers' Association, told members of the Kentucky Wool Growers' Association that the company would advance 22 or 23 cents a pound on best wool, and about 15 cents on burry wool and 12 cents on black wool sold through the Kentucky Co-operative.

James C. Stone, vice chairman of the Federal Farm Board, was present at the association's meeting, which was attended by approximately 50 Central Kentucky wool growers. Offices of the co-operative have been established at the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association headquarters here. Stone was president of the Burley asssociation before he accepted his Farm Board appointment.

Stone predicted that as soon as Draper & Co., would begin advancing money, practically every Central Kentucky grower would apply for membership in the co-operative.

Cincinnati Council Names New Manager

CINCINNATI, O., May 13—(AP.)—Clarence A. Dykstra, an employe of the Los Angeles Municipal Water and Power Department, late yesterday was chosen by City Council as city manager of Cincinnati, to succeed Col. C. O. Sherrill, who recently resigned. Dykstra will receive an annual salary of $25,000.

Sloan's Liniment

Pimples on Face Itched and Burned Badly. Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were very hard, large and red, and my face looked awful on account of them. They itched and burned badly and I scratched them. I could not sleep at night on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted two months.

"I tried a lot of other remedies but they did not help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and could see an improvement, and in a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Nettie Postupack, R. D. 1, W. Main St., Weatherly, Pa., June 24, 1929.

Brim-full of the goodness that sunshine gives

THERE ARE favored areas of the earth's surface where sun and soil combine to make tobaccos marvelously good. Delicate Turkish leaves that ripen in the golden sunshine of the Orient . . . mellow leaves of Domestic from the sun-warmed slopes of our own Southland . . . the choicest of these great tobaccos mingle their mild, rich, natural goodness in the inimitable Camel blend.

The keen, sweet zest and sparkle of pure sunshine is stored for you in Camel Cigarettes—irradiated by the sun itself. And up-to-date, scientific methods of manufacture preserve this flavor and bring it to you, mild and fresh, with none of its goodness lost.

1,414 ADDED TO POPULATION

Complete census returns from the two missing districts in the Fourteenth Ward today added 1,414 to the population for Pittsburgh, making the total for the ward 38,430 against 21,676 in 1920. One district in the Fourth Ward remains to be heard from before the final returns for the city can be tabulated.

The report from the Fourteenth adds 1,414 to the total of 663,101, as stated Saturday as the population of Pittsburgh. It had been estimated that the two missing districts from the Fourteenth would return 3,000, whereas the actual figures are 1,414.

James E. Routley, supervisor for the Fourteenth District embracing the section of Allegheny County between the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, went to Washington today to confer with Census Bureau officials and to obtain the final pay vouchers for his workers. In the district north of the rivers several boroughs and townships remain to be tabulated.

TWO MEN HELD IN ATTACK

H. L. Leffler, 28, of 112 Daley road, and George Hillar, 28, of 4139 Brownsville road, both Brentwood, were held for court today in Morals Court on a charge of aggravated assault and battery on complaint of two girls.

Marcella Smith, 16, of 2712½ Carson street, and Louise Yarsky, 17, 2711 Sarah street, charged the men insulted them in Baldwin street last night. The girls testified they entered the men's auto in Hazelwood after attending a dance and were to be driven home. When they attempted to leave the car, Miss Yarsky charged, Leffler pushed her from the running board to the road.

MILLION GIVEN BOY SCOUTS

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Walter W. Head, president of the Boy Scouts of America, last night announced a gift of $1,000,000 to the Scouts by Edward S. Harkness, philanthropist and financier. The gift is conditional on the completion of the $10,000,000 fund campaign, now in progress, by January 1, 1931.

The announcement was made at the twentieth annual dinner of the Scout National Council.

The drive opened March 10 in Washington. Gifts to date total $3,075,000, including $500,000 from the estate of Conrad Huser, and $250,000 from Mortimer L. Schiff, financier.

CAPONE DENIES HOME IS DEN

MIAMI, Fla., May 13.—(AP.)—Alphonse Capone's answer to a suit seeking to padlock his Palm Island home was filed by his attorneys shortly before last midnight, when the 10-day period allowed by Judge Paul D. Barnes for answering the state's amended plea expired.

Capone denied all the material allegations in the plea of N. Vernon Hawthorne, state attorney, who branded the residence a public nuisance.

Hawthorne charged that Capone's home was a gathering place for notorious criminals and bootleggers.

LIFE IN MINES TRIES A MAN

Story of One Who Made Work a Pleasure.

Working far below the surface of the earth in a mine, with dust in the air and water under foot, tries the health of the strongest. People who work in these surroundings suffer frequently from a general rundown condition that grows worse. Usually this begins with a cold that hangs on, becoming chronic and leading to catarrh. The same mucous membrane that lines the nose and throat lines the stomach and bowels, and after a while it, too, is affected. Then food does not taste right, nothing seems to agree and sleep is not restful. Left to itself, this catarrhal condition will usually spread all through the body, contaminating the blood and weakening different organs.

World's Tonic was intended to meet just such conditions. The experience of thousands has proved that the world's research, extending over many years, that led to World's Tonic, brought together just the medicines intended to overcome these conditions.

Mr. Ralph Zinko, a miner at Baden Mines, Pa., says he was so rundown with catarrh that work was a terror to him, and he felt so weak that he could only drag himself about. When he got up in the morning his head and throat were full and stuffy, and he had to cough it all loose before he could get started. His food rarely agreed with him, and after working an hour or two he felt all in. Only sheer necessity kept him going. He had a family to support and could not quit. But he and his wife felt it was only a question of a little time until he could work no more, and the prospect was not pleasing.

Just at this critical time he read about World's Tonic. Like most people, he doubted, but his wife wanted him to try it. Mr. Zinko says: "I had taken about half of the first bottle before I felt any effect. Then I noticed that I was not having so much trouble with my food, and my appetite seemed to improve a little. My bowels acted more regularly. The bad taste was less noticeable in my mouth. I got another bottle. By the time I had taken it I was sleeping so much better that I felt rested in the morning, and my food gave me strength. But it took nearly five bottles before the great results were accomplished. My head cleared up, my eyes brightened. I quit that hawking and spitting, and I felt ten years younger and full of pep. I believe World's Tonic saved me my job, made life worth living and brought me back to the kind of health that makes work a pleasure."

Many hundreds of once-sick people have had this same, happy experience. Why should you continue to drag yourself around half sick when you can obtain World's Tonic at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower or any other first class drug store? (A-25)

COUNTY AWARDS BOND ISSUES

The County Commissioners today awarded $9,050,000 of people's and commissioners' bonds to a group of banks including the Mellon National and the Union Trust, of Pittsburgh, and the Guaranty Company and the Bankers Company, of New York. The banks bid $9,159,494.90 for the bonds, a premium of $109,494.90. The funds will be used for county improvements.

The commissioners also opened bids on approximately $500,000 worth of county improvement projects and departmental equipment.

Chief bids were on the Brandt School road, estimated to cost $200,000; the Ingomar road to North Park, estimated to cost $128,000, and on the Moss Side boulevard handrail, estimated to cost $26,000.

Leaves Death Note, Then Kills Himself

With a revolver on his chest and a farewell note in his coat pocket, John Kozerony, 45, was found dead in the bedroom of a house in Burns avenue, Crawford Hill, Duquesne Annex, today.

A bullet had pierced his temple. The note, written in Hungarian, said he was "tired of life."

Pilgrims Pay Honor To St. Augustine

BONE, Algeria, May 13.—(AP.)—St. Augustine of Hippone, described by the Pope in an encyclical last month as "one of the great fathers of the church," was honored here today by the commemoration of his fifteenth centenary.

Several thousand pilgrims who attended the Thirtieth International Eucharistic Congress last week at Carthage came on to Bone, which lies near the site of the ancient but now ruined Hippone. The main party arrived last night from Tunis, headed by Cardinal Verdier.

"THE STORE WITH A MILLION FRIENDS"

"Some day I'm going into business for myself and make some real 'dough'," mused Mr. "X." as he tiptoed through the tulips. But there he was, with his head in the clouds, blandly ignoring the many chances to go into profitable ventures which present themselves every day—in the "Business Opportunities" Ads of the Sun-Telegraph Classified Section.

CAROL'S RETURN PLOT BARED

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 13.—(AP)—Political sensation was caused here by the publication of a pamphlet by the liberal leader, Vintila Bratianu, attacking the Mania government and the regency council whom he accused of plotting the return of Ex-Prince Carol.

One hundred thousand copies will be distributed among the peasants and the newspapers will publish extracts. Prince Nicholas, Carol's brother and a member of the regency council, tried to prevent publication of the pamphlet and threatened to prosecute Bratianu.

The Liberals assert they will use every effort to prevent what they allege are proposed changes in the constitution and the return of Carol.

According to well-informed persons, Queen Marie and Prince Nicholas are said to favor the return of Carol to replace Nicholas in the regency council, but Princess Helen, Carol's ex-wife and mother of little King Michael, has threatened to leave the country if her former husband comes back.

DARROW FIGHTS BOTTLE RAID

CHICAGO, May 13.—(AP)—Clarence Darrow, internationally known lawyer, has weakened in his determination never to take another criminal case. He announced that he will defend Joseph Grein, president of the Chicago Malt Products Association, whose Madison street store was raided by prohibition agents last week.

The raid, ordered by Prohibition Administrator Yellowley, was made on the theory that the Supreme Court decision permitting the seizure of articles used in the manufacture of intoxicants would apply to the stock of malt syrup, bottles, bottle caps and the like in the Grein store. It was the first raid conducted here under the decision.

"I am taking this case because Grein is a friend," said Darrow. "I believe he is innocent. In addition, I am interested in this latest piece of fanaticism in the atempt to enforce prohibition."

Slayer of Crucible Man Gets Life Term

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va., May 13.—Jacob Dilliitas, 28, of this county, convicted of the murder of Theodore Wreckman, a German of Crucible, Pa., withdrew his plea for a new trial and was immediately sentenced by Judge D. H. Rodgers, in Circuit Court to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

Dainty Party Dress
Pattern 1871
Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

1871

Isn't this an adorable frock for a little miss? The tiny puffed sleeves, the dainty ruffling around neck and bottom of skirt and the belt sash are features most becoming to youthful figures. There are bloomers, too, for the younger girls.

Pattern 1871 is darling made of voile, georgette, organdie, lawn, batiste, crepe de chine, dimity, etc. In white it would be adorable for graduation or confirmation. For a best dress, the pastel shades are delightful.

May be obtained only in sizes 4, 6, 8, and 10. Size 8 requires 3¼ yards of 36-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our patterns. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Wellsburg Women Jailed Over Rum

WHEELING, W. Va., May 13.—Mrs. Anna Dayton and Mrs. May Robinson, socially well known in Wellsburg, W. Va., were sentenced to eight and three months, respectively, in the Brooke County jail, when they entered a plea of guilty to the sale of liquor to D. L. Swick, undercover agent of the government.

Swick testified that he purchased liquor with marked money which was found in the pocketbook of Mrs. Dayton, while her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robinson, made the sale.

Denmark Eagerly Awaits U. S. Envoy

COPENHAGEN, May 13.—(AP)—Denmark is looking forward to the arrival of the United States minister, Ralph H. Booth, wealthy Michigan newspaper owner.

It is understood Booth will buy or lease a palace near King Christian's Amalienborg Palace, and residents of Copenhagen believe the arrival of the new diplomat will mean a renaissance of brilliant social life in the capital.

ROUT STUDENTS WITH BOMBS

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 13.—(AP)—Police resorted to tear gas bombs here last night to disperse an assemblage of 500 men students of the West Virginia University, who attempted to gain admission to the Metropolitan Theater. One boy was injured when struck in the leg by a cap from a gas bomb and three were arrested.

"Rushing" the theater by cadets is an annual custom following the inspection by Regular Army officers, and when the students appeared at the Metropolitan they were told by the manager, George Sallows, that the place was filled to capacity, due to it being the opening night following renovation and repair after a fire several months ago.

Sallows told the crowd he would give them a show at midnight, but this did not satisfy the boys, said to have been cadets for the most part. The front of the theater, resplendent with new paint and lights, was plastered with vegetables, eggs and sand, causing considerable damage.

City, county and state police were called to quell the disorder, and they were unable to handle the situation until the tear gas was brought into play.

Woman Convicted Of Biting Neighbor

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 13.—Juba Santoni, of Mt. Pleasant, was convicted of a charge of mayhem by a jury composed of 12 women. She was alleged to have bitten Mrs. Tressa Damato during a neighborhood quarrel.

ROCHESTER, Pa., May 13.—When a pole fell on his truck, Donald E. Haugh, 45, of Rochester, sustained severe injuries to his back.

MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY FREED

LOS ANGELES, May 13.—(AP)—Samuel Holovhit, native of Russia and a Canadian World War veteran, yesterday officially became a man "without a country." Federal immigration officials who three times have been unable to find a land to which they could deport him, informed the Federal Court Holovhit would be permitted his liberty here despite the fact he is an alien.

Holovhit came to the United States from Russia via Poland. He went to Canada, enlisted, served in France and suffered shell shock. Returning to Canada he obtained a cash settlement of a war service pension, and came to California in 1925.

Immigration officials arrested Holovhit here, deporting him to Canada. He returned to Los Angeles in 1929, was rearrested and again ordered deported to Canada. The Dominion this time refused to accept Holovhit, declaring it had discovered he never had been a subject.

Due to the lack of diplomatic relations with Russia, the immigration authorities found they could not deport Holovhit to his native land. They discovered he came to America via Poland and sought to return him to that country. The Polish consul general at Chicago declined to accept Holovhit.

Antique Plumbing Won't Rent a House or Apartment!

WHAT LANDLORD can afford to ignore the reasonable demands of his tenants for modern plumbing in bathrooms, kitchens and laundries? Americans, more than any other people on the globe, are lovers of personal cleanliness. They have a natural regard for sanitation and an inherent preference for the better things. They spend far too much time in their bathrooms and kitchens to be content with inadequate and unsanitary makeshifts. Their standards are high—and they will never be lower!

In this city today are hundreds of houses and apartments that are now, or will be, tenantless—and for no reason but antique plumbing. Here—there—everywhere—new buildings are a constant lure to families that have graduated from Mid-Victorian tubs and old-fashioned lavatories to the new, modern "Standard" built-in baths and vitreous china lavatories.

The owner of property for rent today is face to face with the keenest competition in his history. And the backbone of this competition—believe it or not—is the plumbing. For the "utility rooms"—bathroom, kitchen and laundry—are the measuring gauge of household efficiency, and many houses and apartments are rented solely because these three rooms measure up to the requirements.

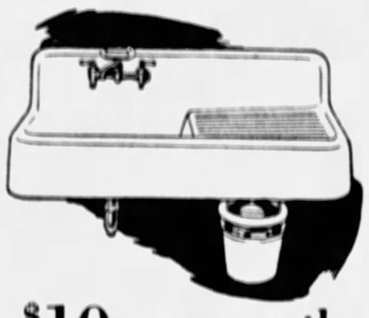
There need be no question as to what the present-day family expects in the way of plumbing. The new plumbing fixture designs and colors originated by "Standard" have been the inspiration for a new conception of bathroom furnishing and decoration.

A visit to the "Standard" Showroom will disclose how to individualize one bathroom or a hundred bathrooms. It is a veritable school to which home owners have come with their problems and in which they have learned of the latest developments. It offers every landlord similar opportunities; in groups and settings it displays for his leisurely observation the many styles and types from which it will be easy to make a practical selection. Or his plumber is completely supplied with information.

As a further contribution to the present-day desire for better plumbing fixtures, "Standard" offers an unusually easy and simple plan of purchase on time payments. No annoying delays. Simply select the equipment you desire and place your order with your plumber.

$22 per month
For these three "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures installed!

Isn't that surprisingly little for a "Standard" built-in bath, genuine vitreous china lavatory, and a modern, efficient water closet? Other groups for $14, $16, $17, and $24 per month. Any individual "Standard" Plumbing Fixture, in white or color, may be purchased for a small down payment and a little each month.



$10 per month
installs the famous Standard "Three 8's" Sink in your kitchen. Small down payment.

WOMAN SUICIDE, RICHES FOUND

BALTIMORE, May 13.—(AP.)—The body of Mrs. Mary Textor was found lying in several inches of water in the basement of a palatial home she occupied alone, and several hours later police had unearthed $100,000 in jewels, cash and bonds from various hiding places about the dwelling.

Mrs. Textor's body was found lying in the water, a strand of heavy wire wound tightly about the neck and water still gushing from a broken overhead pipe which the woman apparently had used as a gallows upon which to hang herself.

All doors and windows of the house were locked, and the blinds drawn over the windows when Frank Bouchal, a friend of the 68-year-old woman, called.

After the body had been removed, police started a search which resulted in finding of the treasure. In a talking machine box was a handful of jewels, which added to others found in other hiding places totalled $25,000 in value. Other cracks and crannies yielded Liberty bonds, other securities and cash to bring the whole total to $100,000, the police said.

250 Fire Fighters Win Woods Battles

RIDGWAY, Pa., May 13.—Two hundred fifty men and boys were fighting forest fires in several places of the county. One hundred seven acres were burned over before the fires were subdued. The largest fire was along the B. R. and P. tracks west of Ridgway. The Ridgway Fire Department was called out.

BYRD'S SCOUT TO WRITE BOOK

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Paul Siple, of Erie, Pa., boy scout and youngest member of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, is to turn author.

William Van Der Veer, motion picture cameraman with the expedition, who has already returned to the United States, says Siple plans to write a book on his experiences at the South Pole. And he has plenty to write about, take it from Van Der Veer.

Young Siple, one of the best-liked men in the camp at Little America, spent all of his spare time in study. He mounted specimens of Antarctic animal life, made a map of southern stars from his observations, drove a dog team and trained a team of puppies himself, took depth soundings in the Bay of Whales and made a study of ice conditions, besides contributing more than his share to the routine work of shoveling snow, doing kitchen police and standing night watch at sea and in camp.

Siple also became the "seal expert" of the expedition.

His work has brought high praise from Rear Admiral Byrd in dispatches to the Boy Scouts of America. He is aboard the Eleanor Bolling, due in New York the middle of June.

CITIES VIE FOR HOOVER VISIT

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP.)—More than a score of invitations to make addresses and visits in cities all over the West have been received by President Hoover since it was announced that he intended spending August on a visit to the national parks of the Rocky Mountains.

The chief executive has not attempted to chart an itinerary, other than his tentative plan to pass through Minneapolis and start his southward swing at Glacier Park. Despite the uncertainty of the route he will take, the invitations have poured in from throughout that section. Minneapolis, St. Paul, Fargo, Omaha, Billings and Kansas City were heard from yesterday.

Under the original tentative plans, the president would have passed from Glacier to Yellowstone to Estes and from there to his home in Palo Alto. On the return trip, he would have visited Yosemite and Grand Canyon parks.

D. A. R. Chapter Names Officers

CALIFORNIA, Pa., May 13.—Mrs. V. E. Davis, of Monongahela, has been elected regent of the Monongahela Valley Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to succeed Miss Sarah Lailey, of California. Other new officers are: Mrs. R. McKay, of Charleroi; Miss Mary Collins, Monongahela; Mrs. H. O. Anderson, Donora; Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Monongahela, and Mrs. T. H. Herron, Monongahela.

Old Hotel Passes, To Become Garage

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., May 13.—A landmark of Hartstown, known for years as the Century Inn, passed into history this week with remodeling operations which will make it a garage.

The inn was the oldest hostelry in Crawford County and flourished in the days when the stage coach was the principal mode of travel.

Child and Rescuer Burned by Flames

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 13.—Betty Quinn, 6, is suffering from serious burns on the body from her clothing catching on fire from a brush pile in the yard of a neighbor, Robert Bigley.

Bigley was burned when he smothered the child's burning clothing.

Cash in Million Pact to Be Paid At Dinner

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., May 13. (AP.)—Two checks of $25,000 each will be passed across the table at a dinner here this week and thus Miss Marion Hollins, former woman's national golf champion, will have carried out her part of an odd agreement entered into by two women and a man five years ago.

At a dinner in 1925 Miss Hollins and Mrs. Louise Dudley, of Santa Monica, and Eric Pedley, star polo player, of San Gabriel, shook hands on an agreement that "the first of the three to make a million dollars would pay each of the others $25,000."

Miss Hollins became interested in promotion of Kettleman Hills oil lands, and last week announcement was made that her share of the sale of an oil corporation would total considerably more than a million dollars.

Tin Mill Manager Back from India

FARRELL, Pa., May 13.—Mr. and Mrs. John Leyshon, of Galmorri, India, have arrived here for a visit with relatives. Mr. Leyshon, former postmaster of Farrell, is superintendent of the India Tin Plate Company plant at Galmorri, a position he has held for eight years.

They will remain here for about four months as guests of Mr. Leyshon's mother, Mrs. Howell Leyshon.

STATE INSANE ASYLUM OVERCROWDED

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM DFARR

We have nothing but sympathy in our good old generous heart for Regis Toomey, the Pitt graduate who is making good (we guess he's making good) in the movies.

"Some day," Mr. Toomey from Hollywood writes the Pitt Weekly, "I am going to pack up and come back to the old school just to see how many teachers I can remember."

So we have sympathy for Regis. There he is, on the coast, rolling in wealth and fame, but yearning for the opportunity to return to the Pitt campus just to see whether he can identify that tall, hungry bespectacled fella who used to orate in Philosophy 2-B.

Well, we advise the young man to stay on the Hollywood lots. He will find, if he returns, that he remembers all of his teachers—as who doesn't?—but that all of his teachers can't remember him. Teachers, Regis, are glad to forget all of us, even those who go into the movies.

Jack McDonald, the editor of the Slippery Rock Signal, which is a good small-town newspaper, tells a baseball story:

Last fall a flock of wild ducks passed over Forbes Field during a game. There were so many in the flock that the crowd forgot the game for a minute to watch them disappear in the south.

Five minutes later a lone duck flew over the field, then circled back again. A bleacher fan who had fallen off the water wagon successfully watched the bird with interest, finally stood up, pointed southward and shouted, "Hey, they went that way."

At 12 minutes after last midnight we gathered together our mob—the Sidewalk Stilettos—forced entrance into the Pittsburgh Railways office, broke open the desk of Joe Donley and departed stealthily with our loot—a copy of Instruction Bulletin No. 57.

Bulletin No. 57 tells the conductor what to do when you try to palm off last Tuesday's transfer on the subsequent Friday, as who hasn't? The conductor is told to reply, "Sorry, the time limit has expired on this transfer. I cannot accept it."

We will say for the Railways that the conductors are instructed to use (and the capitals are the Railways') A PLEASANT TONE OF VOICE. If a conductor shows up for work with a gruff voice, we suspect that he is immediately consigned to the Pleasant Voice Department until his vocal cords ring with pleasantness. We know one conductor (at least we say we do) who gave up his job with the Railways because he was susceptible to quinsy.

What's wrong with this country is that its golfers are too amenable. They are afraid to defy convention by using whichever club appeals to them. We, for example, use a putter for short approach shots. We use the putter again for half of the shots out of a sand trap, although that is seldom necessary. On short holes we use a wooden driver, rather than an iron, and tee the ball high. All this is contrary to convention, but we advise you to try it. Yesterday we shot 107.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 13.

See by the papers that every night somebody breaks into Senator Hiram Johnson's office to try and find something. Well, any time they even catch a fellow that broke into a senator's office, the worst they can ever try him for is petty larceny.

See where a lot of cities are kicking on their census, blaming the government because they haven't got more people. Claremore, Oklahoma, come through with a 254 gain. That's not per cent, that's people. Folks make towns, not numbers. If Cleveland, O., keeps dropping they will lose their postoffice and county seat.

Yours,
WILL.

GIRL UNAFRAID

Ken Races Home and Finds His Mother Very Ill

CHAPTER XXX.

They were in the cabin with the others. Ken was ripping the envelope of a telegram.

He looked up, his face ashen. "It's from the doctor. Mother's very ill. I'll have to go."

A sense of disaster crushing in on Ardeth. For a moment the true import of the message escaped her. It seemed like a dramatic parry to Ken's last words to her. He spoke of marriage and was immediately snatched away.

Then her heart went out in a warm gush of pity, he looked so white, so stunned. But there was nothing she could do. He did not need her . . .

While Ken hastily changed into other clothes—while Tom drove his car up to the road to be in readiness—she could only stand, feeling her heart shaken by a sense of fear. Hearing the excited repressed voices of the others.

Ken came running downstairs in hat and overcoat. His eyes went as blankly over her as they did over the others. He answered Mary's questions mechanically, in agony to be off.

He refused Tom's offer to go along, brusk'y. He'd be all right. He didn't need anyone.

Headlights danced on the snow . . . The roar of his motor quickly dying out. He was gone. And the little group in the cabin seemed oddly forlorn.

Recollection
Mary's Action Makes Ardeth Unhappy

"Poor Ken," murmured Mary. "If it's the end it will go hard with Ken. He's devoted to his mother."

Was it her fancy, thought Ardeth, or did Mary's gaze brush her compassionately for a moment as she spoke.

Later that night, when she lay awake on the narrow cot which had been prepared for her, Ardeth found herself recalling the incidents with a sinking heart. Why should Mary pity her? Suppose the worst happened . . . Suppose Ken's mother . . . Oh, no! never think of that! Never wish to draw her own happiness through Ken's sorrow.

Wide eyes fastened on the low bright stars looking in the window, she tried to follow Ken in fancy on his lonely ride. Plunging down the black mountains . . . Did he feel this great pitying love she felt for him? Did it bring him comfort?

Hours later Ken reached the end of his journey. Dark and silent the city lay, drenched in rain. Heavy, sluggish drops, like heavy tears . . .

Meets Cecile
Ken Finds Mother Very Ill

Like a painful dream as he reached the apartment he shared with his mother. As he fitted the key in the lock, the door opened. He had expected a nurse . . . the doctor, perhaps. Something of a small shock to find Cecile Parker before him. Cecile, in a soft, gray-blue chiffon thing which made her white oval of face and the Naples yellow waves of her hair soft and appealing. Gone, the orange lipstick. The mauve eye shadow was missing, too, and her pale gray eyes met his in sweetest sympathy.

In response to his amazed question she answered in a low voice. "I've been here since 5. As soon as she was taken ill."

"How is she?" Ken's voice was a queer croak.

The girl shrugged slightly. "Very weak . . . She may not know you."

But Cecile was mistaken. As soon as Ken entered the bedroom, where he found a white uniformed nurse in attendance, his mother opened her eyes.

Fever bright, the shrunken eyes looked up into his anxious face.

"The . . . end . . . Ken . . ."

The young fellow choked. "Why, Spider Kelly!" his tongue faltered over the old nickname, "Where's your grit! I'm here, dearest, you must get well! You can't throw me down like this!"

The faintest flicker of a smile touched the wrinkled face. A shallow sigh. The eyelids closed.

At Ken's gasp the nurse leaped to the bed. Then her low encouraging whisper, bringing the color to the man's face. "She's asleep . . . Best thing that could happen. Here—sit here. If she wakes and finds you here it's better than medicine."

Hours ticked away by the little china clock on the bureau. Hours, when the man sat unstirring in the chair, his brown hand warm over the wrinkled one on the bed.

Visions Party
Tries Not to Think of Ardeth

All the world receded, leaving only this lighted room—an island of reality floating in a sea of chaos.

Now and then he was aware of others floating into his range of vision. The stout dark figure of the doctor. The white starched nurse. Cecile, slender and lovely as she stole noiselessly in to tuck a cushion behind his back.

The long vigil became a nightmare. At first his thoughts clustered entirely about that frail old figure on the bed. Then, as the first sharp edge of anxiety dulled—as hour after hour passed in shallow breathing and no change came over the gray withered face on the pillow, Ken's tired mind became vague—dreamy.

The drive down the mountains after a day of vigorous exercise had left him worn out. That day . . . was it possible that it was only a few short hours ago that he had been up in Tom's mountain cabin, laughing, joking with Mary and Fred and Phyllis? Dancing with Ardeth. Ardeth . . . Unconsciously he shook his head and closed his eyes as though to shut away the image of her face. The thought of Ardeth did not belong here in this room where his mother battled death.

Mother Awakens
Asks for Ken and Cecile

He slept for moments at a time. Troubled sleep, shot with disturbing dreams. He was driving like a fiend—hurtling down steep black roads like a falling comet. Ardeth was clinging to him and crying . . .

He woke with a guilty start. Leaned forward, holding his breath.

No change. The face against the pillow so worn—so small. The satin quilt lifting so shallowly over the shrunken chest.

To the nurse's whispered suggestion that he slip away and get some rest he vigorously shook his head. Sat upright. Blinking wearily at the bed.

The night lifted. The sky outside the window became a hard cold blue. The bleak light of morning crept in to dim the gold of the night light.

As though it called to her, his mother opened her eyes. Her voice, a shade stronger than it had been last night, brought his anxious face leaning over her.

"Cecile . . ." she whispered. "I want both my children here with me . . ."

Ken suddenly became aware of Cecile standing close beside him.

His mother managed a faint smile at them both. A sick lurch at Ken's heart . . . He had the feeling of a net closing down about him.

Bishop of Erie Recounts Gregorian Chant Beauty; Business Session Opens

That the Catholic Church stands for all that is true and beautiful in art, particularly in music, the Rt. Rev. Mark Gannon, bishop of Erie, said today in his sermon at the solemn pontifical high mass in the Cathedral, which marked the opening of the convention of the Society of St. Gregory of America here.

Bishop Gannon dwelt at length on the Gregorian chant, described as the barometer of religious fervor in the church, and pointed out its beauty and expressiveness. He also told the history and significance of the chant.

BOYLE DIRECTS MASS

The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of Pittsburgh, was the celebrant of the mass. A thousand school children, directed by the Rev. Carlo Rossini, sang the mass "Fons Bonitatus," with Credo III.

The first business session of the convention was held in Synod Hall, adjoining the Cathedral, with papers presented by the Rev. John M. Perier, professor of music at St. Bernard's Seminary, Rochester, N. Y., and president of the society, and the Rev. Stephen Thuis, of St. Meinrad's Seminary, St. Meinrad, Ind. A discussion of the papers, which dealt with the Gregorian Chant, followed.

DISCUSS MUSIC

At the afternoon session papers dealing with sacred music in Catholi colleges and the training of boys' voices, was to be given by Sister M. Lucretia, Marywood College, Scranton, and Dr. Reginald Mills Silby, organist and choirmaster of the Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul, Philadelphia

FACES JURY IN POOL ROW

Policemen and other witnesses took the stand today in Criminal Court in an endeavor to strengthen the charge of murder about William Lunsford and Carroll Jackson, Woods Run Negroes, alleged to have been members of the lottery pool gang said to have robbed and killed Emmett Curtis, Idelwild street Negro, pick-up man for a rival lottery, in Hanlon street December 23. Ulysses Pridgeon, Jacks Run road, was found guilty of first degree murder with life imprisonment by a jury last week and William Hargrave, alleged fourth member of the gang, is to be tried next week. Two others have not been apprehended. Visiting Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand, New Castle, who recently tried Irene Schroder, blond trigger woman, and Glenn Dague, is trying the case, which is expected to last nearly all week.

Rankin Child Hit By Automobile Dies

Injuries suffered when she was struck by an automobile in Patterson street, Rankin, yesterday morning, caused the death several hours later in the Braddock General Hospital of Mrs. Amelia Melocki, 32, of 2 Boundary street. Walter H. Buick, of 5464 Rosetta street, driver of the car, was ordered to post bond at the coroner's office today, it was reported.

Pittsburgher Qualifies In Denver Bank Finals

A. Gordon Patterson, 2441 Plainview avenue, winner in the District No. 2 group of the national public speaking contest sponsored by the National Institute of Banking, held at Washington Saturday, will go to Denver, Col., June 15, to compete in the national finals to be held during the fourth annual convention of the institute.

Patterson won over contestants from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, New Jersey, Delaware, North Carolina and District of Columbia. The contests were instituted by A. P. Giannini, chairman of the advisory committee as means of promoting interest of institute members in research or banking subjects.

BEDS FILL HOSPITAL HALLS

Danger of Panic Held Grave in Case of Fire; 223 Without Quarters

(Editor's Note—The fire in the Ohio state penitentiary at Columbus, in which more than 300 prisoners lost their lives, has led the Sun-Telegraph to inquire concerning conditions in Pennsylvania institutions in which large numbers of persons are confined. The following article is the first of a series in which conditions, as seen by Sun-Telegraph reporters, will be described.)

By MAX HENRICI
Staff Correspondent.

WARREN, Pa., May 8.—The State Hospital for the Insane at Warren is so crowded that patients are sleeping in the corridors! Yet conditions here, with respect to congestion, are said to be less serious than in many of the other places in which the Commonwealth takes care of its wards.

Twenty-seven women patients are quartered in an old ramshackle frame farmhouse, and some of the other buildings are not fireproof. But the main buildings are fairly well protected, and the danger would seem to lie in overcrowding, with its possibility of panic, rather than in the possibility of flames.

223 CROWDED OUT

The Warren Hospital has standard or rated bed capacity for 1,498 patients. It actually has 1,721 resident patients, an excess of 223, or about 15 per cent more than it should. All sorts of devices are employed to find room for those surplus 223.

Moreover, the asylum is under constant pressure to receive more inmates. Dr. H. W. Mitchell, superintendent, has had to set his foot down against taking patients from any but the 12 counties in Northwestern Pennsylvania which it has been designated to serve. Sufferers from insanity are increasing at a slightly greater rate than the general increase in population, and it is all that the Warren institution can do to take care of its 12 counties.

To relieve the pressure patients are paroled more readily than would be the case if the asylum were not so crowded. There are 179 on parole at the present time.

BEDS TOO CLOSE

The congestion at Warren appears in a number of ways. In the dormitories beds are placed together so closely that there is little or no room to pass between them. There are no chairs, no lockers or articles of furniture in the dormitories where clothing or one's personal things can be placed. Every bit of space is required for sleeping purposes, and sleeping purposes alone. Three long corridors, or halls, intended originally only as passageways, are utilized for the same purpose. In some rooms, intended for only one patient, two are quartered.

Nurses as well as patients suffer from overcrowding. The nurses' home requires double its present capacity. In consequence some of the nurses have to sleep, two and three in a room, in the same wards in which they have worked all day. They have no sit-

WIFE ROUGH, GETS DIVORCE

Kicking, striking and throwing toilet articles at her husband proved sufficient grounds for Chester W. Schellhaas, 1214 Sandusky street, to obtain a divorce from Edna Clara Schellhaas, Dewey street, Los Angeles.

Judge George V. Moore granted the divorce on grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. Schellhaas testified his wife had struck him, the fourth day after their marriage in 1927. At that time they were living at 150 Lincoln avenue, Bellevue. She also threw a hair brush, comb and nail file at him while they lived there. Later she kicked him, he told the court.

On one occasion he took her to California on an automobile trip and on another occasion on a 3,000-mile automobile trip, Mrs. Schellhaas leaving him shortly afterwards. He told the court his wife asserted everything he did was wrong. Schellhaas said he found a letter from another man whose address was Hollywood, but his wife told him she did not love the man who had written her.

Election Is Held At Keystone A. C.

Members of the Keystone Athletic Club today were holding their first annual election of officers and directors. The balloting was to continue until 7 p. m., after which the complete returns were to be given. Open house programs were to continue in all club departments. John R. Longabaugh served as chairman of the nominating committee.

Ammon Fights Off Death Despite Complication

Attorney Franklin A. Ammon today was resting quietly, continuing his fight of over a week against illness that struck him down May 5.

Apparently recovering from the paralysis that had affected his left side following an apoplectic stroke, an intestinal complication developed Sunday night.

Physicians nursed the spark of life all during the night and police from the South Side Station stood by, ready to administer oxygen to relieve pressure on his lungs.

Throughout the day Mrs. Ammon and nurses kept constant vigil as the patient hovered between life and death.

Well known in Pittsburgh as a criminal lawyer, Ammon is remembered as the man who secured 11 stays of execution for Joseph Valotta, condemned to death for murder. Valotta's trial attracted widespread attention before he died in prison, sentence having been commuted to life imprisonment.

Ammon was one of the leaders in the fight for Carrick's annexation to Pittsburgh.

He was of German descent, his great-grandfather being the Baron Christoph Frederick von Ammon, preacher to the King of Saxony during the Sixteenth century.

Ammon's father, Augustus Ammon, was an insurance broker and magistrate in Fittsburgh. Among his grand-nieces is Lois Moran, screen celebrity.

For his work urging the adoption of Cook Forest as a state reserve, Ammon was initiated as a chie. of the Seneca Indians, christened "Big Sitting Bear."

FIGHT TO OUST SHARPSBURG POLICE FORCE FAILS

The Camera Question Box

Today's Question: Should marriages in which there is an age difference of 40 years or more be prohibited by law?

Rev. Kronzek

THE REV. SBUL KRONZEK, East End, teacher: Such marriages should be prohibited by law. If we stop to consider the wide difference in interests of two persons whose ages are widely separated I believe we must admit that such differences do not make for successful marriages.

Miss Cohn

CLARA COHN, downtown, secretary: I do not think it is advisable to marry a person who is much younger or older than yourself but, on the other hand, I do not believe we should legislate against such unions. The problem should be left entirely to the persons concerned.

Mrs. Schultz

MRS. A. M. SCHULTZ, downtown, stenographer: We seem to have laws governing almost everything else, so why not have one dealing with age difference in marriage. If such a law was in effect, there would be a slump in the divorce rate. We might try such a law, anyhow.

H. P. Gumnit

H. P. GUMNIT, downtown, superintendent: I do not think there should for the reason that it would be legislating for the small group instead of the majority. We already have too much of such legislation. We have no reason to waste our time trying to settle a problem, which after all, is not so important.

Mrs. Gumnit

MRS. H. P. GUMNIT, downtown, housewife: How many people do you know who have married someone that is far younger or older than they? Not very many, I dare say. I think it would be silly to pass a law prohibiting such marriages.

Miss Wolf

MISS ADA WOLF, East End, nurse: Let the couple decide the question. Nobody has the right to sit in judgment and dictate on such a question. Personally, I believe it's foolish to marry somebody much older or younger than yourself, but we have no right to prohibit it.

REIGN OF RUM BARONS BASIS OF ATTACK

Officers Accused of Being Lax and Inefficient Kept On Job by Vote of 4 to 2

Sharpsburg police continued to function today, an attempt to oust the department having failed at a meeting of borough Council last night. Charges of being lax and inefficient on the part of police, and that the town was overrun with racketeers and booze sellers were made at the meeting.

Councilman John J. Lennon presented a motion to dismiss the force, urging that none be re-employed. The motion was seconded by Councilman Alfred Pontello. Four other members, President Edward S. Michaelowski, Jacob Malley, William Harris and Charles Schrenk, voted against the motion.

Schrenk voiced the opinion that conditions in the borough were not right, but objected to the whole department being discharged. Lennon and Pontello both denounced the activities of the department, while Michaelowski upheld the police.

FULTON SCHOOL THROWN OPEN

Newly completed addition of Fulton School, Hampton street, will be dedicated Tuesday, May 20, at 7:45 p. m. by the Parent-Teacher Association of the school. Inspection of the new addition will follow a social hour. The Parnet-Teacher Association will hold an election of officers following the inspection.

Speakers for the evening will be Miss Ella Crumrine, principal; T. F. Ryan, chairman of the building committee; Dr. William M. Dadvidson, superintendent of buildings, and W. H. Ochiltree, president of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Observatory Post Will Stage Play

Observatory Post, No. 81, American Legion, will present its fifth annual version of "What Nice Glory" tomorrow, Thursday and Friday nights in the auditorium of Perry High School. A feautre will be a Japanese ballet of 16 girls. Music will be provided by a chorus and the Twenty-eighth Division quartet.

Miner at Arnold Dies in Ambulance

Proceeds from the play will be devoted to the maintenance and improvement of the home, according to H. P. Gumnit, superintendent of the home.

Miss Molly Picon, noted actress, has been secured to play the leading role. Miss Picon will come to Pittsburgh after a 20 weeks' stand in New York.

TRADERS MARK ANNIVERSARY

The North Side Board of Trade will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization with a banquet at 6:30 p. m. today in the Hotel Henry.

Albert J. Eber, president, will preside and introduce charter members and officers of the Allied Boards of Trade who will be guests? An entertainment program will follow. In addition to President Eber the officers are William G. Doench, A. M. Hartzell and Dr. E. E. Neely, vice presidents; William J. Selling, treasurer, and E. L. Rieseck, secretary.

Truck Driver Hurt In North Side Crash

William Ackerman, 26, of 1820 Beaver avenue, was in St. John's Hospital today with injuries suffered yesterday when a truck he was driving collided with a street car at Island and California avenues.

Two passengers on the car, operated by B. Kirby, suffered lacerations and were treated at the hospital. They were Antonio Bulandit, 42, of 1909 Sarah street, and Frank Wilkinson, 55, of 412 Logan street, police reported.

Advertising Club Gets New Charter

A new charter will be received by the Pittsburgh Advertising Club at its meeting tomorrow, R. B. McDaniel, Jr., president, announced today. The charter comes from T. D. CHURCH WOMEN HERE CALM ON NEW RIGHTS

Overture Giving Authority Ratified in Pittsburgh; Pastor Declines Comment

Pittsburgh Presbyterians were not much excited over the news that the overture permitting women to sit as members of congregational sessions, presbyteries, synods and the general assembly had been ratified by a majority of the presbyteries.

Pittsburgh Presbytery ratified that overture and the one permitting women to become licensed evangelists, but voted against the overture permitting women to be ordained as ministers. While the measures were pending before the presbytery there was no agitation, it was said, for or against them.

DR. HUTCHISON SILENT

Asked what he thought about the matter, the Rev. Dr. S. N. Hutchison, pastor of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church, said he preferred not to comment.

Mrs. William T. Bradberry, president of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, said:

"I have no personal interest in seeing women take a more active part in the church government. In our city churches the women don't really wish it, and there is no need for it. But there are cases, perhaps, in distant mission stations where women should sit as members of church bodies to which they were previously ineligible.

SUGGESTS MRS. BELL

"I suggest you get the opinion of Mrs. John A. Bell, of the Iroquois Apartments, who is really the most prominent woman in the presbytery."

Mrs. Bell said, laughingly:

"I don't care to comment, but I am not in favor of the change."

BEDS CROWDING HOSPITAL HALL

ERECT NEW BUILDING

A new reception room, which will accomodate close to 100 patients, is nearing completion. It is the first important addition to the plant in 20 years. The hospital's population has been increasing steadily throughout that period, but the Legislature has failed to provide for it. That is the explanation for the deplorable situation in which the hospital finds itself today.

With iron bars preventing egress from windows and the doors of all the wards locked at all times, it would seem that a fire would be a serious matter. Dr. Mitchell pointed out that there was little of an inflammable nature in the principal structures, that more than 100 attendants carried keys to the wards, and that the institution was equipped with a water system, hydrants and fire hose through which water could be poured with sufficient pressure to throw a stream over the roof.

There are four annex buildings of identical architecture, each containing more than 100 patients, with only one narrow staircase offering egress. These buildings are about 25 years old. They have been considered safe, but are now so crowded that it has been deemed advisable to install fire escapes, and they will be so equipped, at an expense of $15,000, this summer.

Dr. Mitchell does not think there is any danger of fire, but is taking no chances. He remarked that in his long experience with asylums he had gone through three hot fires, without losing a patient. But he rapped loudly on wood as he said it.

ENGLISH IN LIST AS CONTROLLER

Councilman W. Y. English is most frequently mentioned today as a possible successor to City Controller Daniel Winters.

Others are Traffic Court Magistrate William Soost, Councilman John S. Herron and Councilman George J. Kambach.

Any number of "dark horses" are ready and anxious to accept the position. Mr. Winters' successor will be named by Council with Mayor Charles H. Kline having one vote.

The choice seems to lie with Mayor Kline. He has the support of a majority of Council and there seems little doubt but that the man he chooses will be elected.

The year after next the people will elect a controller for the unexpired term. Mr. Winters is the third man who died in that office within the past few years.

Ambridge police expect to put a new automobile into commission late this week, borough council having sanctioned the purchase at its meeting last night. A request for two additional patrolmen for the department was referred to the police committee.

MINSTRELS AID STORE FUND

Comedy, dancing, songs and magic featured the program of Rosenbaum's minstrels at the Davis Theater last night, attended by hundreds of employes of the store and outsiders from many sections of the Pittsburgh district.

Those taking prominent parts were: Jack Sellers and his 16-piece orchestra; John Wilson, performing magic tricks, and B. Rosenbaum, heading a program of songs. The production was under the direction of P. M. DeDevoire.

Proceeds of the show will be added to the fund of the Rosenbaum Mutual Aid Society. Following the performance the cast were guests of L. A. Behr, president of the Rosenbaum Company, at a dinner in the Concordia Club. Walter Rosenbaum, vice president, and Mr. Behr complimented the cast.

SCHOOL WINS LAND IN COURT FIGHT

Ben Avon Taxpayer Loses Injunction Suit—Plot Needed for Athletics

Judge George V. Moore handed down an opinion in Common Pleas Court, dismissing injunction proceedings brought by George H. and Lucy Wey, to prevent the school district of Ben Avon from appropriating the Wey property in Emsworth.

The property which adjoins high priced lands was taken by the school district for the purpose of enlarging the schools athletic field. Judge Moore finds in dismissing the action at the expense of the complainants, that it is just as necessary to aid the physical development of school children, as their mental training.

A portion of the field in question has been appropriated by the county, for use of the Ohio River Boulevard. The Weys objected to the condemnation of their property on the ground it was not being taken for building purposes but the court sweeps this contention aside as immaterial. The court took a similar view on the point that the land in question is in Emsworth and not in the Ben Avon school district. Sites in the latter cost more, because of the built-up section.

$49,611 GIVEN ARCHITECT

James Riely Gordon, a New York architect, was awarded a verdict of $49,611.63 against Cambria County by a jury in Federal court, in a suit to collect approximately $175,000. The trial, before Judge Nelson McVicar, consumed one week.

Gordon claimed the money for designing and supervising the construction of the Cambria County courthouse at Ebensburg, and for losses sustained through the county commissioners halting the work after it was under way. The construction began in 1916 and completed in 1923.

Before the case was given to the jury the court ruled out claims of approximately $112,000, some with the consent of plaintiff's counsel. While the structure was being erected a new board of commissioners stopped the work, and it was not resumed until after the architect instituted mandmanus proceedings.

The plaintiff was represented by Attorneys Walter Lyon and H. R. Hahn, of Pittsburgh, and William A. McGuire, of Ebensburg.

Safety Hints, Not Arrests, Aim of Civic Committee; Seeks Cut in Accidents

The formation of the Traffic Safety Observers, an organization of 500 non-uniformed citizens who are to voluntarily report traffic violations and to educate in a diplomatic manner the careless motorists thus detected, will take place this week, Frank L. Duggan, general chairman of the Better Traffic Committee announced. The new group of observers is sponsored by the traffic committee under the direction of Chairman Walter Rosenbaum's education sub-committee.

The observers, according to Duggan, will consist of carefully selected citizens, heads and members of the boards of directors of civic groups who are interested in reducing the city's traffic accident toll. The names of the observers will not be given out, but they will be known by number both to the committee and to the violators.

Each observer will be given report postal cards on which they will describe the violations they detect. The group, Duggan says, is not organized to prosecute anyone, but it is merely an educational organization, reminding and instructing flagrant violators to the end that carelessness may be reduced in the city.

2 GROUNDHOGS PETS OF CITY

EVANS CITY, Pa., May 13.—Two groundhogs, pets of the town, are a point of interest today as they keep house under an abandoned school building at 131 Jefferson street.

The young animals, unlike Punxsutawney's famous seer of weather forecast fame, have no worry about food. Residents provide it aplenty in the desire to watch them. Under the flooring of the 67-year-old schoolhouse, a rug the animals stole from a nearby porch makes their nest.

Under the porch of the adjoining house they find high and dry quarters when dampness enters their own. Mrs. R. M. Williams, living next door, provides bread as the bait to draw the groundhogs into the open when visitors stop to see them.

OPTICIAN GUILD WILL BANQUET

Technical subjects occupy the 175 members of the Guild of Prescription Opticians of America in their second day's session today of the fifth annual convention in the Hotel Schenley.

The annual banquet and entertainment will be held tonight. Election of officers will conclude th convention tomorrow. Among today's speakers were to be Charles O. Cozzens, L. T. Wilding, Don Southgate, Peter Meyer, Dr. Edward B. Heckel and others.

Fourteen exhibitors are displaying the latest styles. Platinum rims set with diamonds are among the more elaborate innovations. Among new styles in shapes are semi-rim with the lower half of the lenses plain.

Women visitors were being entertained today with sightseeing trips and luncheon at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

New Tartan Staff Appointed at Tech

John Joseph Boyle, of Cleveland, has been elected editor-in-chief of the Tartan, student newspaper at Carnegie Institute of Technology, for next year, it was announced today.

Miss Nancy Newman, of 6401 Bartlett street, Pittsburgh, was selected as managing editor and Miss Isabel Levin, of 1424 Jancey street, Pittsburgh, as news editor. Miss Grace Borgerding, of 27 Dinsmore avenue, Crafton, will be women's editor. David Genter, of Paris, France, will be business manager.

CLEAN UP DRIVE AT SILVER LAKE

Students of the Westinghouse High School have united in an effort to beautify the Silver Lake district of the East End. The lake, near the school, has for some years been a dump for refuse from the homes in the vicinity. The students, through posters and parades, are lending their support to the beautification of the section.

A parade and demonstration held yesterday was one of the first steps in the undertaking. The entire student body turned out in appropriate costumes for the clean-up campaign.

THREE LIBELS IN DIVORCE

Dorothy Harvey, 2500 Haselton avenue, North Side, who says she was deserted by John S. Harvey, has filed a libel in divorce in Common Pleas Court. The couple were married April 19, 1927, and separated October 19, 1928.

Two other libels, alleging cruel and barbarous treatment, also were filed. Corinne B. Hutchinson, 1207 South Park street, McKeesport, makes that charge against Harry A. Hutchinson. The same complaint is made by Hettie Alexander, Pitcairn, against John Alexander. The former couple married in 1925 and the latter in 1916.

OAKMONT 'STOP' SIGNS O. K.'D

An investigation of the new stop signs at Oakmont and Allegheny avenues, Oakmont, has been made by officials of the Pittsburgh Motor Club as a result of complaints received from members, it was stated at club headquarters. After a conference with borough officials, the motor club officials have sanctioned the signs as the best method of preventing accidents at these points.

C. H. Roth, secretary of the club stated that the club receives many complaints each week from motorists about certain stop signs in the county. Many of the motorist have received a summons for failure to observe the sign, but in most cases the signs are a necessity. The club is urging all its members to co-operate with police in small municipalities by obeying the warnings.

CHURCH DRIVE REACHES GOAL

The $300,000 goal which the Methodist Episcopal Church Union was seeking to attain in their welfare fund appeal, has been attained, John W. Vickerman, general chairman of the campaign, told workers last night at their final report dinner in the Chamber of Commerce. To date contributions amounted to $298,324 with many returns yet to be made from churches, it was announced.

Although the church contributions have not yet been reported upon, M. L. Benedum, honorary chairman, has guaranteed the balance necessary to reach the $300,000, it was announced at the meeting. One of the largest single reports of the evening was that of the employes of the Benedum-Trees Oil Company. It was reported that employes of this company had contributed $14,000.

More than 570 workers were present at the dinner. The Rev. Dr. H. D. Whitfield, pastor of the Beaver Methodist Episcopal Church, offered the invocation.

PETTING PARTY GRAFT CHARGED

Charged with impersonating a state highway patrolman and robbery, Paul D. Coble, 40, of 28 Clay street, Dravosburg, was held by Clairton police today for a hearing before Alderman C. L. Patterson, of Clairton, tonight. Coble, a married man with two children, is said to have used his fictitious authority to rob and annoy petting parties in Lovedale and Pangburn Hollows, near Dravosburg.

Chief Charles Livingston, of the Dravosburg police, arrested Coble yesterday, after he escaped from a state highway patrolman of the New Eagle detail. More than a dozen couples appeared at the Dravosburg Police Station last night to complain about Coble's actions, Livingston said.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Mary Hurst To Marry May 31

Today I've still more news from Cupid, who is a very busy person these days. Weddings and engagements, the most exciting events in everyone's life, are as profuse as the budding garden flowers.

First of all, I want to talk about the wedding plans of a former Pittsburgh girl, Mary M. Hurst, of Fairmont, W. Va. She's the daughter of Mrs. William J. Weigle, of Fairmont, and of the late Dr. Harry Hurst, a Pittsburgh physician. And she's the niece of the Oliver C. Hursts, of Bartlett street.

Mary has named May 31 as the date for her wedding to John Williams, of New York, son of Mrs. John Williams, of New York, and of the late Rev. John Williams, who was rector of the Calvary Church of Brooklyn. Mr. Williams is the grandson of the late Joseph J. Little, of New York, and he is studying for the ministry.

The wedding will take place in Christ Episcopal Church of Fairmont, W. Va., with a reception in the Fairmont Country Club to follow.

Buds to Usher

There'll be another Urban recital Thursday morning in the Urban room of the William Penn Hotel. Patricia MacDonald discourse is the attraction.

Harriet Pickens, daughter of the Edwin Pickens, of Woodland road, who made her debut during the past winter, will be chairman of ushers. And she will have as her aides Frances Forsyth, Joan Diehl, Harriet Wainwright and Betty McCance. Frances, Joan and Betty were sister buds of the chairman, and Harriet is a popular member of the younger set.

Mrs. Harry Samson will have Mrs. Albert E. Day as guest of honor at the luncheon which will follow the recital. Mrs. E. E. Balsinger, Mrs. W. F. Connor and Mrs. Loraine Parger will also be Mrs. Samson's guests.

News of one of the most interesting engagements of the spring has just reached me. The Charles Forsyth Pattersons, of "Hillsborough," Sewickley Heights, announce the betrothal of their daughter, Forsyth, to George Elder Watson, Jr., of New York, son of the George Elder Watsons, of New York.

To Wed In Fall

Forsyth is a graduate of Foxcroft School in Virginia, and an outstanding worker in the National Junior League. And, of course, she's a member of the Pittsburgh League.

Her fiance attended St. Mark's School, Massachusetts, and Harvard. And the wedding will be a fall event. * * *

The Harmarville Home for Convalescents, sponsored by Pittsburgh and Sewickley society women, will celebrate its anniversary with an open house day on Wednesday, June 18, I have heard.

Plan at Home Day

On Monday, at the annual luncheon, were gathered 24 of the 28 organizations forming the Federation of Girls' School Societies, in the University Club, with Mrs. George Singer Ebbert presiding. Each of the societies made a report showing a most successful year in maintaining the Home, the object of the Federation.

Miss Lillian Dermitt, executive secretary, reported the largest year on record. Various types of convalescents are cared for there, including cardiacs. Statistics showed that 16,660 days of medical care and nursing had been given to 537 women patients and 283 babies. The convalescent women are nursed at the home until they are sufficiently improved to resume work.

Committees on occupational therapy and recreation reported that movies have been established, and the recreation committee sees that even birthdays are celebrated.

Patients are sent to the Harmarville Convalescent Home by social service departments, city hospitals, physicians and individuals.

Mrs. Sidney Hammond and an assisting committee were in charge of the arrangements for the luncheon yesterday, at which 165 were present.

PANAMALAC PROVES TO BE A SHINING FAVORITE FOR HATS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 13.—That shining light of the millinery world, Panamalac, continues to add to its laurels, for it has, we hear, duplicated its success, on your side of the Atlantic, thus scoring an international triumph. Whether it be trimmed with a simple bow, or an ornate cluster of flowers, its charm is unmistakable, mainly because its lustrous surface does not bestow that hardness to the face that is such a detrimental feature of other shiny straws, however smart they are. Au Contraire, is somehow seems to lend softness and piquant delicacy to the face, and we suppose, that is one of the main reasons for its popularity. Then, too, it is as good with elaborate frocks as with severely tailored models, thus making it an ideal, all-occasion hat. Ribbon trimming is very much liked here, several hats using pink ribbon to all color to make the black and pink combination. Blue and pink, and beige and pink are also to be noted.

THE BLACK panamalac model shown is by Madame Jose, and is most cleverly worked. The brim which arches over the eyes in a most becoming manner, dips down at the sides and is pleated in close to the back of the neck. A large bow of black and pale pink ribbon is placed towards the front at the right side. The droopy brim is being much featured on the very newest hats, but the droop is more to the sides than at the front, the arched model having been found to be most flattering to the majority of faces.

REBOUX continues to make hats that are radical departures from the current mode, and are yet of an extreme smartness and charm. The model shown is one of Reboux's newest triumphs and is made of beige tricot with geometrical inserts of heavy pink grosgrain ribbon. The wide, slightly dipping brim sweeps in curves to a point low at the right side. It is faced with pink grosgrain.

A RARE opportunity to purchase a well-known, high-grade, fully guaranteed Electric Refrigerator at a fraction of its real worth.

These Norge Refrigerators are last year's models, but they are practically the same as the latest Norges, selling at much higher prices, and are guaranteed to be every bit as good. The only difference is in the design of the case and other minor details that do not affect the wonderful performance of the Norge. They even contain the famous Rollator cold-making machine which you find in the latest models. Because of the need of immediate clearance, to make room for other merchandise, we are forced to sacrifice these desirable refrigerators.

The Norge Refrigerator is creating a sensation in the electric refrigerator world. So come and see these outstanding electric refrigerator values tomorrow. You will never find better or bigger bargains.

POLICE ESCORT AT FUNERAL

Twenty-three policemen, including six officers who will act as pallbearers, will escort the body of Benjamin Taylor Bromley, retired police officer, to the South Side Cemetery tomorrow.

Services will be held in the home of Mrs. Albert Spreen, 111 Overbrook boulevard, daughter of the former officer. Mr. Bromley came here from Beaver County in 1882 and joined the police department.

He retired in 1915, after serving as a patrolman in the downtown district for 24 years, and as a wagonman at the South Side station for nine years.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Sarah Bromley; a son, W. L. Bromley, of Los Angeles, Cal.; his daughter and three sisters.

WIFE CAUSTIC, DIVORCES HER

His plea that caustic remarks by his wife caused him to be ostracised, won a divorce today for Edward A. Damrau, of the William Penn Hotel, from Elizabeth A. Damrau. Judge S. H. Gardner granted the decree.

Damrau testified at the hearing that his wife had repeatedly offended his friends when they called on them at their former home, 1014 Beacon avenue.

She ransacked his office, called telephone numbers she found in his pockets, the husband averred, until his friends complained. They were married in 1921 in Hackensack, N. J., and separated last September.

RODMAN FREED IN KILLING

Visiting Judge J. A. McLaughry, of Mercer County, in Criminal Court here today directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the case of Henry Rodman, McKeesport, on trial for murder. Rodman was set free.

The motion for a directed verdict of acquittal was made by defense Attorney William H. Coleman, who contended that the state had failed to connect Rodman with the murder.

Rodman was on trial for the murder of Joseph Silan, 34, merchant, of 625 Fifth avenue, slain in a holdup February 2.

Three Girl Workers Ptomaine Victims

Three girls employed by Kemble & Mills, 337 Boulevard of the Allies, are at home ill, today, suffering, it is believed, from ptomaine poisoning. They are Ruth Cauley, of 317 Cherry street, West Homestead; Ruby Rulland, of Brownsville road, and Ethel Sample, of East street. The cause of their illness has not been ascertained.

FIND TUBE SAFE AGAINST FIRE

The annual inspection of fire-fighting equipment in the Liberty Tubes took place yesterday afternoon.

Under the direction of B. A. Robinson, fire chemical expert, and William J. Buch, assistant superintendent of tunnels, the 27 fire extinguishers in the tubes were tested, cleaned and refilled. These tanks represent a capacity of more than 600 gallons of flame quenching liquid, sufficient, officials say, to meet any emergency. Robinson said.

"The extinguishers all proved 100 per cent by test. In my opinion, the fire hazard in these tubes is very small. About the only improvement I can think of is a system of bell signals which would instantly halt all traffic at the entrances in case of any fire within. Perhaps some such idea can be worked out in the near future."

AUTO VIOLATOR MENTAL CASE

Stanley Valevich, 20, whose home is in Detroit, Mich., appears to have a weakness for automobiles.

Twelve hours after being placed on probation in federal court for transporting a stolen automobile from Dearborn, Ill., to Barnesboro, Pa., he was arrested by police, who said he was "tampering" with an automobile on Penn avenue.

The police yesterday turned him over to Federal Probation Officer George G. O'Brien, who has made arrangements through the State Department of Welfare to have him returned to Detroit for a mental examination.

In federal court he pleaded guilty to the charge of driving the machine from Dearborn to Barnesboro. He said he was on his way to Arcadia, where he believed his father was working.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX Answers
Pittsburgh Girl's Query
"How Can I Attract?"

JOYCE R.—writes: "I am quite good looking, really, but Miss Fairfax, men don't know I'm alive! Other girls no better looking than I am, seem to attract men so easily. It must be their clothes—yet I buy the same styles they do and pay just as much. Miss Fairfax, what can I do—I do so want to be popular."

ANSWER: I am sure you are right, Joyce, in thinking it is their clothes—but don't worry—I'm going to let you in on a little secret that will help you.

Psychologists, my dear, know that color has a wonderful power to arouse the emotions. Especially colors worn by women.

That's why the clever people who design color effects devote years to studying the emotional reactions of men to colors. Every color in fabrics was actually worked out to be magnetic and alluring. All you have to do is:

FIRST: Choose the colors most becoming to you—then you will have the emotional power of color add a fascinating glamour.

SECOND: Remember that any noticeable fading lessens the emotional effect colors achieve.

But there is one sure way to preserve the original appeal of color to masculine emotions.

There is a famous product that is especially made to take out dirt without disturbing colors. If a color is safe in plain water alone, Lux will preserve all of its original magnetism. When you are always wearing colors that look like new, romance seeks you out. Beatrice Fairfax.

Perfect! (Left, above) Test sample washed 12 times in Lux, the color has all the thrill of new—when you wear it the emotional power of color adds its magic glamour to you!

Disappointing! (Right, above) Washed 12 times with ordinary "good" soap—undeniably faded. Not actually ruined, but the color of this printed silk has lost its original lovely appeal.

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

Chickie Quits Her Job and Plans to Visit Farm

CHAPTER LXXXIV.

Chickie dropped the letter in the mail box and trembled. Barry was the one link between her and the world; one link of human sympathy. This letter broke it. She stood alone—in desolate and piteous aloneness.

She felt this isolation—felt it dropping about her like a mantel of ice. And standing there in the gracious September sun, glancing at the houses she knew, seeing women coming out with market bags—seeing all this, she could have covered her face and wept. She would have been grateful to walk at the side of these old acquaintances, listen to their banal gossiping, laugh with them if only she might keep step with the heavy feet; if she might hold, and always, the clasp of these old warm hands.

But she knew now that she was an exiled thing—she must draw this mantle quickly, draw it close about her, and smile—let her heart thunder as it would in fright and protest. She must leave now—no matter where—but she must.

Yet she walked lightly to the drug store, she telephoned to Lewis. She had fallen and sprained her wrists. She'd have to lay off the rest of the week.

Wildie trotted at her side. Whenever she looked at the dog she thought of Jake and blessed him. It was something to have that pair of eyes fixed on her in rapt devotion—something to feel this throb of companionship—what if it was but a dog's.

They went on walks. Chickie could see the bay. It shimmered. It was so clear and blue. It bore the ferryboats on its tranquil breast.

Last night it was black. It was heavy and terrible, and a wind had blown whippingly about it. She began to shake, moisture was in little dots on her lip. If she had only dropped quickly then—only run in and jumped . . . Over—now all ended—swept out on the careless ocean—far out. They would never know—never in the wide world guess the thing that had come upon her.

Decides to Go Away

It would have been better—much better. Those two would now be weeping in their sad quiet; they would have visions of her, pretty as an angel. When a door opened they would start thinking she was coming back to them. They would hear a distant note of music and fancy her singing about the house. So all their pictures would be softened with remembered joys. And in the end they would grow used to grief.

Grief can be borne—not disgrace. They would thank her to spare them this — Oh — they would—

And she must! Never have Jonathan's proud head cast down! Never have the old giant stooping at his gate—because of her that was his light—

She thought a long while. Finally she decided. She pressed Wildie's head against her knees. "Want to come with me, dog? Well, you better. I don't know just where—far off—ever so far."

That afternoon Jennie sewed in the living room. The sun streamed on her faded hair. She had sat like this years ago making the party dress with the little silver flowers. Chickie wished to be near her mother. She wanted Jennie's hand. She drew a little stool and sat at her feet. She said flippantly: "Well, old dove, I'll soon be on my way."

Her throat clutched saying that.

"Where are you going? Do you know?"

"Some of the girls I know are going to a farm for a month. I've an idea that would be very nice, otherwise—"

Asked About Barry

"Chickie, do you hear from Barry?"

"Of course."

"Often? Does he write often?"

"Often enough I'll say."

"I had an idea that he was at the phone last night."

"Ho! Did you?"

"Does he mean to return, Chickie?"

"Weighty question, Jennie, ole thing! Maybe he do and maybe he don't! Tish! I should worry!"

"Sometimes I think you're pining for him—"

"Ho! Ha ha, Jennie! We don't pine in this day and age! We look up another—"

Jennie drew a deep, pained breath. "But I've noticed—I've noticed lately—"

Chickie said tensely: "What have you noticed?" The weight of her heart robbing her of breath. She reached up and took Jennie's hand and pressed it against her cheek.

"You're too young, Chickie to grow sad—"

Chickie ran her lips against her mother's hand. She shut her eyes. Then she rested her head on Jennie's knee. She had a wish to draw the soft plump arms about her—a wish to hide there. She said with a muffled laugh—"Sad, mother? Not I." But she kept the warm arm against her face . . . held fast to it as one does to the beloved hand of the dying.

Sunday she read the advertisements in the paper. She found one that seemed right to her. An elderly lady, owner of a farm, would board a young girl reasonably — permit her the use of horses and a buggy. The farm was in the Vermont hills. She answered the ad.

Quits Her Job

In all she did was the mournfulness of farewell. She poured Jonathan's coffee, thinking: "Soon—oh—" and her hand faltered offering him the cup.

But the craft that came to her assistance astonished her. She went to the office on Monday. She said to Lewis: "My folks are moving out of town. Of course I want to be with them, so I'm quitting."

She told the same story to Janina, but added: "I'll take my vacation first, of course. Off on a farm, Janina, old dear—whole month of it—"

Janina glanced at her with narrowed eyes; touched the still swollen wrists. She said, with one of her odd flashing looks of kindness: "Thought the hands were a stall, baby. Not so? But you heard the news, I suppose? Thought that was what kept you home."

Chickie knew what she meant. She nodded. "I heard."

Janina said: "Tough, ole dear! Darn sight better now than in five or six years hence. You won't see it that way for a while. But you'll live to look back on it and laugh. I know!"

Chickie laughed then: "Oh, I daresay, Janina, dear! 'Twill all come out—if not in the wash—then under the iron! What of a few burns, I ask?"

That afternoon she went to the city.

Simple thing. Yet her hands shook with the vision of herself walking into a store, asking for a wedding ring. She meant to do this.

Purchases Ring

But she walked about the street, looking in the windows. There were trays—some with the wide, old-fashioned yellow bands; then the very narrow platinum and white gold.

She saw one with delicate carving — white gold — $8.00 marked on the card. She decided to buy this but she caught a glimpse of the clerk. He was young with reddish hair. He smiled at her. She hurried away.

In the next block a thin, tall, old man stood behind the counter. She went in. She said with a vague laugh: "Let me see the wedding rings. You have one in the tray like I want."

He brought the tray. She picked up a thin band: "Oh—it's the one. I've lost mine. I must have it right away. Will you mark it?"

She wanted the date of August a year ago. She told him to mark it J. to M.

Two hours later she called for it.

She went into her room when she got home. She tried it on her finger—stared at it. She leaned against the wall and cried.

Yesterday Her Ideal Was a Matinee Idol; Today a Screen Hero

By FAY KING

SWEET SIXTEEN is heartbroken and says she will never marry and will be a sort of hermit in the midst of life.

She was desperately in love with the most fascinating man but he married someone else and she will never forgive him.

The family jokes with her a great deal about it because she hadn't ever met the man—he being just one of her screen crushes.

Mother thinks it's positively ridiculous the way the youngsters these days fall in love with screen stars, cherish their pictures, and devour every bit of news about them.

Mother has forgotten that in her day she did the same thing. Matinee idols were the object of her undying love.

Madge's Father Insists That She Examine Contents of Box

My father apparently had no trouble with the telephone, for when my errand to Jim and Jerry Ticer accomplished, I returned to his room, I found him standing in the hall, ready for the trip to the bank deposit vault which he had just planned.

"Everything is all right," he said. "Corbin, the president, was there himself, and he is one of the finest chaps going. He always will sacrifice his own time to do anyone a favor. He will watch for us and let us in and open the vault for us. Now, my dear, if you will let me go with you while you get the box, we will be on our way."

I led the way to my own room, and knelt by the chest in which I keep my most valuable keepsakes. My father put a restraining hand upon my arm as I put out my hand with the key to the chest in it.

"Just a second," he said. "How long since you opened this?"

I waited for a second or two, reflecting.

"Not for a month at least," I returned.

He bent and scrutinized the lock carefully.

"I don't think anyone has meddled with it," he said. "But open it quickly."

I obeyed him.

"It looks exactly as it did when she gave it to me," I said.

"No doubt," my father assented, "but I am leaving nothing to chance today. Please open the parcel. I would do it myself, but you would probably prefer to tell Marion that no hands but your own had touched it."

I looked up at him steadily.

"Forgive me, Father," I said. "I know you are right. It was only—"

He put his hand gently over my lips, and smiled down at me.

I took up the key and opened the box, then fumbled until I found the secret spring disclosing the compartment in which reposed the three envelopes exactly as I remembered them. I caught my breath in relief.

"No one has touched them," I cried joyously.

"Make sure," my father commanded. "I know your marvelous memory. Look at each envelope carefully and see if the seals are the same as you remembered them."

I examined all three of the envelopes with meticulous care, observing again with a queer little thrill the feel as of packages covered with corrugated pasteboard which I had observed when Marion first showed her "fortune" to me. When I finally laid them down my voice and words only reflected the conviction in my own mind.

"They have not been touched since Marion last locked the box," I said.

"Good!" he answered enthusiastically. "That is all I wanted to know. Now if you will tie it up again in the pasteboard carton, I will bring my suitcase. It is sufficiently large to hold the package—and to protect it from possible prying eyes."

He did not move toward the door, however, until I had tied the box again. Then as I took it under my arm, he slipped his hand beneath my elbow, and walked with me back to his room. Evidently he did not mean to leave me or the box unescorted for a single second until he had seen Marion's "fortune" safely in the deposit vault at the bank.

The box fitted into his suitcase almost exactly as to width and depth. At either end he put a crumpled newspaper to keep the package from rattling, and then taking it up and with his other hand at my elbow again he walked downstairs with me and out to the car beside which stood Jim and Jerry Ticer. There my father stopped abruptly with an annoyed glance at the two men. Neither one apparently had seen us. With absorbed faces they were bending forward watching something on the other side of the road.

The Marry-Go-Round

Husbands—And Others

A new heart interest is as necessary to the average woman, in spring, as a new hat and a fresh permanent wave.

Some husbands, like some clocks, run down through neglect; but far more of them are wrecked by too much "regulating."

Nothing is quite so useless or so trying as a husband or a watch that "won't work" and has to be constantly wound up and started going.

A husband, like any of the other wedding gifts, is always a surprise when you get him home and try to make him match the decorations and fit in with the scheme of things. But you can get used to him, just as you do to the modernistic lamp and the hand-painted gold-fish bowl.

When you recollect what a struggle you had getting him to the altar, and how many nice, sweet girls there are who have no husbands, it seems sheer wilful waste to shoot your husband when you might put him back into circulation again by a mere twist of the law.

A man between 30 and 40 falls in love naturally, easily and gracefully. He has "learned about women"—but they are not yet an old story. His head is steady—but his heart has not yet run down. Then, if ever, he makes the perfect lover.

To win a woman's love was once a matter of prowess, and to kiss her was a real victory. But, nowadays, there is no distinction in being just one of the hundred "weak moments" in a girl's life.

To have "it" is merely a matter of being full of self-confidence and devoid of conceit. But most of us, alas, are just the other way around.

The new styles for women are not only an awful strain on a man's eyes; they are an awful strain on his love. Still, they are good exercise for his imagination.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Bridesmaid's Boquet

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Is it customary for the bride-to-be to buy the bridesmaids' boquets?

2. When the bride-to-be intends to be married at the church which she attends, is there any further expense outside of the regular minister's fee and probably the organist's fee? Is there a charge for the church?

3. If the bridegroom does not have a brother, would it be correct to ask one of his friends to be the best man, or would he necessarily have to ask one of the bride-to-be's brothers to be his best man?

GRACE.

Yes, since these bouquets are planned, by the bride, as a very important item of the ensemble of the costumes of her attendants. Naturally, since she must plan the color and the general designs of the bouquets, it is easier for her to buy the flowers. She has the bouquets sent to her own home and the bridesmaids get them there when they gather at her home to go to the wedding.

However, sometimes a gallant groom wishes to send these boquets to the attendants of his bride as a courtly gesture. Then he talks over with his bride-to-be what flowers she wishes sent and he carries out her instructions implicitly.

2. Add to the fees that you mention the fee for the sexton, who opens the church for the rehearsal and for the wedding, and does many things about the church to prepare for the wedding.

3. Indeed, the groom does not have necessarily to ask the brother of the bride-to-be to be his best man. If he has no brother he asks his best friend to attend him at his wedding.

Acknowledge Kindness

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When congratulatory telegrams and cards are received in answer to marriage announcements set, is it proper, or necessary, to acknowledge and thank the sender for same, and if so, who should acknowledge those received from the husband's friends whom the bride has not met?

2. If the bride answers, how should she sign her name?

PERPLEXED.

YES, SUCH THOUGHTFULNESS should be acknowledged with a friendly note of "thank you for your kind thought." The bride would write a note of appreciation to every sender of such a message, and the groom would undoubtedly wish to write a note too, to each of his friends who sent telegrams.

2. This is the correct form for the signature of the bride:

Most Sincerely Yours,
Mary Smith Brown.

To her close friends she would use "Devotedly yours," or "Affectionately yours," or "Lovingly yours," and would sign only "Mary."

Gracious Messengers

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

For a home wedding where only friends and the families of the bride and groom are to be present, should a personal letter of invitation be sent to every guest, or is it better form to ask the guests by word of mouth?

If a letter should be sent, does the intended bride or her mother write it? READER.

FOR A SMALL, informal home wedding the bride may ask the guests verbally or she may write them notes of invitation. Either is correct. Or she may do both. That is, she may herself go to see her closest relatives and friends and ask them and write letters to those not so close. Personally I am very much in favor of the writing of notes. I think that these notes can be made such gracious messengers of her friendliness and they can make every guest feel that he or she is a very special part of the "audience." Then, too, it seems to me safer, for when the note is there to refer to no mistake can be made as to date, hour, and so forth.

The bride's mother or the bride herself may write the notes—either is correct. But, although it is more often that the bride writes these invitations, it seems to me more appropriate that the bride's mother write the notes, since she is the hostess of the occasion.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, May 14.

A day of much excitement and enterprise is predicted from the very lively planetary activities. There may be very abrupt change of plans, projects and environment, with the energies quite high pitched and resourceful. But withal, there are dangers of too precipitate actions or plunging headlong into hazardous situations, probably too large to handle profitably. With deliberation and hard work great benefits may be expected, and from unforeseen sources.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of great energy and enterprise, with important change and unexpected adventures. But these are beset with certain dangers from headlong and precipitate activities, which may prove too large to control, but hard work and stability may direct events into profitable channels.

A child born on this day may be extremely active and adventurous, although it may not be lacking in practicality and industry. It may make many changes and have a spectacular or public career.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Some Facts About the Shingles

A reader in Ohio has asked me to write about shingles, that very painful malady. Of course, I am glad to do so.

Shingles is the popular name for the disease known by doctors as "herpes zoster," or "zoster" or "zona." In some parts of the country it is called "tetter." I suppose it was called "shingles" because of the regularity of the red spots and blisters. Their arrangement is not unlike the regular overlapping of the shingles on a house.

The disease may occur in children, in young adults, or in the aged. In the case of old people it is a serious ailment and may persist for a long time.

It has uncomfortable symptoms. It begins with pain, something like neuralgia. It may occur in the side, the neck, the shoulder, or on one side of the head.

The most common spot likely to be affected is the skin over the ribs on one side of the body. The pain follows the course of one of the nerves. The real trouble lies in the root of the nerve, although the disturbance is shown all along the course of the nerve. It usually starts at the spinal column and goes half around the body, like half a girdle.

The eruption is in the form of vesicles or blisters as large as a pea or bean. It occurs in groups of three or four to twenty spots. The surrounding skin is red, sensitive and intensely hot and puffy.

The nerve which goes upward from the eyebrow to the crown of the head may be involved. This is a more serious thing. The eye becomes inflamed and blisters may form on the front of the eyeball. These may leave scars which affect the sight.

Shingles used to be regarded as a disease due to exposure to cold or damp weather. Nowadays the cause is looked for in infection from abscessed teeth, pussy gums, diseased tonsils, or some intestinal or other infection.

The blisters should be protected from the rubbing of clothing. Alcohol may be applied, but care must be used not to break the blisters. Such applications relieve the pain.

With the help of good food, sunlight and fresh air the health can be improved. Cod-liver oil is a good thing to take. But you should follow the advice of your doctor. He will make a study of your case and treat it accordingly.

The patient should remain in bed and keep from worrying and fretting. While it lasts the malady is a painful one and everything should be done to make the patient comfortable.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Foolish for the short, dumpy woman to yearn for a swanlike neck. She couldn't get it if she tried, and if she had it, her lines would be all out of kilter. Her policy should be to keep the neck from getting ring-lines. She can do this by carrying her figure "tall," by keeping the head erect, chin lifted.

The eyes are the most expressive feature. Little dearhearts should remember that when they plaster their pouting lips with rouge of bright Chinese red. The cerise mouth catches the eye, and eyes aren't noticed. There are girls whose natural beauty is killed and slaughtered by an excess of paint. A little is enough. Their mirrors should tell them that.

Naturalness is the beauty note of the day. Naturalness of figure, complexion, hair and manners. It all makes for a more glorified womanhood. The uproar about the pinched in waistline was all about nothing; women wouldn't lace and haven't. The new figure is prettier than the bed slat shape of the boyish type with bust lashed down. Curves are where curves should be.

When pimples make the complexion unsightly, creamy cosmetics are not so good, unless they are in the form of healing antiseptic agents like ointment of zinc oxide, or sulphur ointment. Soap dries pustules and keeps the infection from spreading. The proper diet calls for a deletion of fatty foods, also acid and salty dishes, with plenty of fruit juices, vegetables and raw, green salads.

Hats with brims and larger crowns are joyously welcomed. Middleaged women find them more flattering than the skull-tight helmets which reveal every furrow on the brow. Younger women take to them for the reason that they permit the more bouffant coiffure. It is time that the slapped down water wave gave way to a softer fuller hairdress. Coiffure styles are dependent upon hat models produced by designers. Older gals remember "wa, back" when the enormous lid with the brim turned up at one side carried a load of false hair. The hair was sewed to the hat. When hat came off, so did hair. Can you beat that, Mrs. Bumpweather?

The wind-blown bob has blown itself away. There was nothing very attractive about it. With the hair combed toward the face, ragged end concealed the hair line, which is considered an element of beauty. We have now the flat little tendrils as fillers. A single beau cather peeps out from under a wave dip or hides the space just in front of the ear. The girl with the permanent wave has no trouble forming these decorative ringlets. She moistens a strand of hair, twists it into a ring, pins with a hairpin. Or slaps it flat with curling fluid and bides the drying.

Tired FEET revived instantly

The minute you put your sore, burning feet into a TIZ bath you can just feel the pain being drawn out and grateful comfort soaking in. TIZ draws out acids and poisons that make feet tender, achy and sore. Also takes pain out of corns, calluses and bunions. Revives tired feet and makes them sweet, fresh and comfortable. All druggists.

Bathe 'em in TIZ

Household Hints

The color of a rug or carpet can be freshened by going over the surface with a broom dipped in water containing a little turpentine.

When tying up pudding, put a pleat in the top of the cloth. This opens out as the pudding swells and prevents the cloth from splitting and allowing the water to get into the mixture.

If the fat is on the fire and spluttering about until the fish is placed in the pan there is a way of pacifying its animated movement. Place a small piece of bread in the frying fat while it is being heated to the proper temperature and you will be surprised to find how it will behave.

All kinds of materials will iron more easily if the starch is made with soapy instead of clear water. This also imparts a nice gloss to the material. A few drops of parafin oil added to the starch prevents the iron sticking to the clothes, and thus removes the danger of scorching.

Dress shields, which are so essential to many women's dresses are frequently thrown aside, but with a little care their use can easily be increased. Wash them frequently with cool or tepid water and a good white soap. They must not, of course, be ironed, and it is wise not to sew them into a garment, but to fasten them with small safety pins.

Talking Picture Favorites Contest

If you can solve the identity of these two pictures, after cutting them apart and correctly placing them together, you should find it easy to win a prize in this unique TALKING PICTURE FAVORITES contest.

MOTION PICTURE entertainment was revolutionized over night. Talking pictures swept into vogue—the silent picture lost its reign. Old favorites, who had become the idols of countless thousands of followers of the silver screen stepped into the discard—new names, new faces, new artists, and VOICES came into the picture. TALKING PICTURES are now reigning—and new stars have suddenly come into the firmament as entertainers for millions of talking picture fans.

There is no other form of entertainment in which the principals win such enormous followings. New favorites have been made in a day—acquiring a sensational popularity that is nation-wide.

How well do you know these favorites?

The Sun-Telegraph has prepared a unique and timely contest that will be of interest to every talking picture fan in the reading area of this newspaper. This contest will not only hold the fascination of the readers of the Sun-Telegraph, but will pay $2,500.00 in cash prizes to those who submit the best sets of answers.

Every Sunday for twelve consecutive weeks, the Sunday Sun-Telegraph will print three portraits of TALKING PICTURE FAVORITES. Each portrait will be cut or divided into three sections: (1) the eyes and forehead, (2) the nose, (3) the mouth and chin. In the composite portrait printed, no single picture will include the full face of the same favorite.

It is the problem of the readers of the Sun-Telegraph to cut these pictures apart on the lines designated for cutting, and assemble the parts so that they will make the complete, perfect picture of a TALKING PICTURE FAVORITE, and then give the correct name of the favorite.

With each set of cutouts there will be a "clue" line printed that will partially identify—or suggest the identity—of the original picture from which the cutout was taken.

You should know at a glance the identity of every favorite employed in this contest. You see one or more of them every day in your local talking picture theaters.

Here's How the $2,500.00 in Cash Will Be Divided

1st Prize	$ 500.00	5th and 6th Prizes, $50 each	$ 100.00
2nd Prize	250.00	7th, 8th, 9th and 10th Prizes, $25 each	100.00
3rd Prize	150.00	11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th Prizes, $10 each	60.00
4th Prize	100.00	248 Prizes @ $5 each	1240.00

Total, 264 Prizes $2,500.00

Open to Everyone, Men and Women, Boys and Girls—No Matter Where You Live

MARVELS OF MAGIC ART AND OLD-TIME MELODRAMA ATTRACTIONS OF STAGE

"After Dark," Real Revival Even Sends Critic to Mourners' Bench

By GEORGE SEIBEL

HARDENED AS I AM by a long life of iniquity, a visit to the Pitt Theater last night has given me a change of heart and made me another man. "After Dark" worked this miracle. George Sharp has achieved what Moody and Sankey, William Sunday and Homer Rodeheaver, had essayed in vain. At last I realize that the wages of sin is death and that virtue is its own reward. Edith King and Mabel Kroman, grown-up sisters of Elsie Dinsmore, are teaching this lesson in Dion Boucicault's charming idyl from the Age of Innocence. It was a touching drama, and at the end of the third act a tall Scotchman rose in the audience and threw a nickel upon the stage. The money will be used to erect a monument for Dion Boucicault in Hoboken.

George Seibel

People of today cannot understand the world of those far-off times, when Lager Beer flowed freely but love endured forever. There was no Eighteenth Amendment, but the Ten Commandments had not yet been repealed. If there was any monster vile enough to leer at a woman, she needed only to point one fair finger toward Heaven and call upon her guardian angel, to see the scoundrel groveling at her feet. Railroad trains were always flagged in time, drunkards reformed to be worthy of their long-lost daughters, and when a maid was hired she promised her mistress to be grateful, obedient and faithful."

Witnessing such an exhibition of pristine purity and triumphant justice, even the hard-boiled critic repents and decides to sin no more, lest he become as vile an outcast as Robert Fiske. Even politicians were at the Pitt to hiss Fiske.

MEN WERE MEN THEN

"Fear is to me a thing unknown," exclaims Hugh Banks, who doesn't exactly look like John L. Sullivan. That, too, is a sign of the age when men were men. Though there were terrible dangers to be faced, like that snorting locomotive that whirls madly across the stage like the turbulent waves of the river which scene-shifters are shaking from U. R. C. to U. L. C., everyone has faith in Providence and Dion Boucicault, knowing that "After dark the lights will come."

Heaven was very close to earth then, and the most abandoned scoundrel would let his stein of suds go flat while he wept into a red bandana as Vera Rose sang "Take Back the Heart That Thou Gavest." Policemen were close at hand whenever needed, and it went hard with evildoers.

In fact, it was just the sort of drama we'll have again if the movie censor keeps on censoring. Then Little Lord Fauntleroy will come into his own, and Clyde Schaeffer will warble his heart-rending ballads in every gilded den of vice.

That our wicked world is ready for a little regeneration is proved by the fact that a third week of "After Dark" will be needed to accommodate all who would sit upon the mourners' bench.

IT'S NO LAUGHING MATTER

The only unfortunate thing about this revival is that Weldon Heyburn, the new leading man, and Hugh Banks, the assistant hero, are inclined to burlesque their parts. They should play with perfect seriousness, as Miss King and Miss Kroman do, as Robert Fiske and Walter F. Jones do. For humor is most effective when the intention is veiled behind a sober brow.

Also it may be well, in reverence to the memory of Dion Boucicault, who was no idiot, to point out that a few slight liberties have been taken with his ethical masterpiece. But what of that? We all wept with the afflicted heroine, we all rooted for the much-tried hero, we all hissed the black-hearted villain.

And today we feel much better, a halo hovers above our cynical cerebellum, we are going to contribute to the missionary chest for the unconverted Patagonians, and we are going to buy that picture of Saint Cecilia in a Webster avenue libreria, because it looks like Mabel Kroman.

We may even speak kindly to the cat and try to argue with a shoemaker whom we know to be an atheist.

"After Dark" has melted hearts of adamant and softened cheeks of brass.

The Dells Reopens On Saturday Night

The Dells, Wildwood, will open for the season Saturday, under the management of the Lazaro Brothers and Etzi Covato, former owners of the Flotilla Club. A new policy of floor entertainment and table d'hote service will be in vogue. The Dells, redecorated, will feature for the opening, Etzi Covato and his new orchestra, and a surprise floor attraction.

Millvale Schools To Picnic June 10

The Millvale school board has fixed June 10 as the date for the annual school picnic, to be held at Olympia Park, near McKeesport. High School commencement will be held June 6.

Vagabond

Dennis King has the title role in the screen version of "The Vagabond King," which is current in the Enright.

CATHOLICS END SCHOOL RALLY

Approximately 3,000 student members of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, were present at the closing session of the one-day rally held in the Boy's Catholic High School yesterday. Students from five Catholic colleges and schools addressed the gathering.

The five speakers, who discussed missionary topics, were John Collins, of St. Vincent College; Miss Agnes McCarthy, of Divine Providence Academy; Miss Marie Frey, of Seton Hill College; John Hill, of St. Mary's of the Mount High School, and Leo Scully, of Duquesne University.

The rally opened with mass in St. Paul's Cathedral. At the morning session the speakers were the Rev. Edward Malloy, C. S. Sp., founder of the Pittsburgh chapter; the Rev. Richard Ackerman, national secretary of the Holy Childhood Association; Monsignor Frank A. Phill, national head of the mission crusade and the Rev. Thomas McCarthy, of Duquesne University.

Election Board Vacancies Filled

Continuing to fill election board vacancies before the May primaries, Judge Harry H. Rowand made the following appointments in Quarter Sessions Court: Judge, Second District, Neville Township, E. W. Allison, 6006 Grand avenue vice R. E. Gallagher, resigned; Judge, Twelfth District, Seventeenth Ward, Walter Golambuski, 112 South Twelfth street, vice Walter Bolonowski, resigned; Inspector, Fifth District, Eleventh Ward, Mary G. Nash, 5618 Harvard street, vice John P. McCann, resigned; Inspector, Second District, Neville Township, John Bittner, 5927 Grant avenue, vice A. L. Lewis, moved.

Millvale Schools To Hold Exhibit

The fourth anual exhibition of the vocational departments of Millvale High School will be held Friday night in the class rooms, following a program by the physical education and music departments.

YOUNG PEOPLE GAIN CREDIT

An increasng number of young people, especially women, are opening accounts in Pittsburgh's retail stores and paying bills promptly. This was indicated at last night's meeting of the Retail Credit Men's Association in the Congress of Women's Clubs. H. C. Engel, credit executive, spoke on points brought out in making an application for credit.

Numerous credit executives participated in the round table which followed Mr. Engel's address, these including President H. E. Wilson, who presided; D. H. Goldman, W. B. McConnel, David Laifer and others.

Charlie Ray, known as the "Colonel's Orderly" entertained the crowd by playing what he said was the largest harmonica in the world.

Brotherhood to Hold West View Banquet

Members of the Brotherhood of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West View, will hold their annual banquet at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow in the social rooms of the church. Music will be provided by the Brotherhood orchestra under the direction of Amos Bollen, Jr.

MUSIC

Joseph Horne Co. Chorus

Carnegie Music Hall

The Joseph Horne Company Chorus gave its annual entertainment in Carnegie Music Hall last night before a very large audience, which enjoyed the concert to the limit.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The program was made of popular choral music and arrangements of good songs, with a sprinkling of such classics as Mozart's Gloria from the Twelfth Mass, Rubinstein's "Seraphic Song," a vocal arrangement of the "Kammenoi-Ostrow." This chorus, like many amateur performers, makes the grave error of too long a program; they give all their tricks away in one evening.

This organization is blessed with talent much of which can be cast for solo work. Norma Blackstock gave several harp numbers which were loudly applauded. Angelina Casale has a good soprano voice, and was ambitious enough to essay the big "Pace, pace" aria from Verdi's "La Forza del Destino." Eugene Baldridge and Max Kroen sang the well-known duet from the same opera. Warren Kinder, who is often heard with another chorus, sang Coleridge-Taylor's "Eleanore" and assisted the choir in Kremser's "Six Songs of the Netherlands."

A pretty feature of the evening was the staging of Ketelbey's "In a Monastery Garden," in which Max Kroen sang the monk against an invisible chorus.

Other soloists were J. O'Shea, violinist; Patti Rude Baldridge, Della Henderson, Katherine Jamison, O. E. Draper, Ellen Wolfe played piano accompaniments, and Dale Phillips was at the organ. W. A. MacDonald was an able director.

Deceiver

Howard Thurston says he wouldn't deceive you, but even that statement is deception. He's back in the Alvin with his magic show.

LOCKED SALOON YIELDS RUM

A padlocked saloon at 1856 Main street, Sharpsburg, yielded prohibition agents eight pints of whisky when they raided the place yesterday, it was reported.

Edward Szutowicz, 22, arrested in the raid, was immediately arraigned before a United States commissioner who held him for court, the agents said. Szutowicz thought it would be "safer" to keep the liquor there, raiders said he told them.

As a result of a raid on the Lido Cafe, on the second floor of 546 Sixth avenue, W. V. Foglia, 46, alleged proprietor, and John Bosquini, 30, a waiter, were at liberty on bonds today, agents asserted. Wine and whisky were confiscated, according to the raiders' report.

John Valer, 45, was arrested, agents said, following a raid on a shed on a farm in North Fayette Township, which netted the dry officers a 150-gallon still, 80 gallons of moonshine and 3,200 gallons of mash. The mash was destroyed.

Merchants Meet To Plan Banquet

To make plans for a community sale to be held during June and to complete arrangements for their annual banquet to be held tomorrow evening at the Pentalpha Club, 1151 Arlington avenue, the South Side Business Men's Club will hold a meeting tonight at Association headquarters, Carson street. The banquet committee is composed of W. J. Harderster, W. C. Kessler, Henry Reichle, John Jones, A. E. Page, G. T. Schemm, L. W. Hartley, W. W. Weber, Ben Friedland, George Tacher and John C. Graw.

Thurston and Impish Aids Show Magic On Alvin Stage

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Howard Thurston and his imps of darkness came back to the Alvin last night. True, the imps don't look dark or Satanic, except one, George. Even George doesn't look Satanic, but he really is dark. The others appear to be just nice looking girls and boys, but we fear they, like Dr. Faustus, must have made a mad bargain with the demon of the forked tail whereby they are permitted to roam the earth for a while and that eventually they must go back to the Plutonian domain.

We even believe this man Thurston may be a Dr. Faustus, himself, reincarnated. How else account for all of the necromancy with which he astonishes us? Demonism may not have perished. Who knows?

CABINET IS SPOOKY

Take that cabinet of Thurston's, for instance. As honest a looking cabinet as ever was, but up to weird behavior, to say the least. We could say it is downright spooky and not stretch the truth a bit, what with the ringing of bells and the like—not a visible person in it, mind you—and other strange goings-on in it. Yes, what about that cabinet if it be not diablerie?

But people go to Thurston's show to be amused so perhaps it is just as well for the peace of mind of folks who go to consider it from that angle rather than continue to tell the probable truth about the source of his power. Let him, like Dr. Faustus, make his own payment for that.

SHOWS MODERN TREND

The Thurston show, like other forms of entertainment in the theater, shows the trend of modernism. Sleight of hand still has its part in a magician's program, of course, but each year there are more big illusions. On a trick like "sawing a woman in half" sufficed to "feature" an entire bill. Now there are dozens, such as the vanishing of an automobile loaded with girls right before your eyes and the disappearance of a girl from a cabinet suspended over the audience. This one is called "Iasia"—it seems an illusion must have a title—and if anybody wants to explain it by calling it disintegration of the body, Mr. Thurston will not quarrel about it.

The magician mixes plenty of humor into his hocus-pocus and there is as much to laugh at as to marvel at. He also has the assistance of his daughter, Jane, who does her own specialty in magic exhibition as well as a graceful presentation of song and dance numbers.

Lectures on 'Love' Given in Academy

The Academy is presenting a program for men only, called "Mysteries of Love." Prof. Irving Victor is the principal lecturer, using charts and living girl models to illustrate his talk. The show is continuous from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m.

HURT IN BUS, $30,000 ASKED

Pauline Kurtis, injured in Grant avenue, Duquesne, when an automobile bus overturned and wrenched her body, has brought suit against Duncan and Schreiber, owners, for $30,000 damages.

The action is also brought against R. W. Schreiber and J. M. Duncan individually. The plaintiff alleges the bus got beyond control of the driver. Miss Kurtis suffered injuries about the hips and legs and says her shoulder ligaments were torn. She is represented by Dipple and Waldron.

FINE SPIRIT SHOWN UNDER HANDICAP

IF BASEBALL LUCK evens itself up during the course of a pennant race the Pirates ought to enjoy pretty smooth sailing after they get back to normal, for the diamond fates surely owe them a flock of favorable breaks in view of what they have suffered during the early part of the campaign. The loss of Paul Waner's services, in addition to those of Lloyd Waner and Pie Traynor, adds another chapter to a most unusual story of spring misfortune.

Paul Waner

It is difficult to recall an instance in which any major league club was hit so hard by injury and illness during the early stages of a flag chase as the Bucs have been hit this year. In fact, it would not be possible for many clubs to suffer such a heavy loss in the incapacitation of three members, for mighty few of them are able to boast three men representing so much all-around class and strength as do the disabled Corsair trio. The loss of any one athlete of the same caliber would weaken any team in existence, and the loss of three at one time is enough to spell a complete wreck.

THE PIRATES WERE severely handicapped at the start in losing the younger Waner and Traynor, and the burden is made a great deal heavier by the enforced lay-off of the elder Waner, particularly in view of the fact that he was having the best spring of his career and until a few days ago was leading the National League in hitting.

Of course, the Rovers cannot be expected to swing into anything like a normal gait until at least part of this lost strength returns to the lineup, but to their credit it must be said that they are showing a rare fighting spirit under discouraging circumstances, as was evidenced by their success in breaking their latest losing streak yesterday with a sadly patched lineup. The fact that they have not fallen below the .500 mark this season in spite of their crippled condition is a convincing attest of their gameness, and that's a quality that ought to count for a lot pending the return of the absent stars.

A STRING OF four straight defeats wasn't the only Pirate streak broken by yesterday's victory. Ervin Brame interrupted another run of adversity by pitching a complete game of nine innings.

Ervin Brame

It was the first time a Pittsburgh pitcher had gone the route in more than two weeks, or since April 26, when Brame himself lasted the distance in a game here against the St. Louis club and turned in a 9-to-7 victory.

IN THE MEANTIME Manager Ens was forced to use two or more hurlers in every one of 14 consecutive contests. French and Kremer started four games each, Petty and Jones two each, and Brame and Swetonic one each. In every instance Ens had to make a shift before the finish, using a total of 35 hurlers in the 14 tilts. Brame has been by far the steadiest pitcher on the Pirate staff to date. Bue flingers have gone the route only seven times this season, and Ervin was the performer on four of those occasions. He has completed four games in five starts. Kremer has lasted the distance twice and French once.*

THE GIANTS AND Cubs fell one short of equaling the home-run record for one game when they connected for nine round-trippers in yesterday's slugfest at Chicago. The high mark for homers by the two participating clubs in a single contest is 10, set by the Phillies and Cardinals on May 11, 1923. The Phils made six and the Cardinals four.

The Cubs also were one homer short of tying the record for home runs made by one club in a game. This record is seven, made by the Detroit Nationals against St. Louis on June 12, 1886; by the New York Nationals against Indianapolis on May 9, 1888; by the Pittsburgh Nationals against Boston on June 6, 1894, and by the Philadelphia Americans against Detroit on June 3, 1921.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE home-run record by one club since 1900 is six in a game, made by the Cubs and Phillies in 1923, and by the Pirates and Giants in 1925.

By making four homers in one inning yesterday, the Cubs equaled the major league record established by the Pirates 36 years ago. In the third inning of a game in Boston on June 6, 1894, Jake Stenzel made two homers for the Bucs, Denny Lyons one and Louie Bierbauer one.

John McGraw

SINCE LOSING TWO of their first three games in Cincinnati, John McGraw's Giants have made an impressive record on their Western trip, taking three out of four here and repeating that trick in the Chicago series that ended yesterday. The New Yorkers got a break in encountering the Bues while Traynor and Lloyd Waner were missing, and meeting the Cubs while Hornsby and Stephenson were out, but at that there is no denying their strength. Their powerful attack is likely to make it a task to beat them out if they get the right kind of pitching.*

ANOTHER OLD-TIMER was saved from drifting to the minors when Bill McKechnie stepped in and took Tom Zachary from the Yankees by the waiver route. Bill is said to have a deal pending to send Burleigh Grimes to the Cardinals and he is overlooking nothing in an attempt to get all the pitching strength possible from other directions.

Zachary was 33 years old last Wednesday. The veteran left-hander has been working in the American League since 1918. He pitched for four clubs in that time—the Athletics, Senators, Browns and Yankees. He had two separate engagements with Washington. Last year he won 12 games and went through the season undefeated.

BEFORE THE WEEK is out, the United States will have embarked upon another campaign in quest of the Davis Cup, in the possession of France since late in the summer of 1927. The American team has been drawn to face Canada in the first preliminary round of zone competition and will encounter the Canucks in Philadelphia on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

That Uncle Sam's proteges will carry off honors over the Dominion outfit and will likewise come out on top of the American Zone battling is pretty nearly a foregone conclusion. It is even probable that our racqueters will clean up handily on the survivor of the European Zone contesting, despite the fact that Japan, Great Britain, Italy, Germany, and perhaps South Africa will display marked strength.

BUT HOW ABOUT the challenge round against the French? There is no getting away from the fact that the United States*

FRITZI STIFEL, MISS FORDYCE DEFEATED

FORMBY, England, May 13.—(AP.)—Seven of the 12 Americans in the British women's championship golf competition survived today's play while five were eliminated.

Miss Glenna Collett, New York; Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago; Mrs. Leo Federman, New York, and Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, were through for the day as they won third round matches and will play fourth rounds tomorrow morning.

PLAY TWO ROUNDS

Miss Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J.; Miss Helen Hicks, New York; Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City; Miss Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., had to play two rounds todya. Mrs. Hill was eliminated in her second match.

Miss Hicks was the first to hurdle the two obstacles, winning morning and afternoon matches by the same score, 7 up to 5 to play.

Miss Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, O.; Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y.; Miss Fritzi Stifel, Wheeling, W. Va., and Mrs. E. F. Lenihan, Pasadena, Cal., were defeated in the second round.

Tomorrow morning's play in the fourth round will bring together Glenna Collett and Molly Gourlay, American women's champion, and English native champion. Miss Gourlay defeated Miss Collett in the informal international matches preceding the championship.

GLENNA OFF GAME

Decidedly off her game, Glenna Collett, American champion, held a margin at the turn of only 1 up over Mary Beard, of England, in a third-round match.

Miss Collett held a lead of 2 up at the end of the first five holes, but took 6s on the sixth and seventh holes to permit Miss Beard to draw even. The eighth was halved in 4s and Miss Collett went 1 up when her par 3 at the ninth was good enough to win the hole. The outgoing cards:

Miss Collett..... 446 446 643—41
Miss Beard..... 456 545 544—42

CHAMP WORRIED

Miss Collett was somewhat worried by Miss Mary Beard, who played a much better game than that contributed yesterday by her sister, Kitty. Miss Beard, however, failed on critical holeable putts.

The American champion's first slip was at the third, where she found a bunker. She played the sixth and seventh very loosely, slicing her drives. She fluffed a mashie shot also at the sixth.

The inward card:
Collett in 5 4 5 5 5 5 3
Beard in 6 5 5 4 5 6 4

MOLLY GOURLAY WINS

Molly Gourlay, the English native champion, won her third round match from Mrs. Wallace Williamson, 4 up and 3 to play, and will oppose Glenna Collett in the fourth round tomorrow.

Kathleen Garnham defeated Mrs. E. F. Lenihan, Pasadena, Cal., 2 up and 1 to play.

Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, defeated Marjorie Juta, 5 up and 4 to play, to take her place in the fourth round with Miss Collett.

Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, defeated Miss Doris Park, 1 up, ar advanced to the fourth round with four other Americans, Misses Collett, Van Wie an., Hicks and Mrs. Federman.

Helen Hicks, long driving New York girl, won her way to the fourth round by defeating Mrs. J. A. Hardicker, 7 up and 5 to play. It was Miss Hicks' second victory of the day by the same score.

Mrs. Lenihan was 4 up at the twelfth hole, but Miss Garnham

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE BUILDING SHIPPED BY MAIL—The Bank of Vernal, in Uintah Basin, Utah, was constructed of brick shipped from the plant piecemeal by parcel post. The town is situated 60 miles, across two mountain ranges, from the nearest railroad, and, by some curious combination of circumstances, it was found that, while the cost of shipping the brick by freight or express was prohibitive, it was much more reasonable to ship each brick wrapped in paper by parcel post. MISS CORONA REMINGTON—Miss Remington's nickname, she informs me, is "Typey." The statement about her matrimonial exactions is based upon her own humorous suggestion. She lives at 1217 West Clinch avenue, Knoxville, Tenn.

TOMORROW—THE CHAIR THAT GREW

PITT, CARNEGIE CLASH TODAY

By JESS CARVER.

A pair of college track teams, apparently destined to get a few miles more or less short of nowhere during this 1930 campaign, meet this afternoon as Pitt and Carnegie Tech put on their annual fracas, this year scheduled for the Stadium.

Ed Knoblock

To date, Pitt has taken it on the lug from Ohio State and Penn State. Carnegie's record, in point of victories, is much better, the Tartans having defeated Western Reserve and Wash-Jeff and lost to Geneva. But the chances are that Pitt would have beaten both Reserve and the Prexys and Tech would have lost to Ohio and Penn State.

SEEK FIRST WIN

Carnegie has never won a track meet with Pitt, and regardless of its snappier record, does not figure to break over and upset the Panthers today.

Ed Knoblock, crack Panther hurdler; Capt. Pete Bowen, the all-round star sprint star; Woody Harris and Everett Utterback will lead the Panthers today. Tech will depend on Barger, Shaffer, Achenheil, Merten, Dreshar and Frank for the majority of their points.

PITT FACES TITANS

Pitt's rollicking tennis team, undefeated to date, and counting that day lost that does not bring a shutout victory over the foe, takes on Westminster on the Stadium courts. Yesterday, the Panthers

DECISION DUE ON PIE TODAY

BALTIMORE, May 13.—Physicians attending Pie Traynor, captain and star third baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who is confined to the Wilmer Clinic of Johns Hopkins Hospital here suffering with irritis, will render a decision on the star's condition today.

The Pirate ace entered the clinic yesterday afternoon, and was subjected to an immediate examination. Lloyd Waner, Pirate outfielder, is also a patient in the hospital, where he recently underwent operations for the removal of his tonsils and adnoids.

EMANUEL VICTOR

LOS ANGELES, May 13.—(AP.)—Armand Emanuel, San Francisco's Sphinx barrister, after losing the early rounds, came back strong in the closing stages of his fight with Jimmy Maloney, of Boston, here last night and defeated the Hub fighter in 10 rounds. Frankie Campbell, Coast heavyweight, knocked out Les Kennedy in the fourth round of the scheduled 10-round semi-final.

Dawson to Face Unbeaten Grays Today

The Homestead Grays will be called upon to look at the offerings of a former big league pitcher when they meet the North Side Civics on the Salt Works grounds, North Side, this evening. Joe Dawson, former Pirate, is on the Civics' roster and Manager Rooney is authority for the statement that Dawson will be on the mound for the home club.

This means that the Grays' record of 22 straight victories will be in danger. Manager Posey will endeavor to keep his club's mark intact by sending Darbie Cooper or Oscar Owens to the mound.

The Grays will offer another Ohio club as the attraction at Forbes Field next Saturday evening, meeting the Akron Independents, formerly known as the General Tires.

Bucky Lawless Wins Over Gorilla Jones

HOLYOKE, Mass., May 13.—(AP.)—Bucky Lawless, of Syracuse, 148¼, won the decision over Gorilla Jones, of Akron, O., 153, in a 10-round feature here last night. Jones scored two knockdowns in the sixth but Lawless had a definite edge in seven rounds.

Sammy O'Dell, of Akron, gave Harry Pinti, of Syracuse, N. Y., a boxing lesson in an eight-rounder.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Completion of the right field screen at Forbes Field will place the home of the Pirates on a par with Redland Field, Cincinnati, as an effective barrier to unearned and cheap homers in the National League.

The Oakland Orchard, perhaps, will be in a class by itself in the senior circuit as Redland Field, this year, shows a smaller playing area than ever before.

FINE PLAYING FIELD

The Reds were admitted to have the finest playing field in the sport, but for some reason the officials pushed the home plate many feet forward with the result that the left field wall is a bit closer than the fence at Forbes Field.

The screen in Oakland will make every out-of-the-park homer a real swat. A carry of approximately 400 feet will be necessary to reach the unscreened enclosure of right-center and the drives into the upper deck at any angle will have to be well-spanked.

The Braves had the largest playing field in the game until the officials of that club succumbed to the home-run fever. While suffering with this malady they built ridiculous bleachers so far on the playing field they had to spend thousands of dollars to move it back. A long swat is required to make a round-tripper in Boston, but the seats tended to spoil the scene.

All three of the other eastern parks are a blight so far as homers are concerned. The Philly bandbox is notorious and the Polo Grounds is not much better in the vicinity of the foul line territory. Brooklyn's right field wall is a bit under 300 feet, the remainder of the field being spacious.

SITUATION IMPROVED

The situation at St. Louis is improved since a screen was erected

HOW FORBES FIELD WILL SOLVE "CHEAP" HOME RUNS PROBLEM

The Pirates are getting ready to erect a 20-foot high screen in front of the right field grandstand to cut down the number of short home runs hit into that section. Piping and screening are on hand and the job will be done while the club is away on its next trip. The plan is the idea of Barney Dreyfuss, president of the local club. Hits over the screen or into the grandstand to the left of it or anywhere into the upper tier will continue to be home runs.

GIANTS DOWN CUBS IN ORGY OF SLUGGING

YANKS BLANK TIGERS; NATS, A'S WIN

Associated Press.

John McGraw's New York Giants are setting a gruelling pace for other contenders in the National League pennant chase and are quickening this pace over the prone forms of the supposedly powerful western clubs.

During their last eight games with the Pirates and Cubs as opponents, McGraw's sluggers have pounded out 121 hits including an even dozen home runs, and scored 78 runs. The average per game was 9 2-3 runs and 15⅛ hits.

BUCS END SLUMP

It remained for the final game of the series with the Cubs to provide most of the fireworks. The Giants won 14 to 12. Nine home runs were hit three by the Giants and six by the Cubs. This came within one of the record for two teams set by the Cardinals and Phillies in 1923 and the Cubs' total also lacked but one of the best major league mark for one team. The Cubs equaled the record made by Pittsburgh in 1894 when they pounded out four homers in the seventh inning.

Beating Brooklyn, 6 to 2, Pittsburgh not only broke a four-game losing streak but created a triple tie for third place with the Robins and Cincinnati Reds as their companions.

The Reds nosed out Philadelphia, 7 to 6, for their ninth victory in their last 12 games. The Phils tied the score in the eighth on Klein's double and Whitney's single but the Reds came back in their half of the same frame to score the winning run on Sukeforth's triple and Allen's sacrifice fly.

DETROIT BLANKED

George Pipgras turned in the best pitching performance in the American League when he allowed the Tigers only three hits and hurled the Yankees to a 7-0 win. Lou Gehrig hit his sixth homer of the year in the sixth.

The Boston Red Sox's five-game winning streak was halted by St. Louis, 3 to 2, in 10 innings.

The Athletics maintained a half-game lead over Washington for first place by trouncing Cleveland 13 to 7. The Mackmen knocked Clint Brown out of the box in the second inning with a five-run attack.

Bob Burke allowed only five hits as Washington trounced Chicago, 13 to 2. Goose Goslin led the attack with two doubles and a single, while Sam Rice hit safely in his twenty-third consecutive game.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Your Uncle Nicholas is on a diet this week and is eating his words. I have intimated in these essays that the Red Sox didn't have any more chance of vacating the cellar than getting appointed to the Supreme Court and now look at them. They are a way station in the league standing instead of the end of the line. Say, if that Detroit team digs in any deeper it will take Archaeologists to discover them by next October. They are going ahead like the guy that halted two hours at a railroad crossing waiting for the stop light to change.

team, as at present constituted, holds no better than an extremely remote chance of trimming the Gauls and regaining the international trophy. Our outfit is composed of youngsters, none of whom is in the Tilden-Johnston-Richards class. Lott, Allison, Van Ryn, Doeg, Mercur, and the rest are fine players, but there is a decided gap between their tennis and that of Cochet, Borotra, and LaCoste, the marvels of France. They may boast a slight advantage in doubles, but that they will be able to do much with the French in singles is almost inconceivable, even if LaCoste fails to round into the man-to-man lineup.

Bill Tilden

ALL OF WHICH leads to the point that the American aggregation needs William T. Tilden II. Tilden may have announced retirement from Davis Cup competition. He has done that before and has been persuaded—without great difficulty—to return. It is up to the American Cup Committee, if it is divorced from the petty politics that have impaired its judgment in times not long gone by, to bring Big Bill back into the fold.

Tilden has been offering wonderful tennis on the Riviera for months. Right now he is little, if any, below his par of palmy days. His addition to the American host for the inter-zone final and then fo the challenge round would boost our singles stock tremendously, for he is always an excellent bet against Borotra out-of-doors and is by no means a long shot against Cochet when not mingling with the Lyonnaise luminary at the end of an arduous week's tournament play. Tilden is the balance wheel that may sway the American machine into smooth, successful performance. Let the Cup authorities of the United States draft him before a really splendid opportunity is frittered away.

UMPIRE REARDON CATCHER LOPEZ SUHR

First Baseman Suhr, of the Pirates, was a slugging sensation in the Pacific Coast League last season, with 51 home runs, six triples and 62 two-base hits to his credit. Playing in his twenty-thrid game of the season yesterday, he pounded out the first home run of his major league career, against Johnny Morrison, of the Robins, in the eighth inning at Forbes Field. He also has five doubles, five triples and 18 singles in his record so far. Photo shows him crossing the plate on his circuit drive, which landed in the right field stand.

DERBY FIELD REDUCED

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—(AP.)—With the Kentucky derby only four days off, speculation today centered on the number of thoroughbreds that would go to the post when the bugle sounds "boots and saddles" for the fifth race at Churchill Downs Saturday.

The $50,000 added mile-and-a-quarter speed and endurance test this year is not expected to have a record field. Nineteen horses, all colts, were listed today among the probable starters, with likelihood that several would be withdrawn before Saturday, bringing the number to accept the issue down to 15 or less.

The probable derby field as compiled today, listing 19 colts all carrying the derby weight of 126 pounds, looked something like this:

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUGS

By the BENCHWARMER

Well, folks, I tied into an old-fashioned meal last night and enjoyed every bit of it. I felt so keen I left the waiter a 15-cent tip. I don't like to be a spendthrift but a fella can't help bein' a little generous to poor people when he's feelin' O. K.

Guess Ol' Erve didn't throw that ball by some o' them Robins. I'm kinda glad now that I didn't make that crack to Jule about bettin' that the first pitcher to stay nine innings would be a lefthander. Anyhow it's nice to cop one after all the bad luck we've had. Jule told me last night that he'll have me in the lineup somewhere if anybody else gets hurt or sick. Then he made a wise crack about locking them rightfield gates so I can't run out of th' park.

There's no danger o' me gettin' any stage fright even if he puts me in before a holiday crowd. I've been in a couple of them leagues where the crowd comes on the field to mob you in a tight game. This stuff up here is soft pickin' compared with that.

Well, I've seen them all now but the Phillies and they'll be out there this afternoon. I've heard a lot about how they can sock the ol' apple, but if they can drive them any farther than the Giants and Dodgers, I think we ought to stage won five straight holes and dropped a putt half across the home green to end the match.

Miss Howe holed a chip shot to go 1 up over Miss Fordyce at the seventeenth and sent a 60-foot putt stone dead to halve the home hole.

Miss Fishwick kept Miss Wattles down all the way, the American hooking many shots.

Sylvia Bailey won from Margaret Lockhart, Montreal, 7 up and 5 to play.

Maureen Orcutt, New York, advanced to the fourth round with a victory over Miss Slade, 6 up and 4 to play.

Mrs. G. E. C. Rudgard, of York, eliminated Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, in the third round, 5 up and 4 to play.

The summary:

BAT BATTALINO TRAINS HERE FOR BOUT

Battling Battalino, world feather-erweight champion, will get in his second day's training at the Y. M. H. A. today. The titleholder arrived here yesterday morning from Hartford, Conn., for his battle with Vic Burrone, of New York, at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, Thursday night, and went almost immediately to the Y. M. H. A. gym to limber up. Burrone will be on hand tomorrow. Battalino's championship will not be at stake.

Between Rounds

Mickey Solomen, New Castle middleweight, now is a married man. His bride, the former Miss Helen Bryson, was a spectator at Mickey's fight with K. O. Huske at New Castle last night.

The club officials expect a crowd of 15,000 at the Mickey Walker-Al Friedman bout at Louisville on Friday night, the eve of the running of the Kentucky Derby. Al Foy, of Chatfield, and Frankie Wine, of Montana, box the semi-final.

The boxing commission yesterday approved the opening main bout for the new outdoor arena at Hickey Park, Millvale, George Patka, Homestead heavyweight, and Knute Hansen, the Melancholy Dane, of New York, will be the principals, and the clash is set for May 22.

Roberto Roberti and Pierre Charles meet in a 20-round bout in Milan, Italy, tonight, with the alleged European heavyweight championship at stake. Laddie Lee and Willie Callahan box in Portland, Me., and Honkon Hansen meets Joe Anderson in Chicago. Prime Carnera boxers rabbithorns at Salt Lake City tonight and at Logan, Utah, tomorrow night.

Tony Falco, the latest protege of Phil Glassman, developer of Lew Tendler, Benny Bass, Joe Tripoli and other good ones, hooks Luigi Quadrini in Philadelphia Thursday night.

Ken Hargraves, New Kensington Negro 130-pounder, reports that he is having trouble getting matches following his brief layoff. The promoters tell him the other men in his class don't want to meet him because they say Ken hits too hard.

Mickey Solomen and Jackie Wilson have been rematched for the semi-final to the Paulo Hansen bout at Hickey Park. Wilson will be out to avenge a shutout defeat in their first meeting in the Moose Temple, in which he also had Solomen on the floor. Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, and Jimmy Kirkpatrick, of Ellwood City, will box the second bout and Johnny Warner, of Charleroi, and Jimmy Montabano, of Braddock, are in the opener.

County Scholastic Meet Tomorrow

The annual Allegheny County independent high school and grade district track and field meet will be held tomorrow afternoon on the Homestead High School athletic field.

Athletes from Bellevue, Clairton, Dormont, Braddock, McKees Rocks, Wilkinsburg, Rankin, Munhall and Homestead high schools will face the starter's gun.

DAVE M'CORMICK,
St. Clair Country Club.

Dave McCormick, pro at the St. Clair Country Club, one of the nicest chaps in Western Pennsylvania's paid brigade, is one of the few local pros who comes from the west coast of Scotland—or, to be exact, Prestwick. As a young ster he got his training under John Cowan, at the Prestwick municipal course in Scotland, and in 1914 he came to the United States as assistant to Jimmy Rose, pro at the Milwaukee Country Club. Soon after he became private instructor to the family of Judge Miller, of Milwaukee, which position he held for three years, or until he moved on to Peru, Ind., sharing his time between the Logansport and Rochester clubs, as well as tending to his regular duties there. Affable Dave came to the St. Clair Country Club, only a nine-hole layout, in 1919—and he's been there ever since. During the recent fire that burnt the clubhouse to the ground, McCormick played the hero role by saving a number of members' clubs, the handicap list and other matters of great importance. With Walter Johnstone, pro at the Butler Country Club, Dave is co-pro at a Vero Beach (Fla.) resort club during the winter months—and he praises it as one of the best in the South. — VERN SWARTSFAGER.

GOVERNORS, COLTS WIN

Six of the eight Middle Atlantic League teams were able to run off games yesterday, only Fairmont and Clarksburg being rained out.

At Cumberland, the Colts won their first game of the season, defeating the Jeannette Jays by a 10 to 3 score.

At Wheeling, the Stogies lost to Charleroi by a 4 to 1 count, getting but five safe hits from the delivery of Bower, on the hill for the Guys.

The Johnstown-Scottdale game at Johnstown was a hurler's battle between Heller, of the Johnnies and Lang, of the Scottdes. The former won out, 1 to 0.

GROGAN CUP PLAY CARDED TOMORROW

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Golfers of the Shannopin and Highland Country clubs are taking their final practice rounds today in preparation for the first 18-hole round of the 36-hole Grogan Cup competition, to be staged tomorrow at the Highland Country Club. More than 175 members of the two clubs will play.

Shooting an 84-18—66, John J. Dillion captured the honors in the first division in the opening tournament of the Hotel, Club and Restaurant Golf Association, played over the Stanton Heights course yesterday.

Trailing Dillon by five strokes came A. G. Bauer, Jr., who turned in a card of 76-5—71. W. H. Mennigke was third with 87-14—74 and Otto Eberle finished fourth with 89-15—74.

Louis Tesh and W. Monteverde tied for the lead in the second division with net 71's and in the third section, F. F. Diebolt shot a 102-22 for an 80. The scores:

By TOM BIRKS.

Headed by the opening of the Philadelphia Company League featuring Byllesby and the Pittsburgh Railways, together with four games in the West Penn and three in the Central League, sandlot followers in the district have another list of real battles for their entertainment this evening.

John Mi'ler

The Central League finds Lincoln Civics and Soho Board of Trade, both undefeated, clasing at Moultrie Park; Beckman Motors meeting Fintex at Warrington and the Cosletts dropping down to Dean Field to meet the Allegheny Collegians.

The opening of the Utilities Company League, at Mellon Field will carry the usual frills, P. L. McCance, director of personnel, will throw out the first ball. John Miller is expected to pitch the game for Byllesby.

The West Penn battles should be worthwhile. Wilmerding will clash with Verona at the Concourse grounds. Both clubs are unbeaten. Artman will probably oppose McNally. At Homewood, the Daly aggregation clashes with the Homestead Aces.

Universal will inaugurate the league season at Dormont. Stauffer is primed to pitch this game, and McKeag will probably send Belin to the mound in an attempt to stop the South Hills aggregation.

Fintex, headed by Pickels, will make a desperate effort to break into the win column at the expense of the Beckmans. Lutton's club looked good against Allegheny, so Fintex will have to show fine form in this local battle to cop honors.

COSLETTS FACE TEST

Allegheny Collegians will tangle with the Cosletts and the Dairymen are eager to wipe out that defeat of last week.

One game will be flashed in the Commercial and Industrial circuit. Mine Safety will travel to Burgwin Field to meet B. & O.

In the Steel City League, Demor meets Observatory Civics. In the City League, the Smiths will open at home with St. Johns providing the opposition. Seeing that many former Smith players are now lined up with the Sullivan Field outfit, a lot of fight should be on tap.

The other battle brings W. O. W. to Pleasant Valley for the first meeting with the Smilers. Dunsky has been driving the boys hard since that Civic defeat.

Book Shoe continued its apparently uncheckable pace in the City League last evening, turning back the Stowe Civics by a 3-to-2 score. The Jimmy Smiths won over W. O. W. by 5 to 3.

Ingram topped the Presbyterians in the Crafton-Ingram Church League, 5 to 4; Reliance Life defeated the Dravo club, 13 to 3, in a C. and I. League game, and the L. F. Burkes downed William Penn, 10 to 9, in a Minor League fray. The Homestead Grays walloped St. Johns by 20 to 5 in an independent contest.

Babe Ruth Explains How To Cover Up Pitches

(NOTE—This is the second of a new series of articles of instruction on how to play baseball prepared by baseball's $80,000-a-year professor.)

By BABE RUTH,
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player.

When Mac started fooling with that knuckle ball it was laughable. Every time he would throw it he'd twist his face out of shape, stiffen his arms and give away the pitch before he ever toed the rubber.

I kidded him about it a lot.

"Well, gee whiz," he said, "how is a fellow to keep from tipping his pitch, I'd like to know?"

I showed him.

If you watch a pitcher who knows his business, you'll see that he always keeps his glove completely covering the ball until the moment it is delivered. And he doesn't give the batter a single chance to see whether it's a curve or a fast one or a slow one until the ball leaves his fingers.

KEEP BATTER GUESSING TO SUCCEED

Lots of times you've seen pitchers in the very pose I've shown in this picture. And you notice that they pause in their windup just at that point. The reason is that right then and not before then they take the grip on a ball for the pitch they are about to make. The important thing is that the glove completely covers the ball so the batter hasn't a chance to guess, from the position of the pitcher's hands, what the pitch will be.

Every pitcher must look out for little things about his motion or his delivery that will tip off the pitch. Even big league pitchers have to be careful. I remember when Paul Zahniser was pitching in our league he used to tip off his pitch every time. When he was going to throw a fast ball he would lift his arms high above his head, as in the picture, but when he threw his curve he would raise his arms only a little above the level of his eyes. The hitters got wise to him early, but it was a long time before Paul himself got wise.

USE SAME MOTION ON ALL PITCHES

In my own pitching days I had a funny habit, too. I didn't know it at the time, but I've learned since that every time I went to throw a curve I stuck my tongue out. It was a dead give-away and one of the good reasons why my curve ball wasn't worth much.

The big idea, of course, is to use the same motion on every pitch. Work and study your form until you've got it down pat. The minute you let that hitter know what you're going to throw you're ruined.

in front of the right field pavilion. The right field bleacher range of Chicago is a joke, and the center field section doesn't help the conditions there. You will note that nine homers were struck at Wrigley Field yesterday.

Gus Suhr came through with his first major league homer yesterday afternoon as the Buccos trimmed the Robins in the last game of the series. The score was 6 to 2.

Brame held the invaders to six safeties as the Oaklanders broke their losing streak, which had reached four games. Clise Dudley and Johnny Morrison pitched for the Robins.

Adam Comorosky's hard hitting was a big feature of the Pittsburgh success. Paul Waner was out of the game with a bad hip and Jim Mosolf played right field. Al Bool caught his first Pirate game.

The contest was halted for seven minutes by rain in the fourth inning.

Mandell to Box Spug Myers, May 29

INDIANAPOLIS, May 13.—(AP.)—Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill., world lightweight champion, and Spug Myers, Pocatello, Idaho, have been matched to box 10 rounds in Indianapolis May 29, the eve of the 500-mile automobile race.

PRIMO STOPS TRIO

OGDEN, Utah, May 13.—(AP.)—Primo Carnera, man mountain of Italy, last night knocked out three boxers here in five minutes of activity. Carnera first stopped Jack Silver, 220, Seattle, in 2 minutes. Al Dawson, 205, Ogden, then stepped into the ring and was floored for the count in 2 minutes 5 seconds. The last victim, Ed Wilks, 175, Ogden, was dropped in 1 minute. All of the bouts were exhibitions.

TO SWITCH TITLE GO

NEW YORK, May 13.—(INS.)—The Maxie Rosenbloom-Jimmy Slattery light-heavyweight title bout may be staged in New York, it was indicated today. Buffalo is willing to waive its right to the bout and Madison Square Garden officials today will ask the state boxing commission to approve a date for the match in New York.

BUCK M'TIERNAN BEATS SAYLOR AT GARDEN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Young Saylor, of Charleroi, gray-thatched veteran, who has been left-handing younger opponents into defeat with startling regularity over a long career, turned in another masterpiece in the main bout of the all-star closing card of the season at Motor Square Garden last night, but it was a different sort of a masterpiece from his usual order. It was a defensive bit of artistry that enabled him to step 10 lively rounds against the sharper-hitting and youthful Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, without ever being off his feet, this despite the fact that, at 150 pounds, he conceded nine pounds to his foe, who only last week, in the same ring, had knocked out Lee Sala, of Donora, in three rounds.

SAYLOR ON DEFENSIVE

At the finish, there were some in the crowd who thought Saylor had won and they booed the decision, as they have developed a habit of booing McTiernan because of his relentless "killing" tactics when he is in the ring to fight. One of the judges, Frank Ferris, voted for a draw, but the other judge, Lou Meininger, and the referee, Joe Keally, rightly awarded the palm of victory to McTiernan.

Round after round they fought along the same lines, with Saylor's usually versatile and active left strangely spiked. Master of ring-craft that he is, Saylor knew he had no business trading punches with his younger foe and he never let the left go until he got to close quarters, where there was little danger of being crossed by Buck's potent right. When lefts and rights rattled off his body and a right occasionally found its way to his chin he moved in and clinched or bluffed his way past the danger point. As early as the fourth round he was wobbly under the steam of McTiernan's blows, but he steadied himself, and, as the frames wore on, he found the pace gradually slowing down and easier to cope with.

ENDS WINNING STREAK

At the end, Saylor hadn't won a round, but he had made McTiernan fight his hardest to eke out an edge in every frame. Taking no chances, he yet had managed to make an interesting battle of it and had lost little of his prestige and no friends in defeat. It was a classic job of finding out early that he couldn't win against his two-fisted punching foe and then going in to "stay" and doing that little thing with a vengeance that made him look good in losing.

The victory was the third straight of McTiernan's comeback campaign, following his long layoff because of illness. For Saylor, the result halted a streak of victories that numbered among his victims Gene Moretti, Tom Malco, Mickey Solomen and Freddie Mueller.

Benny Schwartz, of Baltimore, 119 pounds, handily outboxed Frisco Grande, of Buffalo, 115½, all of the way in the 10-round semi-final that lagged for action in many spots. The highlight was a fast finish by Schwartz in the final round, in which he punched his opponent all around the ring.

MALCO" ROBBED" OF VERDICT

Tom Malco, of Soho, 146½ pounds, handed Young Rudy, of Charleroi, a beating in the first 10-round bout, only to see the judges disagree and the referee's decision go to Rudy. Judge Ferris voted for Malco and Judge Meininger and Referee Keally for Rudy. Malco dished up a bad body beating in the first five rounds and held his own in two of the last five, with Rudy winning the sixth, seventh and ninth, in which Tommy tired. The crowd booed the verdict so hard that the announcer could not make himself heard in introducing the semi-final that followed.

Freddie Smith, of Carnegie, 119½ pounds, making his professional debut, was no match for Mose Butch, of Oakland, 120½, and was knocked out late in the first round.

BATTALINO INTRODUCED

A good-sized crowd turned out for the season finale. Battling Battalino, the world featherweight champion, who meets Vic Burrone, of New York, in the main bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, Thursday night, was introduced before the main bout.

Chappie Couch occupied the dual role of timekeeper and knockdown timer and had to work at the latter job only once, when he counted out Smith. Bill Schuster, as usual, did the announcing. Al Grayber and Joe Keally divided the refereeing.

Sport Vignettes

Have you heard the one about the newspaperman who bought a home in Overbrook and took out hurricane insurance before buying any other kind? . . . . A visitor in town is Tommy Ryan, former bantamweight star of McKeesport, who has been making his home in Buffalo for the last eight years . . . . He hasn't boxed for more than a year and came here with Frisco Grande, the Filipino, who boxed Benny Schwartz at Motor Square Garden last night . . . . Tommy now manages the Crescent Club gymnasium in Buffalo and conducts a pool room on the side . . . . He has been married four years . . . . A veteran of 200 fights, he boxed all of the leading bantams, some of them several times, and appeared in matches all over the country . . . . He made McKeesport a good fight town, drawing big gates there for matches with Kid Williams, Abe Goldstein, Pal Moore, Frankie Mason and others . . . His real name was Charley Marino, but he had it legally changed to Tommy Ryan after moving to New York State . . . . A kid brother, Tony Marino, is a star amateur boxer in McKeesport who will turn pro as soon as he finishes his trade and may join Tommy in Buffalo . . . . Tommy is 29 years old . . . . William Bernlohr, director of athletics at Capital University, Columbus, O., will be married in June to Miss Ruth Russell, of Columbus, it is announced . . . . The bride is director of women's athletics at Capital . . . . Both are graduates of that university . . . . Bernlohr was coach at Butler (Pa.) High School from 1927 until he left last year to take up the Capital position . . . . Tommy Grant, of Rankin, former local boxer and later manager of boxers and promoter, has been named to handle the bell and watch at all of the boxing shows in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, this summer, working as official timer with A. C. Couch, who will be knockdown timer . . . The job is not a new one to Grant, who broke back into the game for a time at the Bowl in this capacity last year . . . . Incidentally, the Bowl this year always will have a half-dozen barrels of sawdust ready to sprinkle over the ring following a rainstorm before shows . . . . The sawdust will absorb the water and then will be swept out, leaving the canvas in good condition . . . . A few times last year the mop and sponge squad had to be called out for yeoman service . . . . It's on ag'in, off ag'in, on ag'in with that local hockey deal, and pretty soon no one will care which way it winds up . . . . Comes Joe Page, the well-known herald of things extraordinary, to break the news gently that the bowwows are coming back to the Bridgeville Speedway for a meeting of approximately 20 days, beginning May 24 . . . . The dog-racing sport got off to a good start and was conducted with credit to all concerned in its trial last summer and will find many devotees keenly awaiting its return.—HARRY KECK.

Pat McCarthy Loses To K. O. Christner

BOSTON, May 13.—(AP.)—K. O. Christner, Akron's fighting tireworker, last night outpointed Pat McCarthy, of Boston, by a wide margin in the Boston Garden's 10-round feature bout.

Christner was the aggressor in every round and his wide hooks to the head and body gave him the honors in eight of the 10 sessions.

McCarthy was unable to escape many of Christner's punishing blows and he was in distress several times.

Doeg Tops Richards In Cup Workout

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—(AP.)—Of the three members of the United States Davis Cup tennis team, who worked out with Vincent Richards yesterday in preparation for the Zone matches with Canada later in the week, John Doeg was the only one to come through with a victory. Doeg won 7-5, 6-4 after a hard battle.

Weather permitting, a full program of scholastic baseball will be offered this afternoon on district diamonds, with both sections of the City League and three divisions of the W. P. I. A. L. in action.

In Section I of the City League, the fast traveling, undefeated Schenley team takes on Ralston in the first contest of the second half of the race. Schenley won over its foe of today by a 3-2 score in a first half encounter. In a second Section I game today, Westinghouse and Peabody clash at Westinghouse.

In Section II, the leaders, Oliver, meet Carrick at Carrick. Allegheny plays the lowly Langley nine at Langley.

Baxter and Gladstone and Arsenal and Peabody meet in Section I games in the junior division, while in Section II, Herron Hill takes on Oliver.

In the W. P. I. A. L., in Section I, Pitcairn, meets McKeesport. In Section II, Wilkinsburg invades North Braddock for a contest with Johnny Reed's Scott High champions and Rankin meets Edgewood on the latter's field.

In Section III, Mt. Lebanon tackles Dormont and McKees Rocks plays a return game with Crafton.

Waynesburg Has Full Team in Meet

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 13.—Waynesburg High School will be represented in the annual W. P. I. A. L. track and field meet by a full team for the first time in its history next Saturday when the annual schoolboy event is staged in Pittsburgh.

Conference Tables Pro Team Proposal

LANCASTER, Pa., May 13.—(AP.)—After a lengthy discussion, the Eastern Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Athletic Conference yesterday tabled a proposal to define what constitutes a "professional athletic team." The matter will be considered again at a meeting in December.

Dr. R. A. Arms, of Gettysburg, was elected president of the conference. Prof. W. W. Hitchler, of Dickinson, was named vice president, and Prof. C. E. Billheimer, of Gettysburg, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

U. S. Cup Stars To Sail Friday

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP.)—Three of the five members of the American Wightman Cup tennis team which will meet a group of English women at Wimbledon in June will sail for England Friday.

The group, consisting of Edith Cross, San Francisco; Sarah Palfrey, Brookline, Mass., and Mary Greef, Kansas City, will leave from Boston on the Cunard liner, Scythia. Mianne Palfrey, also a ranking player, will accompany her sister Sarah to play in various European tournaments.

LAMAR WINS

BALTIMORE, May 13.—(AP.)—Henry Lamar, of Boston, weighing 156 pounds, last night received the decision in a 10-round bout with Marty Gallagher, of Washington. Gallagher weighed 202½ pounds. The bout was close, Lamar being a fast left to defeat the Washington fighter, who outweighed him 14 pounds.

HERE ARE THE RULES FOR "PIRATEPUZ"

(1) Every day until further notice the daily Sun-Telegraph will print a frame, or diagram in squares, each containing the letters, that will, when placed in order, spell the name of a Pittsburgh Pirate baseball player.
(2) In this frame it may be possible that abbreviations and nicknames will be employed. The readers of the Sun-Telegraph in solving the daily PIRATEPUZ are to endeavor to submit as their answer the full, complete and correct name of the player, devoid of nickname or abbreviation, other than that of the middle initial, if there happens to be one.
(3) This is a contest that will test the skill of the readers of the Sun-Telegraph as to their knowledge of the names of the players of the Pittsburgh club.
(4) There will be a new PIRATEPUZ every day and daily prizes for the correct and most nearly correct answer will be awarded as follows:
1st Prize ....$10.00 in Cash
2nd Prize .... 5.00 in Cash
3rd Prize .... 2.50 in Cash
Next 25 Prizes—Each a Grandstand General Admission ticket to the Pirates' games, good any day during the season.
(5) Neatness in the preparation of answers submitted will be a factor in the judging. In case of ties, the contestants so tied will be given an equal award. The decision of the judges will be final in all cases. Contestants agree that entries become the property of the Sun-Telegraph. The contest is open to everyone—men and women, boys and girls—no matter where they live, with the exception of employes of the Sun-Telegraph. You do not have to purchase a copy of the Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. The files of this newspaper are available at the Sun-Telegraph Branch Office, Fifth Avenue and Market Street, where any person can copy or trace the puzzle.
(6) All answers must be addressed to the PIRATEPUZ Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and must be postmarked not later than midnight of the day following the publication of the PIRATEPUZ for which the answer is submitted. Contestants are requested to place the number of the puzzle on the low outside left-hand corner of the envelope.
(7) Winners will be announced one week after the publication of the PIRATEPUZ—on the corresponding day.

Knife Mystery.
A knife, dropping from the walls of Heathersley Hall, digs itself into the dinner table in front of Uncle Roscoe Rawson and thereby starts the action of tonight's melodrama.
A search discloses no apparent position from which the knife could have been thrown, and the household settles down for the night. However, Rowley Rawson, the young Englishman who is trying to prove his claim to his grandfather's title, hears footsteps on the main stairs at midnight and arouses his friend, Jimmy Otis. Investigation reveals Uncle Roscoe attempting to open a wall safe.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

THREE FAMOUS PERSONALITIES and two large choruses will entertain the radio public tonight.

Cornelia Otis Skinner will do three sketches for the Eveready Hour, WCAE at 9, in a return engagement. Fans liked her initial performance some months ago.

Two movie satellites will brighten mid-evening programs. Ginger Rogers will be the Mardi Gras star on WJAS at 9. Ramon Novarro will keep company with Sunoco, KDKA at 9:30.

Cornelia Otis Skinner

We expect the WCAE program at 8 o'clock to be something out of the ordinary. The New York Downtown Glee Club of 200 voices is made up of Gotham business men.

Will Boate of Hamburg Brothers and Majestic dealers here are busy installing radios in schools for the final School of the Air program Thursday over WJAS at 2 o'clock.

The broadcast is to originate in the historic diplomatic reception room in the State Department at Washington, with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur and Chao-Chu Wu, the Chinese finister, as speakers. The Marine Band will play.

"Highlights on Personalities," a new feature on Columbia, is to give the horoscopes of celebrities.

The corset with diamond buckles that cost Lillian Russell $39,000 is to be described over WJAS tomorrow morning at 11:30 during the Homemakers program.

That liquor bootlegging concession trading under the name of "Amos and Andy" is said to operate a branch in Pittsburgh. Cards with the names of the popular radio comedians and a telephone number are alleged to have been distributed among customers in Washington, D. C., last week. Policemen double-checked; now the firm is "regusted."

"BABE" AND THE PAGE

Fresh from his shower at the Yankee Stadium, Babe Ruth, nattily dressed in a camel's hair sweater, tan trousers and white-trimmed sport shoes, dashed to the Columbia studios recently to tell about swatting home runs.

Those in the studio sat with bated breath. In the middle of the Home Run King's discourse, the chief of the page boys slipped from his bearing on the studio piano and smashed to the floor with a bang. The Babe jumped.

When Ruth's talk was signed off, the page boy, completely crushed, crept from behind the piano with tears in his eyes and stammered:

"Gee, Mr. Ruth, I'm awfully sorry."

"Forget it, kid," said the Babe; "when I saw it wasn't a pop bottle everything was all right."

FACTS OR FANCIES —WHICH DO YOU BUY?

So many tooth pastes today promise in a loud voice—and perform in a mere whisper—that many people get "fed up" on tooth paste advertising. If you are this way, read this: PEBECO'S claims are not fancies, but facts—supported by evidence of countless scientific experiments and forty years of practical use. While cleaning and whitening, Pebeco stimulates the salivary flow, helping Nature check the destructive mouth acids. Are you missing this extra value? Try Pebeco.

Keep "Undies" New and Fresh with Remarkable New Tints

TAKE only 40 seconds to dissolve New INSTANT RIT in your wash bowl and see latest Parisian shades for your underthings appear as if by magic.

These new tints last through many extra washings. An exclusive German formula makes colors penetrate to every fiber of the material. Mere "surface tinting" can't compare.

All colors are absorbed quickly, evenly. They are clearer, richer . . . exactly like new.

Lingerie	Curtains
Hosiery	Children's clothes
Dresses	Scarfs, gloves, etc.

At your druggist or department store. 15c per package.

WHITE RIT—Color Remover (Harmless as Boiling Water)
Any color, even black, completely removed from all materials by WHITE RIT (color remover). Also takes spots and stains from white goods—even ink, fruit, perspiration, rust, etc. Restores "yellowed" or "grayed" white goods to original whiteness.

INSTANT RIT
Tints or Dyes All Fabrics, Any Shade
Note: ALL RIT is INSTANT RIT whether so marked on package or not.

FREE MAN HELD AS IRENE'S KIN

SAPULPA, Okla., May 13. —(AP.)—A man arrested at Bristow several days ago and suspected of being Tom Crawford, brother of Mrs. Irene Schroeder, convicted slayer now awaiting execution in Pennsylvania, was released yesterday. Crawford is wanted in connection with the killing of a highway patrolman, the same case in which his sister and W. Glenn Dague were convicted of first degree murder.

Sheriff D. V. Livingston said Bertillon measurements sent from Pennsylvania proved the man held here was not Crawford.

Hard Soft CORNS

Gone in 4 Days, Roots and All.

Callouses, Too!

Out to stay out—selling like hot cakes in Great Britain and now in America—the pleasant, easy way to get rid of corns—a joyous, refreshing, invigorating foot bath for 3 or 4 nights and then lift out the corn—roots and all.

They call this miracle worker Radox and since it has been working wonders with the bad feet of the tight little Isles—plasters and acids, cutting and skin destroying liquid belong to the dark ages.

It's the modern way—the sensible way to take out corns—to abolish callouses—to dissolve the hard skin from heels and toes and to put your feet in good vigorous condition so that you can walk and run and jump and dance with ease and pleasure.

Just ask for a box of Radox at Mayflower Drug Stores or any modern drugstore—you'll be delighted.

High Blood Pressure Shortens Life

Relief for high blood pressure and other health-destroying ailments that have kept thousands of sufferers in misery and doubt for years—is now seen in the modern discovery—BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUM.

The importance cannot be denied when the life insurance companies refuse to issue policies to applicants with high blood pressure because it tends to shorten the span of life.

High blood pressure gives little warning and until certain symptoms appear you are not aware of it. You may have head pains, flushed face, hot flashes, dizzy spells, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, nervousness and palpitation of the heart. Remember, that High Blood Pressure is a symptom and not a disease in itself—IT IS NATURE'S WARNING to take notice.

MARKET AFTER DULL OPENING TURNS UP

Oil Shares Take Lead in Rise—Specialty, Food And Utility Shares Follow

NEW YORK, May 13.—Efforts were made to lift the stock market out of its narrow trading rut today, with the oil shares providing the speculative fuel. Trading during the first hour was the dullest in several weeks, with only a few of the utility, food and specialty issues showing notable vitality. After midday, a strong buying movement in the petroleum issues began to drag the list upward. Utilities and steels joined in the movement.

The oils have been somewhat retarded during the recovery from the latest break, owing to renewed difficulties in bringing the smaller producers into line with the conservation movement in California, but it was announced today that Santa Fe Springs operators, with the exception of a few, had agreed to curtail output to 57 per cent of potential capacity. Furthermore, a survey of drilling operations in California discloses that major operators have curtailed activity by 40 to 50 per cent.

"GAS" BOOST RUMORED

There has also been some talk of further gasoline price increases in the East, although Wall Street understands leading refiners may delay such action for a time, as it would probably be followed by advances in Mid-Continent crude quotations. For the year to date, consumption of petroleum products has been running 8 to 10 per cent ahead of last year, although earlier in the year it was stated in oil circles that a 5 per cent gain would be satisfactory.

The day's business reports were in general moderately favorable, the export copper price was put up to 13.30 cents a pound, in response to the advance in the domestic price to 13 cents yesterday. Wall Street, however, was inclined to regard the copper stocks somewhat cautiously, as estimates indicate that production costs are around 11 cents a pound. Reports from the automotive trade indicated that sales had picked up appreciably in several lines since the first of May, and that dealer stocks are low. A few new models are expected to appear around July 1, largely in the 8-cylinder class.

George Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Trust Company, was quoted as stating on his return to Chicago from a visit to the Pacific Coast that business there was slow, and for the country in general, he expected second quarter results would compare unfavorably with last year, but that agricultural conditions were satisfactory for this time of year and that growing crops would soon become a factor in the outlook. W. F. Warren, president of Hall Printing, pointed to an increase in volume of large national magazines as an indication that conservative optimism is increasing.

OIL SHARES RISE

In the oils, Standard of New Jersey, Standard of Kansas, General Asphalt, Houston and the Pan-American issues mounted about 2 to 4 points, the last named reachig new 1930 peaks. U. S. Steel and A. M. Byers sold up more than 2 points, and Michigan Steel surged up several points to new high ground. Shares gaining about 2 to 5 points included Du Pont, Underwood-Elliott, Eastman Kodak, Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, Columbia Gas, Coca Cola, Macy, Sears-Roebuck, American and Foreign Power and Electric Power and Light.

Vulcan Detinning, a lightly traded issue, shot up more than 20 points. Shares gaining 10 or more included Case and International Salt. Earnings of the latter are said to be running about double the rate of this time last year, and the stock has doubled in price since the first of the year.

New York Building Activity Increases

During the period from May 1 to 9, new building and engineering contracts in the metropolitan area of New York totaled $32,244,700, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. This was at a daily rate of $4,030,600, compared with a daily rate of $3,787,700 for May, 1929. Construction contracts for the year to date amount to $368,339,000, against $436,200,000 for the corresponding period last year.

American Smelters Raises Lead Price

Change Methods to Meet Change in Conditions

By B. C. FORBES

CHANGED CONDITIONS sometimes demand changed business methods in order to improve profits and to keep abreast of the times.

President Meade H. Baker of National Gypsum Company tells me that his business is in a better position today than it was a year ago because we recognized that different conditions had developed in the building field and we directed our operations accordingly. He added:

"It was our opinion that markets had become selective and we directed our sales efforts on that basis, moving into those markets which we were especially well able to serve.

"It was also recognized that the volume business which existed a year ago was abnormal and that our objectives this year should be laid down on a more normal basis. Instead of aiming solely for volume, we concentrated on those markets and products that we felt would be productive of profits.

"Recognizing also that reduction in overhead, and lowered selling costs, would be necessary, we added to our line certain companion products that our sales representatives could readily market. This has worked out extremely well and we have been able to reduce sales costs in practically all territories we cover.

"As a result of this intensive effort we have been able to obtain our essential volume and show earnings actually in excess of those a year ago. While improved conditions in the gypsum industry itself have naturally contributed to this, we feel that the major reason has been our working along selective lines and equipping our salesmen with a line of companion products that can be readily sold by their regular dealer trade."

WHY IS banking undergoing a transformation? Let George F. Rand, president of the Marine Midland Corporation, who has been extremely aggressive in gathering many banks under one supervision, answer:

"Strong banking institutions are essential to prosperity. During the last 10 years the methods of conducting business in this country have been revolutionized, and it is logical that phases of our banking economics should change to meet this new condition. Group banking, as represented by the Marine Midland Corporation, is an alignment of banking to the new order in industry. It is a necessary step in the financing of the larger industries of the country. Group banking not only will assist in meeting the banking requirements of our large corporations, but also will afford supplementary services to depositors not heretofore available in the smaller unit banks.

"Buffalo and the Niagara frontier region is a territory with a great diversity of industry and it is essential that banking must keep pace with the industrial developments in this area."

WHILE IN Buffalo the other day, I asked A. D. Graves, president of Pratt & Lambert, and who is also vice president of the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce, how his nationally known concern came to locate in that city. He replied:

"In 1902 Buffalo was selected as the best location for our main plant and executive offices. Our company has been in business for more than 80 years, and its greatest progress has been made during the last 25 years. From my viewpoint, Buffalo is an ideal location for the manufacture and distribution of paint and varnish products in the United States and Canada. The most heavily populated parts of both countries, including the rich industrial sections, are easily accessible from Buffalo, with its advantageous railroad and water transportation.

"Our experience of manufacturing in this community for many years has shown labor conditions to be uniformly good, with a minimum of unemployment and practically no labor controversies. This, in my opinion, is due to the diversity of industry within the Niagara area which assures a more level employment of labor than exists in sections where one or two industries predominate.

"Buffalo business men are loyal, energetic, proud of their city and helpful to one another. Our company is fortunate in its selection of Buffalo as its principal manufacturing headquarters."

IT IS cheering to meet business heads who are able to report improvement over a year ago. J. E. Rogers, president of the Addressograph Corporation, tells me that not only did their earnings last year show very great gain over the previous year, but that still better results are being achieved this year.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 13.—The bond market was quiet today. Prime railroad issues and some utilities displayed firmness, but moved within narrow limits.

Stock privilege issues were moderately active and with foreign and United States government bonds manifested a downward tendency. Sales were slightly larger than Monday, the lightest trading day since January.

CHAIN STORES DID BETTER IN APRIL

Later Easter This Year Brings 4-Month Results Above Same 1929 Period

NEW YORK, May 13. — With Easter business falling in April this year instead of March as was the case last year, a more accurate comparison of chain store sales can now be made than was possible at the end of March. A large group of chain stores showed a reduction of more than 8 per cent in sales during the first three months, but for the first four months a group of 19 of the largest chains show a net gain of 5.9 per cent.

Almost all of the large chains showed a reduction in March, but as many reported gains in April. For the 19 large systems four months' sales this year were $939,300,000, as against $887,100,000 last year, an increase of $52,400,000 or 5.9 per cent.

A. & P. INDICATOR

Because many chains are now materially larger than a year ago, a net decrease in sales per unit would probably be shown, but the reduction in chain store sales resulting from business recession does not prove to be as severe as had earlier been feared.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, with its billion-dollar annual volume and 15,000 stores, is now reporting monthly sales, adding largely to the data on chain store results. For April the company showed an increase of 11.40 per cent, which compared with 8.06 per cent in March and 32 per cent in February. Actual volume was $86,137,806 against $77,324,008 last year. For the four months sales were $360,506,109, an increase of $27,640,778 or 8.3 per cent over the 1929 period. Another large grocery chain, Safeway Stores, reported increases of 9.9 per cent for April and 13.5 per cent for the four months.

MAIL ORDERS GAIN

Results of the two large mail order-chain store systems, Sears, Roebuck & Company and Montgomery Ward, were at variances. Sears reported decreases of 1.2 per cent for April and 4.5 per cent for four months (in reality four-week periods approximating months), whereas Ward had increases of 19.21 per cent and .21 per cent, respectively.

Woolworth reported increases of 10.4 per cent and 2 per cent, and Kresge increases of 11.9 per cent and 1.2 per cent. The large J. C. Penney Company continued its favorable showing with increase of 16.9 per cent for April and 8.5 per cent for four months. Nearly all of the smaller companies showed gains for April, whereas declines greatly predominated in March.

COPPER STOCKS UP IN APRIL

NEW YORK, May 13.—Stocks of refined copper in North and South America on April 30 were 301,338 tons, against 256,020 tons on March 31, a gain of 45,318 tons.

Blister stocks (including in process) were 268,675 on April 30, against 266,561 a month ago, an increase of 2,114 tons.

Total refined and blister stocks were 570,013 tons, against 522,581 month ago, an increase of 47,432 tons, according to American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

Refined copper production during April amounted to 124,531 tons, including imports of cathodes. This is a decrease of 2,533 tons from March.

Production of copper in the United States in April totaled 60,338 tons, against 61,216 tons in March and 94,902 tons in April, 1929. April shipments of copper, both export and domestic, amounted to 79,213 tons, a drop of 24,954 tons and the lowest monthly deliveries in many years. Domestic deliveries were 50,017 tons last month, a decrease of 23,827 tons. Exports were 29,196 tons, off 1,327 tons.

Smelter production in the United States during April was 76,777 tons, a drop of 1,737 tons from March.

Premium on French World Bank Issue

PARIS, May 13.—Current reports foreshadow an overwhelming response to the coming issue in France of the 16,000 shares of the Bank for International Settlements. Part of the issue has already been placed privately and it is stated that dealings are taking place at a premium of nearly four francs on the paid up price of approximately 3,075 francs.

Stock Exchange Topics

Copper Stocks Register Gain Since Current Buying Started.

Since the current buying movement started in copper metal the copper stocks have advanced, but advances have been mild compared with the 50 per cent to 70 per cent drops some have taken from their respective highs of last year. Part of the recent advance has been due to short covering, but the larger part to buying by people who think the copper situation has turned definitely. One thing that holds many prospective buyers of the copper stock in check is forthcoming meetings of copper companies. It stands to reason that most companies will reduce dividends, because of cash needed to carry unsold copper.

Report of Standard Brands for the first quarter of the current year showing 25 cents a share earned was hardly in line with expectations. The company pays dividends at the rate of $1.50 annually. When the stock was being absorbed by the public, claims were made that earnings would be between $3 and $4 a share annually. It is known, however, that Standard Brands has been making a very heavy depreciation charge off and that 25 cents a share quarterly does not accurately measure the company's earning power.

Reports are coming to the New York financial district to the effect that American and Foreign Power's business is running considerably ahead of the same period of last year and that when the annual report is made public it will show a decided improvement in gross and net revenues over the previous year. Whenever strength crops out in the utility group American and Foreign Power is usually well in the foreground, and for this reason it has often proved a popular speculative favorite

The action of the stock market yesterday suggested very plainly that virtually the entire day's business originated with professional forces arrayed on opposite sides. Trading was a give and take affair with neither side able to boast any great advantage gained as a result of the day's operations. Bulls struggled to carry their favorites to higher levels, and were successful in a measure, while the bears feeling for the top of the rally were able to make some impression prices at frequent intervals.

The leading motor shares behaved more encouragingly, with General Motors and Chrysler both indicating the presence of strong sponsorship for those shares in the market. Chrysler pushed ahead rather smartly yesterday, despite the price cut on one of its models announced early in the day. The reduction, however, was qualified by the statement that the line cut would be replaced with a new model. General Motors, according to current reports, is again feeling the influence of powerful financial interests long identified with the company who are understood to have substantially better prices in mind for that stock.

Persistent demand was reflected in new high prices for the year in Borden Company, which was a leader in the forward movement of the good stocks as a group late last week. Popularity of Borden is the result of a series of analysis by various firms recently which developed some interesting feature relative to the performance of that company since its huge expansion program got under way several years ago. The big point developed in the course of such studies is the disclosure that net profits of the company have increased at a pace substantially faster than the indicated gain in gross over a given period. In other words, it is suggested that the company has been able to absorb new units and co-ordinate their operations without the usual troubles of digestion.

Better Position Shown By Radio Trade

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE RADIO INDUSTRY is expected to enter its fall selling season in excellent condition and with prospects for doing business on a satisfactory basis. Due to the fact that the general business depression started at a time which is usually radio's busy season, the industry was one of the few major lines of activity which had a serious frozen inventory problem in the latter part of 1929.

The speed with which enormous surplus stocks were liquidated represents an outstanding merchandising accomplishment. It has been estimated that about $150,000,000 worth of "distress" radios have been sold since the beginning of the year. This means that substantially all of the surplus sets have been moved into the hands of the public.

It means that radio manufacturers, distributors and dealers will have only normal stocks on their hands when the next peak season starts.

Cut Price Period Over

LAST YEAR'S OVERPRODUCTION of the Radio Corporation of America amounted to about $32,000,000. This has been sold since January 1. This company's earnings for the first quarter, as well as those of other organizations in the business, were rather unsatisfactory due to the fact that special price concessions had to be made to move the enormous surplus of sets.

A large number of casualties among the weaker radio companies also contributed to the unsatisfactory price situation since the liquidations or reorganizations of these firms were accompanied by special sales offerings. The industry will be in better shape as a result of the weeding out process which accompanied the upset last fall.

Prices to Advance

ONE OF THE LARGEST companies has announced an advance in prices. It is generally believed that most of the new models to be placed on the market in the fall will be accompanied by upward adjustments in prices. In some cases this will take the form of smaller allowances on trade-in sets which have been taken at surprisingly high prices recently. Most traded-in sets have no value.

The price levels of a year ago may not be duplicated on sales this fall in all cases, according to opinions in the trade, but they are likely to be far more satisfactory to the industry than those prevailing recently.

Hope for Stability

THE RAPID GROWTH of the radio industry, going hand in hand with a succession of sudden technical developments, has made it outstanding among the prince and pauper industries. Perhaps no other type of business has undergone such rapid changes from prosperity to depression and back to prosperity again.

The industry now appears to be nearer a stabilized situation than at any time in the past. Sweeping changes in design are becoming less frequent although it is impossible to make any prediction as to what the future may hold along this line. Broadcast receiving sets may have passed through the major period of their engineering development or the trade may be on the verge of another era of transition to be brought about, perhaps, by television.

At many times the industry has suffered from too rapid a series of changes but complete technical stability would not be desirable. One reason for the growth of the industry has been the fact that sets have quickly become obsolete. Many radio owners are today using their third or fourth sets. A complete cessation of change would make market saturation a serious problem. A moderate rate of engineering development will keep the radio industry in a healthy state.

Diamond Exports To U. S. Show Big Drop

AMSTERDAM, May 13.—The exports of cut diamonds to the United States in the first four months of the year amounted to 21,878 carats, valued at $1,821,000, compared with 66,556 carats, valued at $6,956,000, in same time in the previous year. April figures show a small improvement compared with March.

Celotex Company Hearing May 20

NEW YORK, May 13.—Celotex Company won move for quick hearing on receivership action filed by David Adler in Chancery Court at Wilmington. Chancellor J. O. Walcott fixed May 20 for a hearing.

Daily Average Oil Production Gains

TULSA, May 13.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended May 10 totaled 2,597,441 barrels, an increase of 8,411 barrels daily, according to Oil and Gas Journal.

To the Voting Taxicab Drivers:

If, through change of address or other reason, your ballot does not reach you, it will be returned by the postoffice authorities to Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, at the office of Christ M. E. Church, Baum Blvd. and South Aiken Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and may be obtained from him by you at any time between the hours of 1 p. m. and 9 p. m. on next Wednesday, or between the hours of 10 a. m. and 11 a. m. on next Thursday, upon proper identification.

Be sure to get your ballot in time to vote. All votes must be in by 12 o'clock noon, Thursday, May 15th, 1930.

Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Striking Taxidrivers

BUILDING AIDS VALLEY MILLS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 13.—For the second week in May the iron and steel industry continues on an even keel in the Mahoning Valley, with schedules holding at 70 per cent and higher in flat rolled steels which are in demand by the automobile trade.

An encouraging feature of the local situation is in the enlarged activities of fabricating interests, which are steady consumers of steel products.

Automobile requirements are not as broad as last year at this time, but the makers of lower priced cars such as Ford and Chevrolet are taking substantial tonnages of sheets and strips. The Warren plant of Republic Steel Corporation is maintaining production at 85 per cent on flat steels, produced principally for the automobile industry. Newton Steel Company, catering also to the motor car trade, is running behind last year at this time. Sharon Steel Hoop, another large producer of automobile steels, is averaging 85 per cent.

Republic Steel Corporation averages 70 per cent; Carnegie Steel Company 68 per cent and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 65 per cent.

PAYROLL GAIN FOR APRIL

Now it's Fresh Meat the year 'round

Time was when "killing day" came once a year. The farmer selected a cold day late in the fall, and killed and dressed enough beef, pork and mutton, to last him and his neighbors a year. For a few days they enjoyed the rare treat of fresh meat. But most of the meat was "cured"—smoked, salted or dried—to preserve it for daily use throughout the winter and the following summer.

Modern systems of refrigeration and the butcher shop have changed all that. Thanks to these we have fresh meat the year 'round. So accustomed have we become to this luxury that we hardly appreciate the service performed by the neighborhood butcher in making it possible.

There are more than a thousand neighborhood butchers daily supplying Pittsburgh with fresh meats. Many of them are depositors at the Mellon National Bank, where accounts of this kind are always welcome.

NO. 197.
AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing an Agreement between the City of Pittsburgh and the Duquesne Light Company for electric energy service furnishing equipment for use at the Brilliant Pumping Station of the City of Pittsburgh.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works for the City of Pittsburgh are hereby authorized and empowered to enter into an agreement with the Duquesne Light Company, whereby the Light Company leases and sells, and the City leases from the Light Company, electric driven pumping equipment to be used at the Brilliant Pumping Station of the City of Pittsburgh, which agreement shall be as follows:

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT.
MADE and entered into this ——— day of ———, 1930, by and between the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (hereinafter referred to as the City), party of the first part, and Charles H. Kline, Director of the Department of Public Works of said City, duly having been duly authorized thereto by Ordinance of the Council of said City, party hereto of the second part, and the Duquesne Light Company, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (hereinafter referred to as "Company"), party of the second part.

WITNESSETH
WHEREAS—The City of Pittsburgh proposes to construct, operate and maintain an electric motor driven pumping station on the property known as the Brilliant Pumping Station property; and
WHEREAS—The City desires the Company to furnish certain electric equipment for said station.
NOW, THEREFORE, KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That for and in consideration of the premises, and the mutual agreements hereinafter contained herein, it is agreed by the parties hereto:
FIRST: The Company agrees to furnish and install, or have installed on foundations to be constructed by the City at the Brilliant Pumping Station, the following electric equipment:
Six motor driven centrifugal pumping units, each unit consisting of two centrifugal pumps in series and one synchronous motor, to be used for the purposes of pumping filtered water to the Highland Park Reservoir No. 2.
Three pumps shall normally serve each reservoir, but the City ——— may specify the design of certain of the units so that either reservoir may be served by such units.
Each unit shall be designed, constructed, dedicated and interchangeable pumps, and shall in all other respects conform to the specifications prepared by the Bureau of Water of the City of Pittsburgh.
SECOND: The Company will purchase such equipment at Pittsburgh after due advertisement and the submission of sealed competitive bids. The award of the contract for the purchase of said equipment shall be subject to the approval of the Director of the Department of Public Works, who shall also have full right of inspection and access to the pumping units during manufacture and erection and shall be authorized to make acceptance tests of the guaranteed performance of the units prior to final payments for the same by the City party, parties or [illegible] thereto. For the units shall be only made upon estimates of the Company approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works.
THIRD: The City agrees to construct and additional station, and to install therein all of the new electric equipment.
FOURTH: The Company agrees that in purchasing the equipment to be furnished it will obtain all the units from one manufacturer and the Company further agrees that it will extend every reasonable effort to have delivered one of the pumping units for No. 1 Reservoir at the earliest possible moment. This unit is intended to be erected upon temporary foundations in the present station building to serve as a reserve and standby unit during the construction of the proposed new station the unit will be removed to a new station at the cost of the City, the unit still remaining the property of the Company as herein set forth.
FIFTH: It is agreed that the electric equipment furnished by the Company will be installed on the foundations furnished by the City, and the City will make all connections and wiring connections necessary and will also provide the necessary machinery for erection of the synchronous motors.
SIXTH: The Company agrees to lease and to deliver to the City, and by these presents does lease and deliver to the said City the equipment furnished and to be installed by the Company for a period of ten years from the date of installation, this date being defined as the date when all the equipment is accepted by the Director of the Department of Public Works.
SEVENTH: As rental for the said electric equipment furnished by the Company to the City, the City agrees to pay the Company annually an amount equivalent to ten per cent of the total cost of the equipment, installed and in operation, which is to be paid as follows—The first payment shall be made one year after the date of installation and the remaining payments at intervals of one year thereafter, until ten payments have been made, providing however, that the City may, at its option, pay the remaining ten yearly period, and to purchase said equipment from the Company, in which event the City shall pay to the Company an amount equivalent to the total cost of the equipment, including the installation, less interest at the rate of 6% per annum thereon, and deducting therefrom the rental previously paid to the Company by the City, and interest on such payments, at the rate of 6% per annum to the date of such purchase.
For the purpose of defining the total cost which is to be the basis of the rental charges, the cost shall include the prices actually paid under aforesaid contracts with manufacturers and also interest at the rate of 6% per annum upon all partial payments from their dates of payments to the date of installation.
A. In the event of the ten-year period, ending the City has not elected to purchase the equipment as an earlier date, and the City having further that the Company is not at fault in any of its annual payments of rent, or otherwise in default under this agreement, the title to said equipment shall thereupon vest in the City of Pittsburgh.
B. So long as the City shall not have exercised its option to purchase the equipment at an earlier date, and until the final instalment of rent has been paid, title to all of said equipment shall be and remain in the Company, and no title thereto shall pass to the City.
EIGHTH: The Company shall purchase such equipment at Pittsburgh after due advertisement and the submission of sealed competitive bids. The award of the contract for the purchase of said equipment shall be subject to the approval of the Director of the Department of Public Works, who shall also have full right of inspection and access to the pumping units during manufacture and erection and shall be authorized to make acceptance tests of the guaranteed performance of the units prior to final payments for the same by the City party, parties or [illegible] thereto. For the units shall be only made upon estimates of the Company approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works.
NINTH: The City agrees to maintain, operate and repair all of said equipment during the term of this agreement and further agrees to indemnify and save harmless the Company from and against all claims, charges, costs or damages of whatsoever kind, which may arise from or by reason of the equipment being installed on City property, and operated by the City.
TENTH: The Company shall have the right, at all reasonable times, to enter upon the premises occupied by said equipment for the purpose of inspecting the same, and the City agrees to furnish to the Company, however, that the Company has given to the City notice of its intention to enter upon the premises for the purpose of inspection.
ELEVENTH: The City further agrees that it will take, while the lease herein provided is effective, electric service from the Company for the operation of the electric equipment, and will enter into a contract with the Company whereby the City agrees to take, and the Company agrees to furnish electric service under the regular electric tariffs of the Company.
TWELFTH: It is understood and agreed that this agreement is subject to the approval of the Public Service Commissions of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and in the event that the Commission shall refuse to approve this agreement, then the same shall become void and of no effect.
IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the contract is signed and executed for the City of Pittsburgh by Charles H. Kline, Director of the Department of Public Works, and the Duquesne Light Company has hereunto affixed its common and corporate seal, duly attested by the proper officers thereof.

DAILY TRUE STORY

The Smart Aleck

The young man with the Panama hat and blue serge suit, not to overlook the yellow shoes and blue and white polka dot tie, got off the bus at Mayville Center.

His suitcase was new and shiny. He carried it across the street and into the Mayville House.

Old Pete Juggins, who served as porter, bellhop and, in emergency, bootlegger, hadn't got the suitcase upstairs with the young man at his heels, before the five men lounging in the hotel "office" were bending over the register, reading the bold, flowing penmanship wherein the ink was not dry.

"Alexander Carter Green."

"Humph. I bet you that's th' widder Green's boy down to Epping," said Jed Spaulding, son of old Enos Spaulding, the town's Poo Bah, nabob and self-appointed monitor.

"If 'tis, he's goin' to work in th' bank," Sid Farnum said. "I heard they'd hired him."

"Pretty state of affairs," old Enos Spaulding complained, "when they have to go outside of our own town to get boys to work in th' bank and we with plenty of town boys who ought to get th' job."

Sid Farnum winked at Mr. Waller, proprietor of the Mayville House. They knew that old Enos had been trying his best to get his son Jed into the bank. It would be a big help to him in his real estate and mortgage business to know about the bank's affairs and how much balance every Mayville citizen had.

However, since it was no secret that Jed couldn't add two and four and have it come out the same three times out of three tries, it was something of a joke to them.

Alexander Carter Green came down the stairs into the hotel office.

"What time is dinner?" he asked.

The five men grinned at this.

"We had dinner twelve to two; it's five now; guess you're kind of late for it," Mr. Waller said, "but we have supper five to seven."

She Smiled Again

"Dinner at noon, eh? Quite provincial."

Betsey Rowe, who worked as waitress and custodian of the hotel linen, came in back of the counter, as she frequently did. Betsey was an eyeful.

Jed Spaulding went over to the cigar counter.

"Pipe the smart Aleck," he said, jerking his head toward the newcomer. Jed knew a lot of slang like that, such as "Cheese it" and "So's your old man."

Aleck Green went up to the counter and bought cigarets of Betsey, who smiled at him. Most girls did, because Aleck was worth any girl's smile of approval. He lighted a cigaret and said, "Pretty little town here miss."

"We like it," Betsey answered. She smiled again, a nice approving smile. Jed Spaulding didn't like it.

"He smokes 'n' everything," Jed said to Betsey, who turned red with embarrassment.

"So there's a circus in town, miss," Aleck said to Betsey.

"Why, no," she answered. Jed snickered.

"That's queer. I see one of their clowns is loose," Aleck remarked, looking Jed up and down.

It was Betsey's turn to laugh.

Jed scowled, opened his mouth ready to speak as soon as he could think of some snappy come-back but had to close his mouth again, as his brain wouldn't function to that extent.

Young Mr. Green sauntered out of doors and went up the street to the big white house on the corner.

"Yep," old Enos said, "he's goin' into Parker's place; he's goin' to be the new bank clerk. I hope he gives 'em plenty of bond."

"Can't trust these smart Aleck's," Jed put in.

Parker was president of the local bank.

Alexander Green went to work in the bank the next day. His home was in the village of Epping, some twenty miles away, but he had worked as clerk and assistant teller in a big city bank. He preferred a small town bank where a chap had a chance for promotion and he wanted to be nearer his mother than the hundred-mile-distant city.

Played Clumsily

Saturday afternoon Aleck hung around the poolroom in the hotel, which also harbored Mayville's solitary tonsorial parlor. Jed Spaulding and Joe Wilson were playing pool. Jed could play. Jed always had to have a handicap of at least four balls.

"Get that smart Aleck into a game; you know the old gag," Jed whispered.

Aleck played. Joe lost. He played clumsily.

"Bet you a dollar he beats next game," Jed said.

"If I win, fellow, how much of a deposit will you make on that dollar and how much monthly until the balance is paid?" Aleck asked.

It created a big laugh and Jed flashed a five-spot.

"Bet you that against 10 cents," he yelped, too sore to disguise his anger.

"Look here, Village Cutup," Aleck said to him, "I'll bet five against your five that I can play you and this chap together and beat you."

Joe Wilson nodded.

Jed scratched. Joe got two balls. Aleck sunk the rest without a pause, all named carom shots.

Aleck yawned, smiled at Betsey Rowe, who stood in the doorway and watched as far into a poolroom as feminine modesty in Mayville would permit.

Aleck took Betsey to the movies that night.

Enos Spalding was as sore as his son Jed. Enos wanted Jed to marry Betsey. Her mother had a lot of property and an income. It would come in handy for Jed.

A few months later Aleck and Betsey were seriously in love. Jed Spaulding was sitting on Betsey's porch one evening when Aleck called. He refused to run along. Aleck tossed him far into a lilac bush. Jed went home and told his old man.

"I'll fix him," Enos said.

He started a story to the effect that Aleck Green had run with gangsters in the city and had got the bank job only to get the lay of the place and clean it out.

Some people believed it.

When the county fair opened in the outskirts of Mayville Enos Spaulding boasted to Jed and a few cronies, men who owed him money and had to be cronies, that the smart Aleck at the bank would soon lose his job.

Scheme Fails

"A friend I met in the city who expects to buy the old mill property and build a big factory," Enos explained, "has a partner who is a sort of sleight-of-hand chap. He's going to the bank to get a big bill changed and he'll short change that lad—he'll sting him plenty, and then old Parker won't be able to keep a clerk who can't count money right."

Two dapper men came in chatting. Aleck sized them up from behind the grilled window. He looked at them long and thoughtfully.

"Wait," said one. "I've got to get some chicken feed; all I got is a century note." He stepped to the window and tossed down the $100 bill.

"Please give me three 20's, four 10's and four 5's for that," he said, and then: "No, make it 10 1's instead of a 5."

Aleck started to count money after examining the hundred.

"One 20, four 10's and 20 1's, did you say, or three 5's and a 20 and two 10's, with five 1's?"

Aleck talked twice as rapidly as the jaunty man outside the little window. He shoved out some bills, drew some back.

"Beg pardon, you haven't got enough; here, give me that 20. You get 10 1's and a 5, and now 10's, two? How many 1's? Ten? Oh, yes, instead of those three 5's—"

He hurried out, stuffing it in his pocket.

His friend and Enos followed him out. Around the corner he counted his money.

"I'm a pop-eyed crawfish!" yelped the dapper little man. "All I got was sixty-seven dollars. I could have sworn I had a hundred and fifty there!"

"Go right back," said Enos. The dapper man's partner shook his head.

"Enough is enough—shouldn't have gone at all," he whispered. They promised Enos to settle the big land deal the next day.

A Slick Artist

Alexander Green took thirty-three dollars to Mr. Parker.

"Add it to the conscience fund, Mr. Parker," he said, and explained about the would-be short-change man. "It was part of our training to be able to muddle the slickest short-change artists in the business."

Parker laughed so heartily that he had a coughing fit, but he stopped laughing when Alexander whispered something else to him.

"Sure?" Parker asked.

"Look up the old circulars," Aleck suggested.

That night there was a big street carnival, with a band.

At supper at the hotel Betsey whispered to Aleck:

"Old Spaulding is going to have you arrested. He says you stole thirty-three dollars from a poor friend of his, cheated him making change. Oh, Aleck, can't I help you?"

"You bet, just get witnesses to say that Enos Spaulding admitted getting these friends of his to come on from the city—forget the rest, resign your job tonight and get ready to go to a wedding at your mother's house right away. Can't take you to the carnival tonight, honey. Got more financial business."

Betsey was worried, but she trusted Aleck.

When the carnival was at its height on Main street, right in front of the bank, Aleck and Mr. Parker and Sheriff Tucker came around the corner with two men handcuffed. Aleck carried a big suit case. It was full of money. The dapper man and his pal, whom Enos Spaulding brought on from the city to buy the mill property, were noted bank-crackers and had done time. Aleck recalled their pictures on circulars. There were big rewards for both. Aleck, with Parker and the Sheriff hidden, let them out through the back window bars during the height of the carnival, let them gather the money after opening the safe, and then nabbed them.

Enos Spaulding never lived down the part about his "friends." He finally moved away with Jed.

The smart Aleck is vice-president of the bank now. He doesn't eat at the hotel, but goes home to his wife, Betsey, every night for dinner.

Persons denting fenders of unoccupied parked cars are now required by law to leave their cards in order that the victim may collect damages.

If this plan works, it might not be a bad idea to pass laws requiring—

1. Rubber check autographers to pin currency, equal to the amount of the swindle, on each and every voucher.

2. Require absent-minded surgeons to reopen all vases and see if they have forgotten anything.

3. Require prohibition enforcement officers to give half of all ill-gotten gains to honest officers' pension fund.

Mrs. McCormick Disproves Court Advocate's Remarks

Samuel Colcord, of 305 West One Hundred and Thirteenth street, New York City, official League of Nations propagandist in this country, was put in his proper place by Ruth Hanna McCormick, in her nation-wide radio broadcast Friday night.

Colcord had addressed a letter to United States Senators urging them not to believe that the League Court played an important part in Mrs. McCormick's smashing victory over Senator Deneen in the Illinois Republican primary.

Mrs. McCormick pointed out that in the campaign she spoke against the League Court in a hundred Illinois counties. Deneen in his first address devoted 8,000 words in defense of the League Court and, says Mrs. McCormick, "for 30 days he traveled through Illinois reiterating that defense. International organizations also flooded the state with pro-Court literature.

"I do not believe that an issue has ever been more clearly drawn and more thoroughly discussed than was this League Court issue in the Illinois primary."

On this issue she received 700,000 votes in the primary, which was 210,000 more than Deneen got and represented the greatest majority ever given to a candidate for the Senate in an Illinois primary.

It was promptly recognized and designated as a serious League Court defeat by Chicago and Illinois politicians.

It was promptly called a serious League defeat by the Chicago Daily News and the Chicago Journal of Commerce, Deneen's chief newspaper supporters in Chicago.

It was promptly called a serious League Court defeat in editorials in hundreds of newspapers from coast to coast.

It was promptly called a serious League defeat by Senators Pittman, Watson, Borah, Glenn, Trammel and Copeland.

All these expert and recognized interpreters of public opinion are discredited by Samuel Colcord who, from his League of Nations propaganda study at 305 West One Hundred and Thirteenth street, New York City, advises Senators to disregard the Illinois vote as a test of what our people think about joining the League of Nations Court.

Mrs. McCormick presents an analysis of the list of 60 prominent men and women who, without investigation, indorsed the Colcord interpretation of the Illinois vote.

It now appears that nobody on this list lives nearer Chicago than Cleveland, Ohio. Sixteen of them are from New York, the country's center of internationalism.

Mrs. McCormick's exposure of the stupid falsification for which Colcord is responsible may not have much effect upon the methods of that professional publicity agent, but it should serve to make prominent men and women a little less hasty in lending their names to indorsement of propaganda in the interest of foreign nations so crudely done that it makes author and indorsers alike ridiculous.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

The rocks contain timekeepers that were set chemically ticking when the rock was first formed, and have gone on ticking at the same rate, without once needing to be wound or regulated, ever since. These clocks are what are known as the radio-active elements radium, uranium, thorium and others which exist in certain minerals.

The work of Gecquerel on uranium, which speedily led to the discovery of radium, by Madame Curie in 1898, was the starting point for a series of researches which have altered our ideas on the constitution of matter, and incidentally given earth history a measurable chronology.

H. G. Wells

These radio-active elements, as everybody knows nowadays, shoot out particles of matter from their atoms, and in so doing transform themselves into different elements. They do this in such a way as to become effectual chronometers.

The particles given off are sometimes electrically charged atoms of the light gas, helium (which is a stable element and shows no further change), sometimes the far tinier electrons, the spinning bricks of which the atoms, save for their cores, are built.

Uranium is the parent of radium. After shooting of three atoms of helium and several electrons, it becomes radium. Radium then continues the process of change; it first discharges a gas, radium emanation, and finally, after five helium atoms have been shot away, becomes plain lead.

This, having stable atoms, does not change any more; the clock, so far as the lead atom is concerned, has run down, and we know of no means by which it can be wound up again.

The lead thus produced, though chemically quite normal, differs from ordinary lead in having an atomic weight of 206 instead of 207.2.

The whole process may be summed up by an equation: 1 atom of uranium equals 1 atom of uranium-lead plus 8 atoms of helium plus energy.

Thorium, another radio-active element, goes through a similar series of transformations, and after shooting out six atoms of helium, also ends up as lead. This lead, however, differs from uranium-lead in having an atomic weight of 206.

Now the bearing of all this on the computing of geological dates is very simple.

This disintegration does not go on haphazard and wildly. It is timed. Each of these transformations takes place at its own definite rate, as regularly and inevitably as the swing of a pendulum.

The physicist assures us that if we took a definite quantity of radium, say a milligram, then after 1,700 years there would be only half of it left—exactly half—the rest would have turned into helium, lead, and traces of the intermediate steps.

Uranium, on the other hand, is a slow disintegrator; you would only lose half your uranium after 4,500 million years.

Thorium, too, has its own particular speed of metamorphosis. But since the helium and the lead which are thus generated do not undergo any further changes, we can calculate precisely how long it would take for any given proportion of lead to be accumulated in a mineral containing uranium or thorium.

And so, if we can find a rock of, say Lower Carboniferous age (III El.) in which, when it was first formed, radio-active minerals containing uranium or thorium were crystallized out, we can tell its age in years by measuring the proportion of helium and of lead which has been produced in these minerals since they were first locked up in their rocky prison.

Lord Rayleigh measured the amount of helium produced by uranium-bearing minerals, and found that a gram of uranium would take 9,000,000 years to produce a cubic centimeter of helium, which agrees with calculations based on the rate of step-by-step transformation.

As regards lead, it can be calculated that a ton of uranium gives rise to 1-7, 400th of a gram of lead every year.

Thus if on analysis we find 1 per cent of lead in a uranium-containing mineral, this proportion must have taken one ninety-ninth of 7,400 million years to accumulate; while if there had been 10 per cent of lead, the time needed would have been one-ninth of 7,400 million years.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Some Teachers Act Dumb

We don't see how a Georgia professor can blame crime on coffee, tobacco and autos.

The coffee down in Georgia isn't that bad.

"Bugs" Baer

Neither is tobacco. The tobacco is very fine in Georgia except around election time in Atlanta.

The only way we can diagnose the professor's recipe is that you drink the coffee out of the saucer, get the tobacco in your eye and then try to drive the auto.

Of course, if Prof. Harper means coffee royale, that's a mechanic from a different garage.

If our memory doesn't hiccup, you made coffee royale by taking a demi-tasse of black mocha. Then you put a lump of sugar in a spoon, poured Napoleon brandy over the sugar and set fire to it.

The spoon was held over the coffee until the blaze died down and the contents of the spoon were dumped into the cup.

Cafe royale, as we say it in our set, was a round-about way of getting a sniffer of cognac. The lady who never took a drink in her life could swiffle cafe royale until it ran out of her ears and her tonsils got mildewed.

The neighbors couldn't talk because it isn't any harm to drink a cup of coffee. They might get suspicious when you started to lick the spoon.

The professor might as well blame crime on sneeze powders, gum drops and pogo sticks.

Why not give the credit to eggs? They still make rum omelets in certain scattered sections of America.

That was another tasty dish of pre-amendment days. You poured the rum, or its equivalent in nitro-glycerine over the omelet and applied an acetylene torch to the gravy.

The dish wasn't so fine but the sauce was excellent. When the liquid got too hot you fanned it with your hat like a gentleman to the manner born. Then you gulped the rum and slapped the waiter in the face with the omelet.

We have been out of school so long that we can afford to disagree with the professor. If he is going to establish a life of crime on tobacco and coffee then we know that his fingerprints will never thunder down in history with the arch thugs of the world.

We drink 11 cups of coffee a day, smoke a boatload of cigarets and ride often in our friends' motor cars. If we ever rob a bank we won't blame it on coffee. Judges and juries may be dumb, but that dumb they are not.

The professor should take another dive into his inkwell and come up with another set of answers.

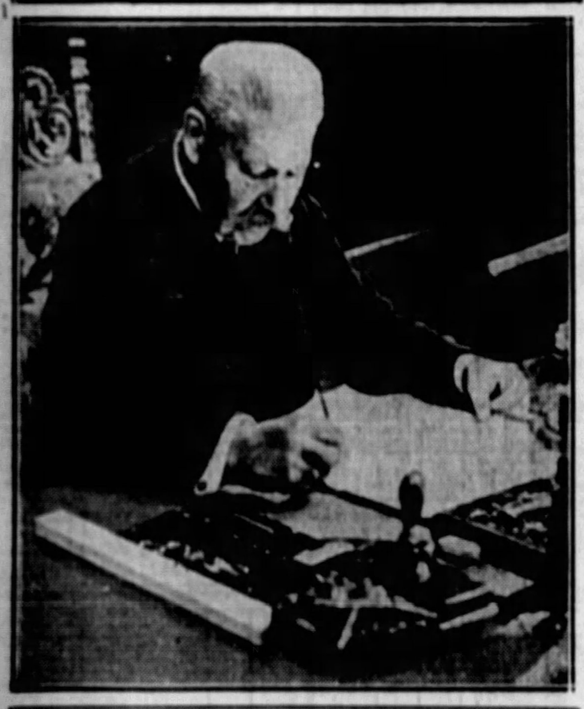
A Grand Old Man

Sincere, Simple, Upright, Courageous—Von Hindenburg.



PRESIDENT VON HINDENBURG OF THE GERMAN REPUBLIC AT WORK ON HIS EIGHTY-SECOND BIRTHDAY

Here is a man to be honored for his courage in war, his loyalty in old age. He was the outstanding fighting figure in the Germau Army, although the war found him past 70 and retired.

Like Clemenceau, who fought so savagely and successfully against him, Von Hindenburg proved that age does not smother the fires of courage.

Clemenceau THOUGHT his way through the war, going himself to the front trenches, risking his life, SAVING HIS COUNTRY.

He is not only courageous and able, but something much more than that.

HE IS FAITHFUL TO THE TRUST OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE.

Those who felt that the Kaiser's old general would be THE KAISER'S MAN did not know Von Hindenburg or the German character.

Von Hindenburg, when he became President, took the oath to serve the Republic of Germany.

He has stood like a rock loyally, while the German people have gathered themselves together, healed the wounds of war and rebuilt amazingly their industries and prosperity in the face of the hard conditions of the Treaty of Versailles.

Germany will not forget this noble man, who in his persistent courage recalls to mind his splendid countryman, Baron Von Stein, a great figure in the history of Europe's war against Napoleon.

THE SCIENCE SUPREME

By Archibald Henderson

The truth! That is the thing we are all, consciously or unconsciously, in search of. The artist may seek it in pigment or marble, the moralist in the domain of virtue and religion, the philosopher in the realm of contemplation.

The passion for certitude deludes and obsesses us all; we grasp for it and find only a shadow.

In mathematics alone may pure truth, recognizable as such, be found. As Keyser in his "Universe and Beyond" says:

"The domain of mathematics is the sole domain of certainty. There and there alone prevail the standards by which every hypothesis respecting the external universe and all observations and all experiments must finally be judged. It is the realm to which all speculation and all thought must repair for chastening and sanitation—the court of last resort, I say it reverently, for all intellection whatsoever, whether of demon or man or deity."

One of the most prevalent and familiar delusions is the view that mathematics is a science derived from experience. It is quite true that mathematics formulates many truths which are roughly and approximately exhibited in the domain of experience. But the whole meaning and spirit of modern mathematics are embodied in the view that experience is a treacherous and deceptive guide.

Many illustrations might be given to show that experience, or the results of sense perception, cannot be relied on to supply mathematical truth. Take the following convincing illustration supplied by Prof. Moritz:

"Consider a band of color, say 100 feet long, which changes continuously from pure white at one end to black at the other. Suppose now that the band is divided into segments, each one inch in length—1,200 segments in all. No human eye is now able to distinguish between the colors of two consecutive segments.

"Let us note the colors of successive segments by A, B, C, . . . X, Y, Z. Then so far as the human eye can judge, A is equal to B, B is equal to C and so on, until finally Y is equal to Z. But we know that A is not equal to Z, since A is white and Z is black.

"Experience in this case fails to verify the axiom that things which are equal to the same thing are equal to each other."

Until comparatively recently, the view prevailed that mathematics is logic. The greatest American mathematician, Benjamin Pierce, gave the plausible definition that mathematics is the "science which draws necessary conclusions;" and Whitehead similarly defines mathematics as "the development of all types of formal, necessary, deductive reasoning."

The insufficiency of this view was exposed by the great French mathematician, Poincare, who denied that mathematics could be "reduced to an immense tautology" when he said, "If mathematics were logic alone, it could only begin and end with the enunciation of identity—a futile and useless circle."

The real meaning of the word geometry is the science of earth measurement. But no one would contend that geometry, as we know it today, is concerned, except in the most incidental way, with the measurement of the earth.

Geometry originated as the result of the need for development of the science of measurement of the earth, but it has since risen into the illimitable realm of imagination and fancy.

Geometry does not deal with actual constructions, tangible figures drawn on the blackboard or laid out on the ground. No physical measurement or representation can be made with absolute precision.

Mathematics deals with ideal relationships. It traces the pattern, constructs the ideal framework underlying the manifold phenomena of the physical world. The figures, objects and appearances of the world of sense are mere approximations to the ideal constructs or mathematics.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

They May Never Come True

They may never come true,
All the things I would do
To make your life joyous and sweet;
They may prove but the gleam
Of an over-bright dream,
Instead of a lamp for your feet.
Well I know hopes may wane,
Yet I cannot refrain
From this building of castles in air;
They may never come true,
Yet their towers touch heaven's blue,
Castles built just for you, everywhere!
There is seldom an hour
When some wish does not flower,
Some wish that is born for your good;
They may never come true,
But my wishes for you
Would make each hour glad if they could!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Why do nine out of ten men vow that "you can't trust a woman?" Aren't women trustworthy? Sure they are. More or less. Just like other humans. But there's the rub. No man ever tries to trust a woman—as is. He trusts his ideal of the woman, as he thinks she should be. And the average man's ideal of a woman has about as much relationship to the real articles as an aeroplane has to a wheelbarrow.

To begin with, men don't want to think the truth about women. They don't want a sex with like passions and weaknesses—a sex which will understand them all too well and probably beat them to it. They want idealistic creatures, untainted by mortal fatality, who, when married, will give their husbands the vicarious thrill of enjoying all the virtues which said husbands wouldn't dream of practicing themselves. In short, when it comes to Purity, Modesty and Reliability, John Henry expects the Dear Little Woman to do it for him. She is to be his "wish fulfillment" of all the righteousness he can't be bothered with himself.

And naturally, no normal female is going to deny these lovely allegations. Most of Us Girls think we're pretty nice, anyway, even without masculine confirmation. When it comes to putting these theoretical virtues into practice, that may be a different story.

But while we're just playing around, it's no great strain to live up to John Henry's rosey picture—and we'd be superhuman if we didn't enjoy the role. So the romantic comedy of errors goes on.

As a matter of fact, any women who felt or acted as men think they do and should, would be fit only for Ringling's, along with the human skeleton, the glass eater and the five-legged calf. But you can't expect women to admit that, and the men would certainly deny it with horrified shrieks. For John Henry is firmly convinced that women are that way because he wants them to be that way. So, in this stubborn and delightful delusion, he marries one of them.

Then what happens? Plenty. For the lady proceeds to function like the normal human being which she is. She is a little lazy, somewhat unreasonable, fibs now and then, gossips a bit, throws a few tantrums, perhaps even flirts a trifle. In short, acts as human as her husband and refuses to live up longer to the tiresome role of Sugar Angel. Whereupon her indignant husband decides he has been tricked by a deceitful hussy and proceeds to indulge in an orgy of resentment and self pity.

But has she cheated him? Hasn't he, rather, cheated himself by his refusal to recognize reality, by substituting a pretty fantasy in its place?

Why should we expect any human to be better than we are, ourselves? Or get mad at him if he isn't?

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

"I think I remember seeing you when we were in college," says the young man to the young woman, when they were introduced at a party. "You ain't been long out of Chicago U, have you?"

"Nope, not long. But I don't seem to remember you."

"No, I reckon not. I just saw you once, and that was when some guy was trying to kiss you."

"Did he succeed?"

"No, I'm sure he didn't."

"Well, that wasn't me, I can assure you."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 13.—There is a short little theatrical alley a stone's toss westward from the Hotel Astor that is like one of those odd little streets in the London of Dickens. It changes from stilted silence to boiling activity every few hours.

And when it bubbles with life there is always an arresting moment for the casual passerby. I have seen a group of girls in bloomers tapping out the rhythm of a new dance there at 10 o'clock in the morning, and I have seen acrobats practicing back-flips and hand stands after midnight.

Between acts of the surrounding theaters in the evening men in silk hats and ladies in decollette gowns gather there in the blazing gush of light to promenade and puff cigarets. Street beggars find it a mid-town paradise.

There is a story that one of the great theatrical managers takes players there for a talk before signing a contract. He believes it presages good luck. Many playwrights go there too to meditate while in the throes of creation. On the Rialto the place is known as "Shubert Alley."

Around the luncheon hour it takes on the color of one of those street scenes from a tropical revue, churning with actors, Broadway reporters, chorus girls and a soupcon of booking agents and costumers. A hurdy gurdy grinds out tunes and often a street band adds oom-pahs to the medley.

The patter is professional lingo. There is good natured shoving about, hoots and back patting. Stars are hailed by first names. Bootleggers are there with their order books. Also racing touts with hot tips. And vain boasters discussing the economic fear they call ambition.

Just as suddenly it becomes drab and gray. The only figure seen is an old stage door keeper tilted in his backless chair sucking at his pipe and perusing a copy of Variety. Like the interior of a theater "Shubert Alley" can show colossal restraint or reckless abandon.

They are still discussing the Chinese actor Mei Lan-Fang who took artistic New York by storm. Some had to see him many times before fathoming the mass of intricate conventions that surround the Chinese art of acting. But like eating olives, the taste is gradually acquired. I found his monotonous falsetto utter boredom. Trained seals would have been a relief.

Florence Walton, who won renown as a ballroom dancer with the feather-footed Maurice, is prospering as the proprietress of a gown shop in the rue St. Florentin in Paris. She is definitely through with the stage.

The other night in a theater I saw a little girl of 7 lead an orchestra with all the delicate emphasis of the musical expert yet an irascible gentleman a row ahead snorted: "A brat that young should be in bed."

It has always been my notion the gangster is solely the product of environment. But it remains for Don Clarke in his "Louis Beretti" to give the belief superb clarity. His hero, a gangster, says: "I was what it was the most regular thing to be when I grew up. And it was a tough spot. I'd probably been a Boy Scout if I'd been born in a Boy Scout neighborhood."

The way to eat broiled lobster, according to an authority on table etiquet, is to be supplied with a number of various sized dainty forks. A better way is to put on a bathing suit and sit in a bathtub.

A persuasive gentleman with a profile suggesting an armadillo just dropped in to announce that he was taking stock subscriptions for a beauty culture magazine. And I came within an inch of becoming a small stockholder.

"You frequently," writes Theater Goer, "take a poke at chattering white-ermined ladies, coughers, out-loud talkers and other pests of the theater. Why not hurl a javelin at those who come to the theater full of cocktails and hiccup through the performance?"

I'm not the type. I used to do a little free-hand hiccuping myself.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Why worry because you have been unable to establish yourself in a certain society set that seems to please you?

What would it be worth to you if you were accepted?

Self-satisfaction is about all, isn't it?

Would you gain anything in an intellectual way?

Brains are not a requisite to membership in this clique, are they?

Then the crowd you long for is pleasure bent, principally.

You are lively and active and like a good time and lots of it.

The person who can qualify for this set you admire must not have too sensible ideas; and "not modern enough," not enough "pep," is its opinion of you, perhaps.

There is plenty of froth, but little that is solid or helpful.

But you think the crowd is composed of society leaders and you haven't much back of you and you'd like to get in.

If your goal were real prominence you would not have much time to waste with the demands of society.

When you have carved your way to greatness, society will be seeking you, not you society.

Build yourself a high place and you will be sought.

Text For Today Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God; therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not. Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.—I John, iii:1-3.
